BROOKS WARNS OF WAR PERIL IN NEW LEAGUE

Republicans Lose Treaty Fight

BY WILLIAM MOORE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3—Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] gave the senate solemn warning today that the new league of nations can put the United States into war before congress ever gets the opportunity to vote on a declaration of war.

Sen. Brooks

Brooks' warning came just before senate Republican leaders were flattened by the internationalist steam roller in a bitter battle to retain the senate's power of ratification of the treaty by which President Truman can bind the United States to provide American fighting men for the league's global police force.

Proposal Is Defeated

The internationalists defeated a proposal that the senate keep this power by a vote of 57 to 14, in the face of protests by Sen. Donnell [R., Mo.] that the American Constitution and the league's own charter are authorities for ratification by the senate. The vote means that the treaty may be authorized by a simple majority vote of the house and senate, instead of the constitutional two-thirds majority of the senate.

Donnell was the author of an amendment to place the senate's traditional power of ratification in the bill authorizing the President to appoint American representatives to the league and permit the principal representative to send this country to war without consulting congress.

Three Day Debate

Debate has raged for three days over the ratification, with Republicans charging that sponsors of the league have welshed on their promise that the senate would ratify all American treaties related to the league.

When the bill came from the senate foreign relations committee, the majority vote of both houses had been substituted for senate ratification. Sen. Connally [D., Tex.] is chairman of the committee and Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] is the dominant Republican member. Both were members of the American delegation that helped write the league charter at San Francisco.

A Vandenberg Admission

After Vandenberg had given his blessing today to the plan for depriving the senate of its two-thirds vote ratification, Brooks told the senate that Connally, Vandenberg, and John Foster Dulles, adviser to the American delegation at San Francisco, had all indicated their preference for senate ratification when the senate was being urged to ratify the charter. Vandenberg admitted this was true.

"Now will the senator tell us," Brooks shouted, "what has happened since the leaders received such an overwhelming majority vote on the charter, with the understanding certainly that every one of us believed that all the leaders at that time were for ratifying the agreement as a treaty? What has caused the change of unanimous opinion?"

The Senator's Reply

Vandenberg replied that he had no personal objection to going against the committee version of the bill, but said that under the two-house majority plan the welfare of America would be in the hands of 266 members of the house and senate [a majority] rather than 64 senators [two thirds of the senate].

"If we go to war," Vandenberg said, "a majority of the house and senate puts us into war. Yet the argument here is that a majority of the house and senate cannot be trusted to keep the peace. I submit that the amendment ought not to be adopted."

Vets' Surgeon Assails Social Medicine Plan

BY ROY GIBBONS

Maj. Gen. Paul R. Hawley, acting surgeon general of the veterans' administration, yesterday made it clear to members of the house of delegates of the American Medical association that he is opposed to any form of socialized medicine.

In an address before the policy making group at its annual meeting in the Palmer House, Hawley said: "Free and uncontroled medicine can solve its own problems and doesn't need the government to tell it how."

Hawley declared he would "quit at once" if any attempt is made to prevent him from bringing the best in medicine to the veteran. He added: "I don't want to see government control medicine, altho I have been in government service 30 years."

Altho Hawley did not refer to President Truman's recent proposal to congress calling for the enactment of compulsory sickness insurance and establishment of a nationwide system of government supported health agencies, physicians attending the conference said there was little doubt in their opinion that Hawley's remarks were inspired by the President's socialized health program.

Mad at Congress

In an interview after his address, Hawley said he was "made mad enough last week to quit" by the action of congress in lopping $158,320,000 from a bill for veterans' hospitals. This amount, which later was tentatively restored to the deficiency appropriation, had been cut "unthinkingly" from the bill, Hawley asserted, by committee members "who didn't realize what they were doing."

Hawley also disclosed a plan by which he said the veterans' administration expects vastly to increase its medical care of disabled veterans suffering from service connected disabilities. He said the plan, which has been worked out in Michigan and Kansas, calls for the medical associations of those two states to bill the government for medical service rendered to veterans by individual member physicians.

Police Own Members

A contract to put the plan in operation is almost ready for signing, he said. The measure, he related, will enable voluntary medicine to police its own members and do away with the possibility of any kind of scandal over bills for services which the state associations will pay to member physicians after the associations have been reimbursed by the government.

In Kansas, he said, the state medical association is participating only indirectly in the plan, which probably will be extended to other states as soon as negotiations are concluded.

Hawley criticized some congressmen who, he charged, are motivated more by "patronage" than by realistic consideration in their recommendations for the location of

How Captain Won the Wife of Lieutenant

Dubuque, Ia., Dec. 3 [Special]—It was springtime in London; he had a three day pass after flying 35 missions over Germany in a fighter plane, and he met a red haired girl at a dance.

Lt. Harold Carbone

Shyly and diffidently, Capt. Darrell Beschen, 25, of the army air forces, told the story tonight at his mother's home here of his first meeting with the former Jean Gloor, 19, daughter of a London dress designer, and wife of former Army Lt. Harold Carbone.

Love at First Sight

He and Jean fell in love at their first meeting, he explained, and are still in love. Jean, who flew from London to Chicago last week as Mrs. Carbone but met the captain at the Chicago airport and went with him to Dubuque, said she feels the same way about it. Both said they are terribly sorry for the ex-lieutenant.

In Rochester, N. Y., where Carbone is a GI student at the University of Rochester, Carbone was reported to have engaged a lawyer with instructions to take "appropriate action." Carbone's romance with Jean antedated that of Capt. Beschen by a few months. He married her in London Nov. 8, 1944, and was shipped home a month later.

Sees Arrival Picture

Carbone said his first knowledge that his wife had come to this country was gained yesterday when he saw a newspaper picture of her alighting from a plane in Chicago. He had sent her $605 to make the trip, he said. His attorney, George Ryder, was quoted in Rochester as saying he is investigating the possibilities of a suit for alienation of affections.

Carbone denied he is contemplating any immediate action for divorce and said he "would let things ride a while."

Beschen said Jean will become the mother of his child in about three months and that they plan to marry as soon as she can get a divorce.

"And my sister, Dorothy, is going to teach her American ways," he said. Dorothy, 17, is a Dubuque high school student.

Concerning the Money

Beschen said he wants to deny emphatically that Jean took her plane trip to this country on money provided by Carbone.

"She used money I sent her," he asserted. "The lieutenant's money has been placed in a bank in London, and we are making arrangements to have it returned to him."

Referring to the start of their romance, he said that Jean asked him to her home the night he met her at a dance. The Gloor home made a practice thruout the war of maintaining open house for American soldiers and it was a regular thing for several of them to be entertained there, he said. He took her home.

Sees Her Often

In the next few months he spent all his leaves in London with Jean, he said. He flew another 30 missions over Germany for a total of 65 before the war ended.

Beschen is under orders to report Saturday at Santa Ana, Cal., for reassignment. He said he plans to leave Wednesday and that Jean will remain at the Beschen home here.

Immigration officials in both Washington, D. C., and Omaha, Neb., said Jean's entry into this country on a nonquota visa is legal because of her status as the wife of a citizen and former soldier. The fact that she came here to meet another man and with no intention of joining her husband is immaterial so far as immigration laws are concerned, they agreed.

U. S. ARMY PLANE AND 13 ABOARD MISSING ON PARAGUAY FLIGHT

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 3 (AP)—Uruguayan radio stations tonight reported a United States army plane with 13 persons aboard had been missing since 10:30 a. m., en route from Asuncion, Paraguay, to Montevideo, a distance of 650 miles.

27 Killed in France

PARIS, Dec. 3 [Reuters]—Twenty-seven persons were killed when a four engined British plane crashed at Trizay, near Rochefort, near the mouth of the Charente river today. The plane, flying from Malta, was caught in a heavy thunderstorm and struck by lightning.

Before crashing onto a bridge at Trizay the plane lost its tail and the left wing, including the outside engine, broke off in midair. The body of the plane was found about a mile from the place of the accident. It contained the bodies of five members of the crew and twenty-two passengers, all apparently British soldiers going home on leave.

Navy Plane Hunted

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 3 (AP)—United States planes fighting heavy winds searched tonight for a United States navy plane missing on an Alaska-Seattle flight with 15 persons, believed to be navy personnel, aboard. The missing plane left Kodiak, Alaska, on the 1,000 mile trip Saturday. Since then violent gales have swept the British Columbia coast.

Hope Is Bright for 'Blue Baby' Once Doomed

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 3 (AP)—Living proof of a surgical miracle brought rosy cheeked Judith Hackman, 2, from Buckley, Wash., today in the hope that operative genius can do for her what it did for Charles [Dickey] Walker—save her from the doom of a "blue baby."

Judy flew from Seattle to Baltimore to undergo examination at the Johns Hopkins hospital which will decide whether the famous "Blalock operation" will be performed. Accompanying her were her mother, Mrs. Henry Hackman; the family doctor, F. C. Wilson, and Herby, her doll.

"A Year to Live"

Doctors told her parents that Judy had only a year to live, because not enough blood gets to her lungs to sustain life. But then Mrs. Hackman heard of Dickey Walker, 4, another Washington "blue baby."

On July 15, 1945, the same early death threatened him as it does Judy today. But Dr. W. W. Bacon of Seattle brought him to Hopkins for an operation discovered by Dr. Alfred Blalock and Dr. Helen B. Taussig. Dr. Blalock is Hopkins' professor of surgery. Dr. Taussig is chief of the cardiac clinic at the Harriet Lane home for Invalid Children at Hopkins. The operation was performed July 18.

Full of Pep

The Hackmans learned from Dr. Bacon that now Dickey is full of pep and doesn't seem to tire under any circumstances. His blue tinge is gone. They hoped that Dr. Blalock could do the same for their daughter—make a good artery help a deficient one get enough blood into the lungs for oxygenation.

The operation—performed for the first time last February—doesn't help all "blue babies," but early examinations indicated, Dr. Bacon told Dr. Taussig, that Judy was among the lucky ones who perhaps can be aided. Sixty-four such operations have been performed with 80 per cent success among patients in the proper category.

HILTON, CHAIN HOTEL OWNER, HERE ON DEAL

Stevens His Other Chicago Holding

New York, Dec. 3 [Special]—New York financial circles heard today that the Palmer House, Chicago loop hotel which has been in the Palmer family's ownership since the Civil war, is being sold to Conrad M. Hilton in a 19 million dollar transaction.

Conrad M. Hilton

Hilton, at the height of a spectacular hotel career which he started without a dime 20 years ago, purchased Chicago's Stevens hotel last Feb. 15 for a reported 7½ million dollars, and is in Chicago closing the deal for the Palmer House.

Owns Numerous Hotels

Owner also of the Roosevelt and Plaza in New York, the Town House and Ambassador in Los Angeles, and a dozen other hotels in other cities, Hilton went to Chicago several days ago after it was reported the Palmer family had decided to let go of the Palmer House.

The Palmer House, at State and Monroe sts. and Wabash av. in Chicago, was where Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, with Mark Twain beside him on a balcony, addressed State st. crowds before sitting down to a banquet probably unequaled among Lucullan feasts.

What influenced the Palmer family's decision to sell was a mystery to New York financial quarters. It was one of two Chicago hotels that did not go into receivership in the early 30s and has benefited by the war and post-war hotel boom.

Almost Like Alger Hero

Hilton, if the Palmer House deal goes thru—and there is every assurance here that it will—will be one of the most famous chain hotel proprietors in the world. His life story is almost an Horatio Alger epic. Born in the small town of San Antonio, N. M.—population for the last 150 years about 500—he was graduated from the New Mexico Military academy at Santa Fe and from the school of mines—a mining engineer—at Socorro, N. M.

But he never made use of his technical knowledge of mining. His father, A. H. Hilton, merchant, rancher, and wool buyer, had a family of eight. One by one they left San Antonio and soon he was induced to turn his roomy home into a hotel—and that was the first Hilton hotel.

First "Hilton House"

Connie Hilton worked in this first Hilton hotel during summer vacations from the military academy and the school of mines. It was his first hotel experience. Ranchers for miles around came for the good cooking there, traveling salesmen arranged to spend the week-end at this first "Hilton House."

Hilton emerged from the army at the end of World War I. a second lieutenant, decided to capitalize on the only business he knew anything about—the hotel business. He borrowed money, bought a small hotel in Cisco, Tex. He made money, invested in hotels in Fort Worth, Dallas, and Corsicana, Tex., and soon he owned these hostelries.

He remained for some years the owner of a string of southern hotels, then became the owner of a hotel in Long Beach, Cal., and not long afterward announced the purchase of the swank Town House in Los Angeles. His most recent purchase there was the Ambassador, acquired only a few weeks ago.

HILTON REFUSES COMMENT

Conrad M. Hilton, reached last night in Chicago at the Stevens hotel, said he had nothing to say except that he was "negotiating" for the purchase of the Palmer House. He refused to give any details. Calls to representatives of the Palmer House and Palmer estate failed to add to this information.

Two Battle in Auto in Lincoln Park

Erwin P. Bremer, 39, a paroled ex-convict sought for a series of recent hotel holdups, was shot and killed yesterday by Detective Raymond O'Hara in Lake Shore dr., Lincoln park, 200 feet southeast of Diversey pkwy. and Sheridan rd., after Bremer had shot O'Hara in the left arm.

O'Hara, who is 40 and lives at 6146 Addison st., was driving to work, accompanied by his wife, Ruby. In Sheridan rd., between Belmont av. and Diversey pkwy., he saw an automobile license plate 583-145, which he recognized as the license of a car used in several recent hotel holdups.

License Plates Differ

He drove alongside and then pulled ahead, when he noted that the front license plate bore a different number. The car shot past O'Hara, who followed it until it halted for a red light at Diversey pkwy. O'Hara pulled alongside and, drawing his gun, stepped to the left hand door and ordered the driver to get out.

Bremer refused. Mrs. O'Hara pulled in front of Bremer's car to block escape. O'Hara walked around the car, entered by the right hand door, and told Bremer to drive to Sheffield av. station.

Convict Tries to Escape

Two hundred feet inside the park, Bremer thrust his hand inside his overcoat, drew a .38 caliber revolver and fired a shot that struck O'Hara in the left arm, at the same time seizing the muzzle of the detective's revolver. O'Hara jerked his gun away and emptied it into Bremer's body. Bremer slumped dead over the wheel and the car stopped after running off the road.

Mrs. O'Hara, meanwhile, had continued to the detective bureau.

Had Long Police Record

Bremer had a police record dating back to June 13, 1922, when he was placed on probation for one year on a larceny charge.

On Feb. 28, 1925, he was sentenced to Joliet for armed robbery. He was paroled April 12, 1935. He was again sentenced to Joliet for armed robbery Jan. 23, 1936. He was paroled last July.

One of the license plates on the car Bremer was driving was stolen from John Mangini, 4723 Palmer st., Nov. 30. The other was stolen from David Drinan, 2422 N. Kostner av., yesterday. The car itself, the property of James J. Kerwin, 3337 Eastwood av., was stolen Saturday from a garage at 4535 N. Kedzie av.

Bandit's Body Identified

Four Nov. 29 hotel holdup victims last night identified Bremer's body in the morgue. They are Gordon Cochrane, night auditor of the Del Prado hotel, 5307 Hyde Park blvd., robbed of $100; Ray McMechan, night manager of the Millsfield apartments, 3933 Clarendon av., robbed of $18.90; Armand Goldman, night manager of the Webster hotel, 2150 Lincoln Park West, robbed of $55, and F. J. McDodd, night manager of the Embassy hotel, 2756 Pine Grove av., robbed of $170.

David Beyers, 47, of 5434 Kenmore av., an ex-convict who served a term in Joliet for tax fixing, was seized for questioning. He admitted he knew Bremer while they were in the state prison.

William Joseph Feeney, 38, of 1223 Burling st., a parolee and truck driver whose telephone number was found in Bremer's pocket, also was taken into custody.

UNIONS OPPOSE TRUMAN PLAN TO END STRIKES

Message Calls for Emergency Panels

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3—President Truman's proposal for solution of the hydra-headed labor situation drew rapid approval in congress today, but was regarded with cold suspicion in labor circles.

In a surprise message Mr. Truman asked congress for authority to establish a system of fact finding boards to cope with labor disputes along the lines of the emergency board provided under the railway labor act.

The President proposed a ban on strikes or lockouts for at least 30 days—five after certification of a dispute by the secretary of labor, 20 for the fact finding board to deliberate, and five more.

He cited such widespread industries as steel, automobile, aviation, mining, oil, utilities, and communications as those to which the new legislation should apply.

At the same time he fired an appeal to the warring labor and management factions in the General Motors strike and asked "all the workers to return to work immediately." Further, he requested General Motors corporation to proceed energetically with full production.

Auto Union Responds

The plea brought prompt response from the auto union, whose leaders in Detroit announced opposition to the proposal, but said that a conference of General Motors workers would be held there Saturday to consider it. [Details on page 2.]

Pending congressional action on his program, Mr. Truman announced that he was setting up a fact finding board to deal with the General Motors strike and would set up another to consider the threatened steel walkout.

The White House later announced that membership of the fact finding boards for the General Motors and steel disputes would not be announced today.

Explaining his plan for the fact finding procedure, the President's message stated:

"In industrial disputes in such industries, where collective bargaining has broken down and where the conciliation service of the federal government has been unable to bring the parties to agreement, and where the secretary of labor has been unable to induce the parties voluntarily to submit the controversy to arbitration, I recommend the following procedure:

"Upon certification by the secretary of labor to the effect that a dispute continues despite his efforts, and that a stoppage of work in the affected industry would vitally affect the public interest, the President, or his duly authorized agent, should be empowered to appoint, within five days thereafter, a fact-finding board similar to the emergency board provided for under the railroad labor act.

Would "Freeze" Status

"I recommend that during these five days after the secretary of labor has made the above certificate, it be unlawful to call a strike or lockout, or to make any change in rates of pay, hours, or working conditions, or in the established practices in effect prior to the time the dispute arose.

"The board should be composed of three or more outstanding citizens, and should be directed to make a thoro investigation of all the facts which it deems relevant in the controversy. In its investigation it should have full power to subpena individuals and records, and should be authorized to call upon any government agency for information or assistance. It should make its report within 20 days, unless the date is extended by agreement of the parties with the approval of the President. The report should include a finding of the facts and such recommendations as the board deems appropriate.

"While the fact-finding board is deliberating and for five days thereafter it should be made unlawful to call a strike or lock-out, or to make any changes in rates of pay, hours, working conditions or established practices, except by agreement.

"The parties would not be legally bound to accept the findings or follow the recommendations of the fact-finding board, but the general public would know all the facts. The result, I am sure, would be that in most cases both sides would accept the recommendations, as they have in most of the railway labor disputes."

Regret Conference Failure

Management of the auto and steel industries acknowledged receipt of White House telegrams announcing the President's intention of conducting findings into the facts in accordance with the program he advanced, in which he expressed regret that the labor-management conference had failed to arrive at an agreement on strike settling machinery, which necessitated government action.

Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United States Steel corporation, said in a statement issued in New York that the matter will receive prompt attention and an early reply will be sent Mr. Truman. Charles E. Wilson, head of General Motors, said in a statement also issued in New York that his company will withhold comment pending study.

Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, indorsed the principle of fact finding in a statement, but reserved judgment on any specific proposals "until I learn what form and scope legislation might assume."

Opposed by Green

In the meantime, organized labor here indicated opposition to the plan to end strikes. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor said flatly it was his judgment that the fact finding scheme would be unacceptable to labor.

"The principles and policies incorporated in the railway labor act are in no way suited to private industry as a whole," he said. "The proposal for fact finding will operate disadvantageously to both employers and workers in many cases. The AFL cannot approve this legislation."

Spokesmen for the CIO and the United Mine Workers of America would not be quoted, but made it clear their organizations would oppose the plan.

On Capitol hill Republicans and Democrats joined in supporting the temperate Presidential message which proposed a separate board of three or more "outstanding citizens" to investigate all facts relating to each major labor dispute. Disputants would not be legally bound to accepting the findings of the groups, which would have full power to subpena any records.

The President expressed the conviction, however, that both sides would accept any recommendations. He held that giving the public all the facts would serve to induce both sides to accept board findings and recommendations, which would be reported to the White House within 20 days after the creation of such boards.

Sen. Taft [R., O.], who proposed fact finding legislation four years ago with Sen. Ball [R., Minn.] which was blocked by the administration, expressed gratification that President Truman had reversed the administration position.

Should Be Impartial

"However desirable fact finding machinery may be," he cautioned, "the people should know that it will not prevent strikes or violence. Furthermore it must be worked out in a sound way or it will do more harm than good. It should be truly impartial and confined to fact finding, not dominated by the economic fallacies so prevalent in the New Deal bureaus today."

Ball said the message was the most hopeful word he had seen "on this particular front" in a long time.

Sen. Wherry [R., Kas.] described the President's message as "a very hopeful sign" and expressed the hope that it would bring immediate legislation. Sen. Reed [R., Kas.] also hoped for early legislation.

In the house Rep. Sparkman [D., Ala.], Democratic whip, expressed belief the plan will work. Rep. Arends [R., Ill.] said he was "glad the President has at last caught up with public sentiment and urged congress to do something about the current labor situation." [Rep. Dirksen [R., Ill.] said it might be difficult to apply the railway labor act to other industries, but praised the message as candid.

Rep. Smith [D., Va.], co-author of the Smith-Connally act, introduced a resolution calling for creation of a joint congressional committee to study the President's labor proposals. He proclaimed Mr. Truman's stand as courageous and one which would win support of 90 per cent of the people.

Smith later introduced a bill to set up, for industry and labor generally, mediation boards modeled after the railway mediation boards. The legislation also would outlaw sympathy and jurisdictional strikes and require unions to register with a federal agency and make annual financial statements.

Sen. Moore [R., Okla.] introduced eight labor restricting bills designed to put labor and industry on equal terms for purposes of collective bargaining.

OLANDER CRITICAL

Legislation recommended by President Truman yesterday was declared by Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Federation of Labor, to be little more than extension of procedure under the Smith-Connally act, "the most prolific of all strike sources."

The investigation period in the President's plan, said Olander, "will work exactly as the Smith-Connally act is now working. The alleged 30 day cooling off period is very definitely a 30 day inflammatory period."

"The President's proposal is apparently designed to deal only with strikes covering a large area," Olander added. "In some cases it will prove an invitation to increase the strike area sufficiently to show the authorities that it affects public interest. It offers a new avenue for both labor and management to escape responsibility."

HEART ATTACK ON STAIRWAY FATAL

Joseph Moe, 50, of 4631 Sheridan rd., a metal worker, died of a heart attack on the stairway of his rooming house yesterday.

250 G. M. Union Heads Called by CIO to Act on Truman Plea

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 3 (AP)—Heads of the CIO United Auto workers bluntly disapproved President Truman's proposal for ending the General Motors strike today but left the final verdict to the union's rank and file.

The auto union's leadership summoned a conference of 250 representatives of General Motors locals for Saturday to act on the President's proposal for an immediate end to the walkout idling 225,000 workers.

President R. J. Thomas of the union told a press conference he was "not sold" on Mr. Truman's proposal, which included the setting up of a fact finding board to make recommendations in the dispute.

Join in Disapproval

Joining with Thomas in expressing disapproval were the union's secretary-treasurer, George F. Addes, and Vice President Walter P. Reuther, head of the UAW-CIO General Motors department and chief negotiator of the union's demand on G. M. for a 30 per cent wage rate increase.

"If I were a G. M. worker and voting [on an end to the strike], I would certainly not be willing to go back to work with only the President's proposal as a basis for settling the strike," Reuther said.

Addes said, "I would want something more tangible if I were voting."

Thomas emphasized that the decision would be up to a vote of the strikers, asserting "the workers will vote the way they want to. Ours is the most democratic union in the world."

The President made his proposal for ending the G. M. strike, now in its 14th day, in presenting a legislative program to congress to halt increasing labor strife.

Wonders About It

Thomas, commenting on the legislative proposal, said he did not approve. The union, however, messaged the White House tonight asking "details" from the President.

In the telegram Thomas and Reuther outlined the steps being taken to lay his proposal before representatives of local unions, and asked for "complete details of your message."

Referring to the war work record of G. M. workers, the union officials said the employes lost, by government figures, only six ten-thousandths of 1 per cent of the man hours worked, and said Wilson was quoted recently as saying the war time record of G. M. employes was 14 times better than the average for the industry.

Thomas left Detroit tonight for Pittsburgh, Pa., where he planned to discuss President Truman's proposals with CIO President Philip Murray.

He said that in a number of the more than 70 struck G. M. plants, local unions have made individual demands on management aside from the general wage demand, and said in such cases these unions might possibly approve an end of the general walkout but continue their individual stoppages.

Empowered to Do It

Under the union constitution the international executive board is empowered to call off a strike in an emergency without referring the question to the locals, but it never has taken such action, and Reuther said, "We don't intend to do it in the General Motors strike."

Thomas denied authorship of a letter issued by his publicity department last Saturday, which accepted a G. M. proposal to reopen some plants for production of parts for rival manufacturers.

Last Saturday's letter was written by his publicity department while he was on a train, Thomas said.

Reuther said at the press conference, "I saw it [the letter] but did not agree with its contents."

The President's intervention came a short time after Thomas had asked the justice department to institute an anti-trust investigation of General Motors' control of most of the automotive industry's production of engine fuel pumps.

In a telegram to United States Atty. Gen. Clark, Thomas cited Wilson's Nov. 30 letter proposing to reopen G. M. parts plants to supply competitors as "strong corroboratory evidence for our belief that this corporation holds a monopoly position."

At Washington the justice department said the request would be referred to its anti-trust division for "thoro investigation."

"Company Security" Plan

UAW-CIO leaders said today they would present to the Ford Motor company next Monday a plan for "company security" in answer to the company's proposal that the union be penalized $5 a day for every worker engaging in an unauthorized strike.

"If we can get what the company calls 'company security' out of the way and agreed to, we can discuss wages," Richard T. Leonard, national director of the UAW Ford department, said after a meeting of company and union negotiations.

The union is requesting a 30 per cent wage increase.

John S. Bugas, director of the Ford company's industrial relations, said the basic questions "come under the heading of company security and a guarantee of union responsibility."

These questions, he said, are:

"First—How are we going to increase our lagging productivity?"

"Second—How is the company going to be protected against one strike after another so that we can stay in production and stay in business?"

DISPUTE EFFECT OF CIO TIEUP ON SHIPPING

New York, Dec. 3 [Special]—The CIO National Maritime union today conducted a work stoppage on vessels in American ports in support of its contention that the return of soldiers from abroad is being needlessly delayed. Conflicting reports on effectiveness of the work stoppage indicated a response far short of union predictions.

About 6,000 seamen were estimated to have left ships in New York harbor, but Capt. Hewlett Bishop, Atlantic coast director of the war shipping administration, said that only 21 of 386 vessels in the harbor were tied up and six of these were being worked by longshoremen with the aid of dockside equipment.

38 Tied Up on Atlantic

Hewlett said only 38 ships were involved on the Atlantic coast from Portland, Me., to Jacksonville, Fla.

Joseph Curran, NMU president, said every ship in the nation, except those carrying troops and relief materials, which were specifically exempted from the work stoppage, was tied up. He said 120 ships were tied up in New York, 20 at Jersey City, N. J., 40 to 55 at Baltimore, and virtually all those at Philadelphia.

The work stoppage went into effect here at 8 a. m. and was followed by a parade of seamen up Broadway.

Addresses Mass Meeting

Curran addressed a mass meeting after the parade, asserting, "We made a promise to the G. I.s, and we mean to carry it out. If the government thinks we don't mean business, we'll show them."

At San Francisco, where 29 ships and approximately 4,500 workers were said to be idle, the situation was reported as "confused." F. C. Gregory of the Waterfront Employers' association said longshoremen had failed to report to unload ammunition from two navy ships. Fifty ships were said to be idle in the Los Angeles-Long Beach harbor.

The union reported 55 ships tied up at New Orleans, and 2,000 workers idle at Galveston.

BISHOP ORDERS ARGENTINES NOT TO AID LEFTISTS

PARANA, Argentina, Dec. 3 (AP)—The Catholic weekly La Accion today published instructions signed by the provincial bishopric ordering Catholics not to vote for candidates of the Democratic Union which was formed among the major political parties in Argentina to combat the presidential candidacy of Col. Juan Peron. The article said it was a "directive—not merely advice."

The instructions did not mention the Democratic Front by name but told Catholics they must not vote for the Communist or Socialist parties "nor for parties which unite or collaborate with them." Catholics were forbidden to vote for Socialists or Communists because these parties propose the separation of the church and state, elimination of the religious oath, suppression of religious teaching in schools and legal divorce. Argentina's population is over 90 per cent Catholic.

The instructions said the church does not mix in politics "but when politics touches the altar it can and should intervene, instructing Catholics about their duties."

NEGRO ROBS GROCERY

A Negro robbed Albert Goldner, 1649 S. Ridgeway av., of $87 and took $15 from two clerks in Goldner's grocery at 302 E. 52d st., yesterday after he ordered 86 cents worth of groceries.

FOOTE GEAR STRIKE TO END TODAY AFTER DELAY OF 24 HOURS

The 500 striking employes of Foote Brothers Gear and Machine corporation, 5225 S. Western blvd., will return to work at 7 a. m. today, Louis Torre, business manager of local 1114, United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers [CIO], announced last night.

Torre said the strikers' failure to return to work yesterday morning, as agreed, was caused by a misunderstanding. He said 300 members of the union who met in a hall at 52d st. and Campbell av., voted 4 to 1 in favor of accepting the company's offer of a wage increase of 5 cents an hour, with other issues to be negotiated. The union had been on strike two weeks.

The Foote Brothers strike is the first of seven such walkouts in Chicago to be settled, Torre said. He added 1,350 employes of six other gear manufacturing plants are still out.

SWISS ASKED TO CUT WATCH EXPORTS TO U.S.

Union Head Calls Note 'Weasel Worded'

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3 (AP)—The United States has asked Switzerland to cut exports of watches to the United States.

The announcement today was attacked by Walter W. Cenerazzo of Boston and Waltham, Mass., who called it a "weasel worded" statement.

Cenerazzo marched into the state department press room, identified himself as national president of the independent American Watch Makers' union, and read reporters a copy of the statement before the department got around to issuing it.

No Power to Fix Quotas

Cenerazzo said that since the department has no power to fix quotas on imports what it actually has had to do is ask the Swiss government to impose a limitation on its watch exports in order to help protect the domestic watch industry here. This industry is centered at Elgin, Ill.; Waltham, Mass., and Lancaster, Pa.

Cenerazzo said that there are more than 500 Swiss watch importers in the United States today compared with 50 in 1940. He said that 28 million watches have come in to the United States since the start of the war and that they represent the equivalent of 14 years' employment for 8,000 watch workers here.

His union, he said, wants a top quota of 2 million imported watches a year. Actual imports in October alone, he said, amounted to 2,100,000.

Note Expresses Concern

The state department announcement dealt in generalities and it was for that reason, Cenerazzo said, that he considered it "weasel worded." The announcement said that a note had been handed to Swiss Minister Charles Bruggmann expressing concern over the increase in Swiss watch imports and proposing a limitation "during the period of reconversion of the domestic watch manufacturing industry."

Cenerazzo said that if no effective action were taken by Dec. 5 his union would begin picketing the state department.

CANTON, China, Dec. 3. (AP)—Newspaper censorship under Chinese military direction was clamped on Canton today as a reoccupied city in which Chungking dictates guidance on the contents of the papers.

NATIONAL MEAT STRIKE LOOMS, UNION WARNS

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—A CIO union official said today that 400 butchers and other workers had "walked off the job" today at the Jersey City, N. J., plant of the Cudahy Packing company in what he called the beginning of "a national strike affecting all meat."

Meyer E. Stern, district director of the United Packing House Workers of America, told reporters the issue was a union demand for a general wage increase of 25 cents an hour. Present wage rates range from 72½ cents to $1.25 per hour, he said.

"The union is negotiating with the Wilson company in Chicago today," Stern added. "If there are no settlements 11 big plants thruout the country will be struck within the next seven days." He named specifically plants in Omaha, Neb., and Kansas City, Mo.

"All other companies will be struck unless we can come to a settlement," Stern said.

[Louis J. Clark, president of the United Packing House Workers, said in Chicago last night that the union would conduct a one day work stoppage today in 10 plants of Cudahy Packing company to enforce its demands for a 25 cent an hour wage increase. Cudahy's East Chicago, Ind., plant is the only one in the Chicago area that will be affected, Clark said.]

At the eastern office of the American Meat institute a spokesman said there was no comment because the strike affected "only one small plant of one company."

Harvester Plant Hit

Canton, Ill., Dec. 3 (AP)—A work stoppage crippled production in the Canton plant of the International Harvester company today.

Ray Atkinson, manager, said 550 of the 2,700 day shift employes had left their jobs, while employes said "most of the men are out or will be before tomorrow."

Employes said they stopped work because "allowance" payments—salary paid when machines are idle because of power failure or other causes and while jobs are being set up—were withdrawn. Atkinson said the change complies with a contract signed recently with district 50, United Mine workers.

Seeks 5½ Day Week

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—President George H. Bucher of the Westinghouse Electric corporation today announced a proposal to increase the corporation's work week wherever practicable from five days to five and a half days, with time and half for all hours worked in excess of 40.

Bucher said these and other company proposals have been made to the CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America in reply to the union's demand for a $2 a day wage increase.

"State of Emergency"

New Orleans, La., Dec. 3 (AP)—All American Federation of Labor workers were summoned today to a mass meeting Thursday night by a notice which said that "a state of emergency now exists in New Orleans."

500 UNIONISTS DEFY LEADERS; RETURN TO JOBS

Norwich, Conn., Dec. 3 [Special]—Dissatisfied with the leaders of their national CIO union, more than 500 members of local 36 of the CIO Federation of Dyers and Finishers today passed thru a picket line of fellow unionists and went back to work at the United States Finishing company, breaking a two months old strike.

The strike's end at the clothing firm was voted Saturday by rank and file members over the protest of Frank J. Benti, national executive vice president of the union, whose speeches they booed. Their local president, John McHale, led them back to work today as they disregarded the plea of Ferdinand Silvia, "outside" organizer from Providence, R. I., and leader of the pickets, who pleaded that they hold out at least one more day.

TWO BICYCLES STOLEN

CIO GETS WARD'S OFFER TO BOOST PAY 5c AN HOUR

John A. Barr, labor relations manager for Montgomery Ward & Co., yesterday offered a general 5 cent an hour wage increase to the company's 7,000 employes at a meeting with Henry B. Anderson, president, and other officers of local 20 of the United Retail, Wholesale, and Department Store Employes' union [CIO]. Many of the workers, in lower paid brackets, would receive as much as 40 cents an hour under the proposal.

The company has raised the hiring wage from 52½ cents to 60 cents an hour, effective Nov. 26, when the union began a one week strike. Union officials told Barr they would notify him within 48 hours of their acceptance or rejection of the offer. The increase would become effective Dec. 13.

AMERICAN WAY IS ROAD TO RUIN, ASSERTS LASKI

Britisher Speaks in N.Y.; Catholics Assail Him

New York, Dec. 3 [Special]—Appearing over the protests of Catholic war veterans, and despite picketing of his meeting place, Prof. Harold J. Laski, chairman of the British Labor party, tonight told an audience of 2,000 that the United States' form of economy is "the direct road to serfdom."

Making his first public appearance in this country since 1939, Laski praised Russia and called for an end to existing state sovereignty among nations of the world. He declared that "free enterprise and market economy mean war," and opined that no nation is fit to be trusted with development of atomic energy.

Mrs. Roosevelt There

Laski spoke at a dinner meeting in the Hotel Astor sponsored by the magazine The Nation. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of the President, and Leon Henderson, former head of the OPA, were among other speakers on the program, which was arranged to discuss the problem of the atomic bomb.

Vigorous protests against Laski's appearance had been made by Catholic groups in the city, led by the Catholic War Veterans of America. Their objection was based on the Briton's alleged insult to the Catholic church in a speech broadcast from England on Sept. 24 to a rally of the Spanish refugee appeal in Madison Square Garden.

In his speech last September Laski criticized the United States for hesitating to denounce Franco, the Spanish dictator, and asked if this were due to fear of the Vatican and "is it likely to prevent the Roman Catholic church of Spain from remaining a rich monopolist at the expense of mass poverty?"

Hotel Receives Protests

The war veterans' protests were lodged with the Astor hotel management and turned over to the meeting's sponsors. During the dinner hour, pickets carrying placards objecting to Laski's presence, paraded in front of the hotel. A police detail was on hand, but no disturbances occurred.

Prof. Laski told his listeners that war and power politics will be abolished only when sovereignty is eliminated. The league of nations and the Kellogg pact failed, he said, "because the will was lacking."

Proper use of atomic energy, he declared, means "planned internationalism, economic, social and political." He maintained that not only sovereignty, but also "interests which sovereignty protects," must be eliminated if the countries of the world are to coöperate successfully to outlaw war.

"A Satanic Illusion"

"We have come," he said, "to the boundaries of the final dividing line between liberalism and socialism. There is no middle way. Free enterprise and market economy mean war; socialism and planned economy mean peace. All attempts to find a compromise are a satanic illusion. We must plan our civilization or we must perish."

Laski said he is not proud of the British record in the years of appeasement, and that he has "a deep sense of guilt when I see the tragic spectacle of Spain."

AWAIT ATTLEE REPORT ON LOAN PACT WITH U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Dec. 3—The result of negotiations in Washington, D. C., for an American loan to Britain is expected to be announced in the house of commons within 48 hours by Prime Minister Clement Attlee. Confidence was expressed in political circles here tonight that a full agreement satisfactory to Britain would be reached by tomorrow or Wednesday, altho the possibility of a delay while details are ironed out was not excluded.

Full reports on the closing stages of the talks were received today by the cabinet which, some political observers said, held a special session and cabled a fresh brief to John Maynard Keynes.

LOST CRUISER'S SKIPPER FAILS TO VOID CHARGE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3 (AP)—Capt. Charles B. McVay, 47, commander of the ill-fated Indianapolis, was unsuccessful today in his first defense move before a navy court martial trying him on charges of negligence and inefficiency.

Capt. McVay at court martial yesterday.

The heavy cruiser was sunk July 30 in the Philippine sea. Of its 1,196 man crew, 880 are dead or missing and all the others were injured.

As the court convened at the Washington navy yard, McVay's counsel, Capt. John P. Cady of Providence, R. I., objected to the first charge—that McVay suffered a navy vessel "to be hazarded" thru negligence.

Ship Without Escort

The specifications alleged that McVay "neglected and failed" to order a zigzag course while traveling without escort from Guam to Leyte thru an area "in which enemy submarines might be encountered."

The defense contended the charge "failed to state an offense," but simply "set out a conclusion."

After deliberation, the seven man court, headed by Rear Adm. Wilder D. Baker, overruled the objection. Baker said the court's instructions stated it was not essential to specify that the accused officer committed a breach of federal statutes or naval regulations.

One Charge Unchallenged

McVay entered no objection to the form of the second charge—that he was guilty of "culpable inefficiency in the performance of duty."

Specifications of that charge accused him of failing to issue "such timely orders as were necessary to cause said vessel to be abandoned, as it was his duty to do, by reason of which inefficiency many persons on board perished with the sinking of said vessel."

After the court rejected the motion to quash the first charge McVay's counsel won a 24 hour postponement to complete his case.

Other Trials "Conceivable"

Officials said the court martial will be concerned only with what occurred aboard the vessel. Other aspects of the disaster, including the responsibility for delay in starting a search after the ship was overdue at Leyte, still are under investigation.

SENATOR'S SON GETS ORDER FOR HOME CANCELED

HONOLULU, Dec. 3 (AP)—Orders transferring Seaman 2/c Paul T. Stewart, son of Senator Stewart [D., Tenn.] from the Hawaiian Islands to Norfolk, Va., have been canceled at young Stewart's request.

Capt. H. W. Turney, chief of the amphibious command, administrative section, said today that Stewart, 18, was to be sent from the Waipio base to Norfolk but that he had only 18 discharge points, and 38 points are required for reassignment to the mainland.

Navy sources in Washington said Stewart's name had been included "inadvertently" in a list of men ordered to Norfolk. Stars and Stripes said that some one had made a specific request for Stewart's transfer to the mainland.

Rare Drug from Chicago Used to Treat Infant

HOFFMAN MENTIONS HIS UNMENTIONABLES; HE WASHES THEM, TOO

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3 (AP)—Everybody says his living costs soared during the war. Everybody, that is, except Rep. Hoffman [R., Mich.]. Hoffman said in a recent speech that it doesn't cost him a dime more to live than it did in 1941.

It's his opinion that "about half the people in the country" could get by just as cheaply if they only would follow the Hoffman formula. Which is: If it costs more, don't buy it.

Hoffman said that when meals began to cost more, he simply switched to a less fancy diet. Instead of steaks he eats bread and milk and cereal.

"Suits and shirts can be patched," he said. And then, holding up his arms and turning around, Hoffman asked, "this shirt is patched, isn't it?" No, it wasn't. Hoffman, a little dismayed, said most of his shirts were.

Hoffman has another way to whack expenses. He washes his socks and underwear—"something anybody could do." He also has a couple of words of advice to those who [a] smoke, [b] drink, [c] have yachts or [d] like chorus girls.

The advice: Quit it. "I don't do it myself," he said, "but I understand they cost money."

BRITISH WINNING VOTES FOR UNO SITE FROM U. S.

Call American Drives 'High Pressure'

BY WILLIAM FULTON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Dec. 3—The British drive to bring the united nations permanent headquarters to Europe gained headway today as architects of the new world order sat down to another week's deliberations. The united nations preparatory commission now in session will recommend a permanent site to the general assembly, which convenes in January in London.

Unfortunately, offers of sites from numerous American cities are being branded by British lobbyists behind the scenes as "typical American high pressure methods." They say such tactics may be all right for corralling national conventions, but are not dignified enough for the united nations.

Gains Some Credence

This assiduously cultivated propaganda is having an effect upon striped pants diplomats who are inclined to look down their noses at the vulgar New World, members of several delegations said. Some delegates don't understand that the United States government has nothing to do with these offers, which are made solely on the initiative of various civic groups.

Another 12 American cities have indicated they would like to join the bidding, making a total of 36. A special subcommittee of the preparatory commission, which is taking testimony from deputations, heard seven, including Chicago's, last Saturday. Hearing for at least four more will be held next Saturday.

British Apply Squeeze

Latest pleaders include Benson R. Frost of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who will suggest that the united nations make their capital at the home of the late President Roosevelt in Hyde Park; American and Canadian representatives speaking for Navy Island, in the Niagara river near Buffalo; Sen. Claude Pepper [D., Fla.], who is expected to extol the sights of Miami beach, and the lieutenant governor of Indiana, acting on behalf of several sites in his states.

The British, whose first choice is Geneva, where the old league of nations is dying on the vine, are now putting the squeeze on various members of the empire. New Zealand, which was for the United States, has been turned around and now favors a site in Europe. Egypt, technically an independent state but closely allied with the British, was originally on the fence, but now favors a European site.

Canada, which is with the British on this issue, introduced a proposal that secret ballots be taken on the question of a permanent headquarters.

NURSE'S KILLER TELLS OF LIFE AND HER LOVE

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 3 (AP)—The once beautiful Annie Irene Mansfeldt, 45, on trial for the murder of Nurse Vada Martin, 36, testified today to spending part of her childhood with an "insane" grandmother and said a doctor told her also that she should "be in an institution for the insane."

Mrs. Mansfeldt was suddenly called to the stand following testimony by members of her family, including her three children. The jurors leaned forward and listened intently as she testified.

Guided by Attorney

Under the guidance of Defense Attorney Vincent Hallinan, Mrs. Mansfeldt told the following story:

She was born in Fresno, Cal., in 1899, the daughter of Sheriff Walter Scott McSwain. When she was a child her grandmother, Ann Connell, was brought to their home "because she was insane."

"Grandmother believed I was an intruder and I once awakened and found her hands around my throat."

She wanted to study music so she left home at 17 and came to San Francisco, where she studied intensely. On numerous occasions she would go to sleep studying.

Meets "First Sweetheart"

She was graduated in 1920 and went to live with Mrs. Eva Mansfeldt and there met her husband. "John Mansfeldt was the first sweetheart I ever had."

"One night I told John he could be a very fine doctor and if he studied medicine I would marry him. He was in love with me and followed me around in a doglike, trusting way."

She refused to see him for two years, feeling he should stand on his own feet. Later he was so successful in his studies that she married him.

Her mother-in-law, Eva Mansfeldt, gradually went insane and was committed to a sanitarium.

Mrs. Mansfeldt will testify again tomorrow in her trial for the slaying of Mrs. Martin, who in her dying breath denied Mrs. Mansfeldt's accusation that she had stolen the love of Dr. John H. Mansfeldt, 48. The physician committed suicide a few hours after the shooting.

Testimony of Children

Mrs. Mansfeldt's three children testified today their mother did not appear fully conscious the morning of last Oct. 4, the day she slew Mrs. Martin.

The defendant's only son, John, 14, testified that he was awakened about 7 a. m. on Oct. 4. "I heard screaming upstairs—about five or six screams," he said. "Then I heard a loud thump or fall on the floor. I ran upstairs with sister Terry, but father told us that everything was all right."

Terry, 12, wearing bobby sox, and Irene, 15, gave similar statements. As they testified, Mrs. Mansfeldt sat with her head bowed.

Allied Nations Charter Now Has 45 Signatories

DEFEATED IN '43, YOUTH VICTOR IN '45 STOCK SHOW

Iowan's Comeback Made with Champion Steer

BY BEN MARKLAND

An Iowa farm boy who has learned how to take a licking showed an Aberdeen-Angus steer to one of the major awards of the Chicago Market Fat Stock show last night in the stock yards.

The comeback winner was Robert Johnson, 20, a soft spoken lad from Galva, Ida county, in northwest Iowa. His winning animal was Queen's Lad, selected as grand champion of the junior cattle entrants. Today his steer will compete for the grand championship of the entire show, and if it wins that test will be in line for a sale price of $3,000 to $6,000 in the show auction to be held tomorrow.

Defeated, Learns How to Win

Robert's licking came in 1943, when he entered an Angus steer which placed only fifth in a preliminary class. At that time he inspected all the show winners, talked to exhibitors and judges, and gleaned information on feeding and care of show animals.

"As long as I was here in '43," he said after his 1945 win, "I thought I might as well learn all I could, even if I did have to take a licking."

Robert defeated an Illinois opponent, T. Richard Lacy Jr., 19, Kansas, Edgar county, exhibitor of the champion Hereford and winner of the grand championship in 1942 and 1943, and Albert Fritzler, 19, of Sterling, Colo. Fritzler's shorthorn steer was placed reserve champion ahead of Lacy's Hereford.

Johnson's championship was the third major prize of the show won by stockmen from Ida county. Karl Hoffman of Ida Grove exhibited the grand champion carload of Hereford steers Sunday. George Hoffman, brother of Karl, also of Ida Grove, yesterday showed a carload of 25 Berkshire hogs to the grand championship in that class.

Hand Fed Hog Winner

A temperamental Berkshire hog was the second star of yesterday's show schedule. For the last three weeks the animal, Four Square Jr., has been hand fed with boiled corn, but he repaid the efforts of his young owner by being selected junior grand champion barrow.

The patient owner of the champion hog is Frank Trainor, 21, eldest of five brothers operating a 320 acre farm on Highway 23, six miles north of Pontiac, Livingston county.

Wayne Disch, 15, Evansville, Wis., kept the lamb championship in the family by showing a pen of three Southdowns to the junior grand championship. Wayne's brother Kenneth, 19, now a marine in China, showed Southdowns to the top junior sheep title for four consecutive years, from 1940 thru 1943.

ANDERSON PRAISES 4-H

The 4-H clubs today are recognized as a solid source of strength for the nation and made an outstanding record of substantial contribution to the nation's war production, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson told the 24th annual congress of 4-H clubs in the Stevens hotel yesterday.

Referring to what he described as shocking revelations of physical unfitness in World Wars I. and II., the secretary added: "I want to stress the fact that improper nutrition was found to be an important contributing factor in health deficiencies. Rural people and city folk alike need to work toward health improvement and enlargement of medical facilities."

Win Soil Saving Awards

Soil saving awards of $200 each were made by the Firestone Tire and Rubber company to the following: Phillip W. Pierson, 17, of Hockessin, Del.; C. Jack Baird, 16, of Arkansas City, Kas.; Louis E. J.; Robert W. Orebaugh, 19, of Parker, Ind.; Gerald L. Honick, 17, of Blackwell, Okla., and Wesley D. Fields, 21, of Gooding, Ida.

BELGIANS GO TO WORK; BETTER TIMES ARRIVE

Tribune Man Finds a Pre-War Air

BY LARRY RUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Dec. 3—Belgium is coming back to an appearance of pre-war activity and prosperity with astonishing rapidity. One has to pinch oneself, figuratively speaking, to realize that less than a year ago this country, which took the initial shock of the German sweep into France, was not only a battlefield but the main base for American armies smashing thru the Siegfried line and for British, Canadian, and Polish armies pushing the foe back thru Holland.

It was almost like old times when this Tribune correspondent steered his car thru well lighted streets and typical Brussels traffic of street cars, dog drawn carts and hawkers, and arrived at the Metropole hotel.

The hotel, which was occupied by the German army and then requisitioned by the British, has been turned back to its owners. There they were—the same faces and same scenes one saw late in 1939 and in the spring of 1940.

Remembered After 6 Years

"Didn't you have 358?" the elevator man inquired. It had been six years since I had seen him.

Nothing was changed in the ultra modern rooms of the hotel. Even glass top tables, bed lamps, and bathroom gadgets were intact. A waiter immaculately attired in the customary full dress tails had the nostalgic flavor of the past, when it was not unfashionable to try to please the customer.

There were two menu cards, one a la carte, the other table d'hote. Table d'hote, served for 60 francs, contained soup, fish, and dessert. We ate a la carte fillet of sole and chicken, cheese and grapes at a cost six times that. But it was apparent that the Belgian franc, at 44 to the dollar, had more than thrice the purchasing power of the French franc, fixed at 50.

Cafe Life Warm Again

The next day I learned that the Metropole wasn't giving an exaggerated picture of Belgian recovery. Cafe life had assumed its old warmth and comfort. The cafes and the restaurants were well patronized, and orchestras on platforms entertained guests.

The market place, only three blocks from the Metropole, was so crowded at a morning hour that vehicular traffic was impossible. Stalls were well stocked with endless varieties of fowl, chicken, ducks, geese, turkeys, and even game, such as ducks, partridges, and pheasants. Rabbits, sausages, and other meats, too, were on sale. There seemed to be an abundance of vegetables and fruits, pears, apples, and those hothouse grapes that pre-war Belgium used to export to the United States. And dazzling shop windows displayed a great variety of consumer goods, ranging from gold watches to household furniture.

They Put Politics Second

Unlike peoples in most war torn countries, the Belgians have gone back to work without waiting for political developments.

Americans who reopened Port Ghent, fifth largest in Europe, all praise Belgian workmen.

"They are the best dockers working," Col. James A. Crothers, as port commander at Bremerhaven, once told me when I was there.

A Chicagoan, Maj. Charles V. Lambe, said:

"They really helped our armies, from building bridges to transporting supplies, which is more than I can say for a lot of our allies."

A trip to the port of Antwerp and thru the industrial area of Belgium confirmed that the Belgians were working hard, a sight this correspondent had seen no other place in Europe except in Germany.

Arthur Wauters, director of press for the Belgian government, said: "In a way, we cannot take all the credit because the allied armies spent a lot of money in Belgium."

Arabs Call for Boycott of Jews in Palestine

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 3 (AP)—The Pan-Arab council, declaring that Zionist Palestine could prosper only at the economic expense of the Arabs, adopted a resolution today urging Arab nations to join in a boycott of all Jewish goods manufactured in Palestine, starting Jan. 1. Abdel Rahmen Azzam Bey, secretary general of the league, said the Arabs were "ready for the consequences" of possible retaliation.

REVEAL DRUM'S PROPHECY OF JAP ATTACK IN 1935

Miles Says His Pattern Was Followed in '41

BY PHILIP DODD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3—The pattern of a surprise air attack on Pearl Harbor, included in a defense plan for the Pacific bastion prepared in 1935 by Gen. Hugh A. Drum, then army commander in Hawaii, was followed almost exactly by the Japanese on Dec. 7, 1941, the congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee learned today.

Gen. Drum

The information was in a memorandum to the war department from Gen. Drum, read to the committee by Gerhard Gesell, assistant counsel, during cross-examination of Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, army intelligence chief in 1941. A reply from Maj. Gen. E. T. Conley in April, 1936, then adjutant general, cited difficulties in preventing an air attack with the then existing defenses.

Gen. Drum's message and other points brought out during Gen. Miles' testimony are expected to lead to sharp questioning of Gen. Marshall, former chief of staff, when he appears before the committee Thursday morning. Gen. Marshall originally was scheduled to follow other army witnesses, but his appointment as President Truman's envoy to China necessitates an earlier appearance.

Warned of Vulnerability

In his memorandum, Gen. Drum, who retired from the army early this year and is now president of the Empire State Building corporation in New York, warned that Pearl Harbor, with its oil and ammunition storage and air installations on the island of Oahu, were "extremely vulnerable" to air attack. He further warned "the first enemy hostile action will be attempted as a surprise."

"One oriental power," Gen. Drum wrote, "is strong enough in surface vessels and aircraft to execute successful air attacks against these objectives unless intercepted in sufficient time and with sufficient strength to defeat the attacks."

Gen. Drum went on to say that first information of approaching carriers must come when they are at least 300 miles out to permit bombers to attack them before they can launch their planes. He recommended the establishment of air fields on the islands surrounding Oahu to permit the reduction of the flight time of our bombers.

Radar Not Yet Used

In his reply, Gen. Conley told Gen. Drum enemy carriers could come within 600 or 900 miles of Oahu by dusk of the day preceding an attack and then make a fast night run, launching their planes from between 275 and 330 miles of the target.

Long range search planes, not available at that time in sufficient numbers, accordingly would have to patrol an arc with a perimeter of 4,000 miles and would be faced with the difficult task of tracking the carriers during the night, Gen. Conley wrote. Miles added that radar for detecting approaching aircraft had not been developed at the time the memorandum was written.

"Is it correct to assume that succeeding commanders of the Hawaiian department had the benefit of this expression and information from the war department on this point?" asked Rep. Cooper [D., Tenn.].

Exactly as Prophesied

"I have every reason to believe that important correspondence was on file in the Hawaiian department," Miles replied.

"And of course the fact is that the actual attack on Dec. 7, 1941, was made by Japan as an air attack from carriers?"

"So far as I know, it was made almost exactly as we had worked it out with Gen. Drum in 1935 and 1936."

Miles asserted under the questioning of Democrats on the committee that Maj. Gen. Short, Hawaiian commander at the time of the Japanese attack, was "adequately" warned of the impending break in relations with Japan in Gen. Marshall's radio message of Nov. 27, 1941.

Expected Quick Action

Gen. Marshall's warning, sent also to army commanders in the Canal Zone and the Philippines, said Japanese hostile action was "possible at any moment" and urged "such reconnaissance and other measures" deemed necessary.

Miles testified that further warning came to Gen. Short thru his intelligence chief, Col. George W. Bicknell, who told army investigators he had learned "before Dec. 7, 1941 and about Dec. 3, 1941," thru navy sources that Japanese consuls had been ordered to destroy codes and papers. Bicknell had reported, Miles said, that he told Gen. Short and other Hawaiian staff officers the morning before the Japanese attack that the navy information indicated "something warlike by Japan was about to happen somewhere."

It was learned today, however, that some naval officers in Washington were gravely concerned because more positive warnings about Japanese intentions had not been sent to the Pacific fleet based at Pearl Harbor.

Feared Attack on Fleet

Secret testimony before the army board of inquiry into the Pearl Harbor disaster—not yet made public—given by Capt. L. F. Safford, attached to the naval operations bureau in December, 1941, indicated that he and other officers feared the Japanese were about to strike the fleet.

The officers' fears were caused by interception of the now famous "east winds rain" message sent by the Japanese as the final order for commencing the war on the United States.

Went to White House, Too

The transcript of the army board inquiry shows that the "winds" messages and their meanings were sent to the state department and the White House and that responsible authorities were thus warned that Pearl Harbor was the place and Dec. 7, 1941, the date of the attack.

Miles told the committee he considered any messages to Hawaii in addition to that sent by Gen. Marshall to Gen. Short 10 days before the attack as "redundant."

During this discussion, Gen. Short, who has attended every session of the hearing, sat quietly at a nearby table, his face expressionless as he took notes.

Miles told Rep. Clark [D., N. C.] who took up the questioning, that any general should have regarded Marshall's Nov. 27 warning as particularly significant because it was signed by the chief of staff and not by the adjutant general.

Calls Reply Inadequate

Clark then asked if Miles considered Short's reply on Nov. 28, reporting his command alerted against sabotage, an adequate acknowledgment of Marshall's warning.

"My opinion is it was totally inadequate," Miles asserted.

"Wasn't it the duty of some one in the war department to have pointed out the inadequacy?"

"That is not for me to answer."

"Do you know that Gen. Marshall had no objection to Gen. Short's reply?"

"I do."

"Does that indicate he was satisfied with it?"

"I prefer to have Gen. Marshall answer that question."

Rep. Gearhart [R., Cal.] then pointed out Marshall's message to Short had ordered no measures should be taken that would alarm the civil population. That admonition was not contained in a companion measure to Gen. MacArthur in the Philippines and therefore MacArthur was able to report more elaborate preparations, Gearhart said.

Miles said the warning against exciting the civil population was as old as the army. "We have always tried to do our job as quietly as possible in peace time," he said. Miles added, however, that Gen. Short should have been able to send large numbers of patrol and reconnaissance planes into the air without alarming Hawaiian residents, already used to extensive army and navy flying.

Murphy Disturbed

Rep. Murphy [D., Pa.] asked Miles to explain a statement in his testimony last week that an attack on Hawaii was "inherent in the situation."

"The thing that disturbs me," said Murphy, "is that you were apparently the only man in Washington who expected the attack on Pearl Harbor because I have read the reports submitted to us from cover to cover and I never find it mentioned. Apparently it was so obvious to you that you didn't mention it. I'm wondering if it's a fair inference that you thought there was a great likelihood of there being an attack on Pearl Harbor."

"It comes down to two principles," said Miles. "I did not ignore any action which was in Japan's capabilities. I believed they were capable of making an attack on Pearl Harbor. I did not believe up to a very late date that it was probable they would make that outbreak at the start of the war."

Father Wins Twins

Walter Domoracki, his wife, Jean, and his twin daughters, Kathlyn and Karyn, whose custody he won.

Judge Ulysses S. Schwartz in Superior court yesterday awarded custody of Kathlyn and Karyn Domoracki, 17 months old twins, to their father, Walter, 31, of 5128 Carmen av., on his petition for a writ of habeas corpus against his mother, Mrs. Victoria Domoracki, of 2715 N. Francisco av.

Mrs. Domoracki had cared for the twins since the death of their mother, Marie, Nov. 20, 1944. She had refused to surrender them to their father, who had remarried, Domoracki told the court, in response to questioning by Oscar A. Brotman, his attorney. His present wife, Jean, has a two year old daughter, Julienne.

Judge Schwartz ruled that a natural parent has a prior claim to children over all others. Brotman assured the tearful grandmother that the twins would be permitted to visit her frequently.

PROBE OF ENTIRE STATE DEPT. IS BEING STUDIED

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3—The house committee on un-American activities, it was learned tonight, is considering an investigation of the entire state department as the result of charges and a good deal of circumstantial evidence that the department is honeycombed with communists and communist fellow travelers.

Members of the committee said they had been shocked by the public charges and by information privately communicated which indicate communists in the department are influencing American foreign policy and that soviet Russian agents are able to obtain documents supposedly being held under lock and key in this and other branches of the government.

Ask Hurley for Data

The department was picketed today by District of Columbia communists carrying banners demanding a hands-off American policy in China and withdrawal of American troops from that country. The Communists contend American troops are being used to support Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces against the Chinese communists.

Preliminary to a decision on an investigation of the state department the house committee has asked Gen. Hurley to furnish the information on the communist infiltration of the department and pro-communist interference with American foreign policy that caused him to resign as ambassador to China. Hurley is to tell his story first, however, to the senate foreign relations committee, which voted today to hear him in an open session on Wednesday. Hurley had opposed a secret session. Also slated to appear are State Secretary Byrnes and Gen. Marshall, who succeeds Hurley at Chungking.

Doubts Senate Thoroness

Meanwhile, house Democratic leaders essayed to avert a house investigation of the charges of communist penetration of the state department. Rep. Sparkman [Ala.], the new Democratic whip, said that while Gen. Hurley's charges should be investigated he was sure the senate committee would do the job satisfactorily and chastise the department, if found necessary. He said the Republicans were clamoring for investigation for political reasons. Hurley is a Republican whom the Democrats profess to regard a willing candidate for President.

Rep. Mundt [R., S. D.], a member of the committee on un-American activities doubted, however that the senate committee would "do an adequate job." He insisted that Hurley give his evidence to the house group.

VESTRYMEN ACCEDE TO BAN ON ELLIOTT AND HE REJECTS POST

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP)—Arthur De Groff, junior warden of the board of vestry of St. James church in Hyde Park, announced today the board has voted "to sustain the wishes" of Bishop William T. Manning that Elliott Roosevelt be considered ineligible to serve as vestryman.

De Groff also said the board had received a letter from the late President's second son rejecting the post.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt declined tonight to comment on a published report that she no longer would worship at St. James' church. She did say to a reporter, however, that she "certainly would not withdraw financial support" which the late President gave the family church when he was senior warden. She was asked about a report by a columnist who said "Eleanor Roosevelt has taken the natural, motherly step and henceforth will worship at another church" because of Dr. Manning's ruling.

Roosevelt, who has been divorced twice, was elected a vestryman Nov. 13. Ten days later Dr. Manning declared Roosevelt was "not in good standing in the church and therefore is not eligible for the office."

Presumably the Democratic leadership will block the investigation of the theft of scores of secret documents from the state, war, navy, and other departments that fell into the hands of communist agents. Such an investigation by the judiciary committee was demanded last week in a resolution by Rep. Dondero [R., Mich.].

NEGRO MEMBER OF FEPC QUITS; BLASTS TRUMAN

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3 (AP)—Charles H. Houston, Washington Negro attorney, resigned today from the President's fair employment practices committee and accused the Truman administration of giving only "lip service" to its anti-discrimination policy.

He told a news conference the FEPC decided to issue a decision ordering the Capital Transit company of Washington to open employment opportunities to Negroes as motormen, bus drivers, etc., but that President Truman on Nov. 24 directed FEPC not to issue the decision.

BARE NAZI TRAP SET FOR CZECHS BEFORE MUNICH

Unfold Record of Plotting from March, 1938

NUERNBERG, Germany, Dec. 3 (AP)—An American prosecutor today laid bare before the international war crimes tribunal Hitler's most famous act of treachery—how he told the world he had "no more territorial claims to make in Europe" and at the same time secretly planned to attack Czechoslovakia.

Unfolding what he called the "inside story" of the Munich pact, Sidney S. Alderman, assistant United States presecutor, pointed to the 20 Nazi leaders in the prisoners' box and charged that the Munich agreement "was a trap set by these people who are here on trial."

Thruout the day Alderman presented evidence to support his assertion, tracing step by step the historic four power meeting at Munich in September, 1938, then the German occupation of the Sudetenland, and finally the seizure of Moravia and Bohemia

"Pretext" to Be Set Up

Official Nazi documents showed that one month after the occupation of Austria in March, 1938, Hitler and Field Marshal Keitel met to discuss a "pretext" for the invasion of Czechoslovakia and that from then on plans went forward, despite Hitler's pious assertions and his signature of the Munich pact on Sept. 30, 1938.

Germany's intentions were made clear in numerous documents such as a directive from Hitler dated May 30, 1938, which opened with the words: "It is my unalterable decision to smash Czechoslovakia by military action in the near future. It is the job of political leaders to bring about the politically or militarily suitable moment."

This directive, transmitted by Keitel to commanders of the army, navy, and air force, was supplemented by an order from the supreme commander fixing Oct. 1, 1938, as the deadline for the attack.

Hungary to Join "Cooking"

Alderman also introduced documents showing that Hungary had agreed to participation in the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia and had informed Hitler that she would be ready by Oct. 1. The Hungarian government, Alderman disclosed, was reluctant at first, but agreed after Germany told Hungary that if she wanted to take part in the "eating" of her neighbor state she would also have to participate in the "cooking"—the invasion.

Alderman introduced a memorandum from Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, one of the defendants, to Hitler dated Aug. 24, 1938, which he said showed Jodl's complicity in "the shameful fabrication" of an "excuse for war."

"Operation Green," the memorandum said, "will be set in motion by means of an 'incident' in Czechoslovakia which will give Germany provocation for military intervention.

Bombing Without Warning

"Fixing of the exact time for this incident is of the utmost importance. It must come at a time when weather conditions are favorable for our superior air force . . . and at an hour which will enable authentic news of it to reach us."

The Munich agreement delayed the attack, which included plans for bombing Prague without warning, but Alderman presented documents to show that the Nazi leaders never abandoned their plans to smash their little neighbor.

About three weeks after Neville Chamberlain returned from Munich to utter his famous "peace in our time" phrase Hitler ordered the German armed forces to prepare for "the liquidation of the remainder of Czechoslovakia and the occupation of Memelland."

Hitler's treachery went even beyond the military sphere, the evidence showed. Into the growing mountain of documents went the foreign office minutes of a conference Jan. 21, 1939, at which Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop told the Czech foreign minister that a reduction in the size of the Czech army would be a "decisive" factor in German-Czech relations.

Subsidized Since 1935

Alderman also presented evidence showing that the Sudeten party in Czechoslovakia was being subsidized by the Germans from 1935 on and that the party leader, Konrad Henlein, went on the Nazi pay roll as early as 1933.

This was in line with the Nazi plan, read into the record by Alderman, to "direct national groups such as the Sudeten Germans to support German forces and to influence neutrals into our way of thinking."

Disclosure that two SS "Death's head" battalions were engaged in raids across the Czechoslovak border before the Munich meeting came in the reading of another order signed by Col. Gen. Jodl.

The SS battalions were operating under the command of Heinrich Himmler, chief of the SS and all secret police, but were to change to regular army control if war broke out, the order said. Sudeten free corps units also were to come under army control, at the start of hostilities.

Italy was aware of the conspiracy, according to a German foreign office memorandum, which said that "Attolico [Italian Ambassador Bernardo Attolico] added that we had made it unmistakably clear to Italians what our intentions are regarding Czechoslovakia."

BRITISH TAKE UP PROSECUTION OF 20 NAZIS TODAY

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NUERNBERG, Germany, Dec. 3—British Atty. Gen. Hartley Shawcross tomorrow will address the international war crimes tribunal in opening his nation's assignment in prosecuting the 20 top Nazis on trial. The assignment is count two of the indictment, charging the defendants with individual criminality in their country's waging of aggressive war in violation of international treaties.

The British aspect of the case will be presented mainly in documentary form, yet it probably will consume a week since Europe's pre-war balance of power was held together by a maze of international agreements smashed by Hitler.

Language of Count II.

Count two states: "All the defendants with divers other persons, during a period of years preceding May 8, 1945, participated in the planning, preparation, initiation, and waging of wars of aggression, which were also wars in violation of international treaties, agreements, and assurances."

Count two also outlines wars waged by the Germans from the attack on Poland on Sept. 1, 1939, to outbreak of war with the United States in December, 1941.

The British will show how the Nazis followed their aggression in Czechoslovakia with their attack on Poland and will describe the development of the war against Britain, France, Denmark, Norway, Holland, Belgium, Luxemburg, Yugoslavia, and Greece.

This schedule interrupts America's presentation of the bulk of its case, count one of the indictment, charging conspiracy to wage aggressive war and to commit offenses against humanity.

Two More Weeks for U. S.

After the Shawcross address the American prosecution will complete its story of the quick conquest of Moravia and Bohemia. The United States, which has prosecuted the first three weeks of the trials, also has another two weeks of evidence to present covering the Jewish pogroms, concentration camps, spoliation of occupied countries, the guilt of the high command, the SS, and other organizations, and the responsibilities and accountabilities of individual defendants for acts during the last 12 years.

The last two counts of the indictment, charging offenses against humanity, mass murders, and mass enslavements, will be prosecuted by the French and the Russians, one taking western areas and the other the eastern in a geographic division of the assignment.

Greeks Vote Next March as Britain Suggested

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 3 (AP)—Greek Premier Themistocles Sophoulis said tonight that Greek elections definitely will be held March 31, 1946. Elections previously had been scheduled for Jan. 20. The British foreign office had suggested they be held next March. Foreign Minister John Sophianopoulos said 800 allied civilian and military observers would arrive in Athens "shortly" to supervise the elections.

Where's the Pay-Off?

That's a good question to ask about any advertising.

During the war years, the pay-off was frequently future market insurance or the maintenance of customer loyalty for brands in short supply or unavailable. Sometimes the pay-off was almost imperceptible—sometimes it was missing entirely.

It is time now to re-insert the "pay-off"—that urge to action—in advertising.

Henri, Hurst & McDonald's custom of creating sales-producing advertising dates back to the days when advertising was judged by the sales it produced. That custom is largely responsible for this agency's unique record:

Clients of Henri, Hurst & McDonald have remained with the agency for more than twice as long as the national average.

LIFE IS CHEAP IN RUSS ARMY, YANK DISCOVERS

Fails to Find Medical or Supply Stations

(This is the third instalment of an uncensored story of conditions in Poland. The author is a Chicagoan who escaped from a marching column of American prisoners of war near Szubin Poland, last January. In the first two chapters he told how kindly Poles fed and sheltered him, how the Russian soldiers behaved toward liberated Americans, and how, after many hardships, he and seven other Americans managed to hitch a ride on a Red army oil truck traveling northeast from the town of Szubin.)

BY ROBERT E. DAVIS,
[First lieutenant, army of the United States, retired]
As told to Carl Wiegman
[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

During our travels near the front lines we saw many abandoned German tanks and other equipment. The Russian army seemed to have no salvage organization; abandoned equipment was left to rust everywhere.

The Red army also seemed to lack an echelon to repair and maintain its own machines. When a truck broke down, it was abandoned. We saw no services of supply or medical stations like those in our army. For the Russians, life is cheap. They give little consideration to wounded men. Several times we saw Poles who had been drafted into burying parties, digging holes where both Russians and Germans were buried indiscriminately.

Help Sought for Yanks

As we traveled on the oil truck northeast from Szubin, we resolved to get to Moscow as soon as possible to notify the American embassy that something should be done to feed and shelter liberated American prisoners of war. By this time there were hundreds of them wandering over western Poland.

We reached Bydgoszcz at 3 p. m. and reported immediately to the Russian commandant. He said provisions had been made for ex-prisoners in a camp outside the city.

By this time I was reluctant to believe any Russian promises, but started for the camp. On the way, I became separated from the seven Americans who rode with me to Bydgoszcz and met two British Tommies, accompanied by a Yugoslav soldier who could speak Russian.

Advised Against Camp

"Don't go to that Russian camp," they advised me. "Everybody who goes there is locked up. It's like a concentration camp. Come with us."

I accepted the invitation and we made our way by devious means to Inowroclaw, where we heard trains were running to Kutno. We boarded a freight train crowded with Russian soldiers and refugees of all nationalities. Among the Russian soldiers in our car was a man about 50. There also was a boy about 12. They said they had been traveling for four months, trying to find their outfits. The older man identified himself as a Georgian and said he was anxious to get back to his farm.

A Polish officer on the car heard us talking in English and introduced himself as John —, explaining that he had learned English in a German prison camp. He said he was a graduate of the University of Warsaw and had been a press officer attached to the Polish foreign office before the war.

Fears for Poland

"I would like to go to Washington after the war and be a press officer of the Polish embassy — if Poland has an embassy," he said. "But I fear Poland won't be free. The Russians are grabbing all of Europe."

John asked me if I thought the United States and Russia would go to war. I told him no, that I believed Americans realized they could not solve all the problems of Europe.

When the train reached Kutno at 4 a. m., John took me to the home of friends named Bulowski near the railway station. We were admitted by Mrs. Bulowski, who was very gracious in spite of the fact that it was 4 a. m.

She awakened her husband and their three daughters—Hanna, Ducha, and Tana. The girls, who were very attractive, made a big fuss over me because I was an American, and the Polish officer kidded me about it. The girls said they had been working until recently in a German factory and that their parents had been in a concentration camp.

The family insisted that I sleep most of the day, giving me their best bed. In the evening the girls played the piano and sang patriotic songs, most of them with the theme: "Poland will never die." They had a little phonograph with a record of the "Beer Barrel Polka." The girls induced me to dance with them, but my feet were in such bad shape I could not dance very well.

The next day John and I told the family good-by and boarded a train that was supposed to be going to Warsaw. We sat on top of a tank car for three hours, but in that time the train moved only 300 yards, and we decided to save ourselves from freezing to death by returning to the hospitable Bulowski home.

They welcomed us and fed us. Soon after we arrived there was a sharp knock on the door and a husky fellow wearing the armband of the Polish patriots strode into the house. He was carrying a tommy gun, which alarmed me. Behind him came two pompous middle aged men, both in uniforms, and two lesser personages, one a bodyguard and the other a secretary, we learned later.

Officials Are Kind

One of the pompous men was introduced to me as a minister of the Lublin government, organized under Russian auspices, and the other as another high official of the Lublin government. I shall call the minister Welliss and the other official Zagorski, altho those are not their real names. They were kind to me and I do not wish to embarrass or injure them.

Minister Welliss seemed to be delighted to meet an American. After supper he produced some vodka and we drank toasts to victory. John, the Polish officer, and the minister got into a debate.

"Poland will never be free as long as the Russians are in control," John said.

The minister hedged in his reply, but asserted the Russians would never recognize the London government in exile. John defended the London government, arguing that it was working for Poland while the Lublin government was working for Russia. He criticized the Red army for its failure to assist the insurrection in Warsaw.

Son Killed in Uprising

Minister Welliss conceded the Russians had not done enough for the Warsaw insurgents, and remarked sadly that one of his sons had been killed in that uprising.

John wanted to know if I believed the Americans' delay in breaking thru the western front had been the result of a deal with Stalin to permit him to occupy Poland. I replied somewhat heatedly that I was sure there was no such deal; that I knew from bitter personal experience that our advances on the western front were made against strong German fortifications and against the best German armies. The Russians had no such problems on their front, I argued. The minister agreed with me.

John explained that I was anxious to get to Moscow and the minister agreed to try to help me. Next day he drove me to Lodz in his jeep, which flew a banner identifying him as a government official. Everywhere we went, we were saluted, a rather strange experience for me. Outside the city we stopped at the Lodz murder camp where the Germans had confined 3,000 Polish political prisoners.

Horror Beyond Belief

The minister asked me to look at the place and to carry its description back to America. The German SS troops had left the camp only a week earlier after setting the buildings afire and leaving the prisoners to burn to death. Bodies were stacked in piles at the doors. I thought the war had me calloused to the sight of corpses, but this was a horror beyond belief or description.

There were a few Polish civilians looking among the piles of charred flesh for the bodies of members of their families.

On our arrival in Lodz, the minister invited me to stay in his hotel suite until he could make arrangements to send me to Warsaw by plane. The suite was elegant; I even had an opportunity to take a bath, and was confident that my troubles were over. Again I was wrong.

SOVIET WRITER ASSAILS U. S. AND BRITISH PRESS

MOSCOW, Dec. 3 [Reuters]—The soviet writer, Nikolai Baltisky, attacked news agencies and newspapers in Britain and the United States in an article in the Moscow New Times today. He accused them of lying, sensation mongering, political distortion, attempting to spread capitalistic influence, and anti-soviet tendencies.

Reuters, the Associated Press, and the United Press, he alleged, are controlled by small groups of wealthy newspaper owners, not concerned with the rights of the people, but in extending their own commercial interests.

He denounced the British and American press for alleged slanders of the Red army and falsehoods in reports of expulsions of Germans from the Russian occupied zone of Germany.

HOW HOLLAND SAVED 1,150,000 COWS FROM FOE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, Dec. 3—How farmers and veterinarians of Holland fooled the Germans and saved at least 1,150,000 cows from the enemy was disclosed today. A farmer would complain that his herds had hoof and mouth disease and a veterinary would so certify, it was said. The Germans then would quarantine the farm and refuse to touch the cattle.

As a result of that strategem and the natural increase in stock, conditions in Holland as regards live stock are better than before the war, agricultural leaders said.

1,600 CAPTIVES LEAVE SWEDEN ON SOVIET SHIP

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 3 (AP)—The Russian transport Kuban sailed today for soviet territory with 1,600 German army men who were evacuated from Swedish internment camps last week after riotous scenes of resistance and attempts at self-injury by the inmates.

About 600 who were hospitalized as a result of self-inflicted wounds or hunger strikes still are in Sweden. They probably will be taken away in small groups as they recover. Three committed suicide.

Fifteen Germans who escaped from the camps were still at large.

A New Life-Saver!

By MARK MERIT

At Schenley Laboratories, Inc., one of our subsidiaries, a new thrill always awaits one. The most recent one must be labeled AA-1. It belongs in the same category with the thrill we experienced when we saw our "men in white" labor, heedless of clocks or watches, to develop a process for the mass scale production of Penicillin-Schenley. And now there's a new wonder drug, just around the corner, which successfully combats certain germs which Penicillin and other previously known drugs, failed to destroy. Its name is Streptomycin.

You've heard the story of Penicillin. Its discovery was probably the most important "accident" that ever occurred. But the discovery of Streptomycin was not accidental. Dr. Selman A. Waksman, of Rutgers University, searched for it—and found it!

We haven't the space to tell you the whole story but we can reiterate more than a well-founded hope that Streptomycin is a weapon to battle, and to destroy, a number of diseases of man, against which other products have heretofore proven fruitless.

So far, our researchers are making it only in very small quantities, which are distributed to a few medical scientists for use in carefully selected cases. But these "men in white" are working diligently and zealously in our laboratories, as are other scientists in other laboratories, to develop a process for quantity manufacture of Streptomycin so that it will be available, eventually, for the treatment of thousands of patients.

The late war against the destroyers of human liberty is over. In many lands today, doves are beginning to fly where vultures flew before. But the battle of the scientists goes on—and the uniforms of the battlers are different. Their coats are white instead of olive drab or blue.

These men are helping to win the peace!

REDS REFUSE TO WITHDRAW TROOPS IN IRAN

U. S. Offer to Pull Out by Jan. 1 Rejected

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3 (AP)—The state department tonight said that Russia had rejected an American request that all allied troops be withdrawn from Iran by Jan. 1.

The reason for the Russian rejection was not given by the department.

Officials presumed, they said, that the withdrawal date for both British and Russian troops still stands at March 2. President Truman was described as intent upon this government's objective of withdrawing all American troops by Jan. 1.

The United States had proposed the latter date to London and Moscow in a special note 10 days ago, arguing that the best way to restore peace and security to the troubled middle eastern country was to get all foreign troops out as quickly as possible.

Can't Accede to Request

Of the Russian reply, Michael J. McDermott, state department information officer, said simply that the Russians had advised the United States government they do not find it possible to accede to the American request that British and Russian troops also be withdrawn by the first of January.

Previously the Russians had turned down an Iranian request that troops be allowed to enter Azerbaijan province and had warned that the presence of more Iranian troops there might increase fighting and bloodshed.

Joint Declaration

The United States entered the picture because the late President Roosevelt signed at Tehran in the fall of 1943 a declaration made jointly with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin pledging the full independence of that country.

British troops rode into southern Iran and Russian troops into northern Iran during the war for the announced purpose of safeguarding a strategic territory thru which lend-lease supplies could be moved to Russia. American troops were not combat units but transport forces concerned with operation of rail and highway lines, and many have been pulled out since the end of the war in Europe.

Taken by Surprise

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

TEHRAN, Iran, Dec. 3—An order to evacuate Iran by January, two months ahead of the original schedule, has thrown the American forces into a frenzy of open activity.

The Washington decision to depart in haste obviously took the military authorities here by surprise and may cost American taxpayers a pretty penny. Only a few days after Washington's announcement, replacements arrived from America to relieve men due for discharge. Both the old and the new men are elated at the news of an early evacuation.

The decision to leave Jan. 1 apparently means that material worth about $15,000,000 must be sold hastily, abandoned, or turned over to civilian agencies for disposal.

Appeals to Reds

TEHRAN, Iran, Dec. 3 (AP)—The Iranian government told Russia today that it would be willing "to meet the legitimate people" in troubled Azerbaijan province, presumably to discuss demands for local autonomy, as soon as order is restored in northern Iran.

The government's offer, considered by some cabinet members as the inauguration of an appeasement policy, was made in a note replying to a Russian refusal to permit Iranian reenforcements from entering the province on the ground that their presence would cause further fighting and bloodshed.

The Iranian forces would be used only to prevent disorder or aggression, the note said, and "in this way the northern provinces will be quickly pacified and government officials will be able to meet the legitimate people of Azerbaijan."

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Dec. 4—Washington Says Farewell

THE TALL, grave faced man was Gen. Washington. The other officers were men who had served with him thru the long and often black years of the Revolutionary war. The date was Dec. 4, 1783; the place, Fraunces' tavern near the tip of Manhattan island.

"With a heart full of love and gratitude," Washington said, "I now take leave of you, most devoutly wishing that your latter days may be as prosperous and happy as your former ones have been glorious and honorable."

After drinking a toast, he added: "I cannot come to each of you to take my leave, but shall be obliged if each of you will come and take me by the hand."

One by one, in deepest silence, the others came up to accede to their general's request. Still silent, they followed Washington as he left the tavern and proceeded on foot to the ferry. There he entered the barge which was to take him across the Hudson river as a prelude to his journey south.

Washington turned to the group on shore, took off his hat and waved a farewell. His officers waved back, then watched the barge until it was out of sight.

Washington was on his way to Annapolis, Md., where congress then was sitting, to resign his commission and, he believed, return to private life. He could not know that a few years later the nation which he had done so much to free would call him back to fill the highest office it was in its power to bestow.

REDUCE ARMIES IN AUSTRIA, FOUR POWERS URGED

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, Dec. 3—Britain has proposed to the governments of the United States, soviet Russia, and France that all four substantially reduce their armies in Austria. The British government also suggests a simultaneous announcement proclaiming that pending final delimination of the frontiers, they recognize and will maintain the 1937 frontiers.

The British government, in its notes, advocates that the reduction of armies be carried out in such a way that within a few months each of the four occupying powers would have in Austria numerically equal armies. This would imply a withdrawal of a higher ration of Russian forces.

It is the British view that these armies could be cut drastically, altho the notes from London recognize that, if agreement on the proposal is reached between the governments, it will then be for the control council in Vienna to prepare a detailed scheme which would then be put into execution.

JAP DIET SHAKEN BY ORDERS TO SEIZE MEMBERS

TOKYO, Dec. 4 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Shaken to its foundation by Gen. MacArthur's order for the arrest of some of its leading members, the imperial diet discussed finances today without enthusiasm.

The Kyodo news agency said "a war criminal storm blew thru the diet building" as 20 members of the house of peers and six members of the house of representatives were included in the newest arrest list. Lt. Gen. Nobutake Shioten, discovering his name on the list turned pale and quickly disappeared, Kyodo reported.

The agency said the list was "sticking a dagger into the heart of the diet, which is trying to gloss over the situation by pulling out a war responsibility resolution." The budget meeting was slow moving, with Premier Shidehara and Rep. Kawasaki alternately getting up and sitting down in discussions.

GERMANS LOSE 10% OF WEIGHT ON PRESENT DIET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, Dec. 3—During the three month period of the present ration of 1,500 calories, the Germans in the Bremen enclave have lost 10 per cent of their weight. A study made of all age groups has revealed this fact.

The death rate also is about twice normal. "Some are scared to death of epidemics," an American officer said. "The margin of safety is slight. The resistance of the population is low, and some predict an influenza epidemic."

Maj. T. P. Headen, military government executive at Bremen, said that the Germans have enough food stocks to meet the requirements of 1,500 calories thru the winter. While there is no coal for civilian homes, the military government is rationing wood for this purpose.

PERCIVAL 'WENT OFF HANDLE' WHEN TOLD OF BENNETT ESCAPE

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 3 (AP)—British Lt. Gen. A. E. Percival "went off the handle" Feb. 16, 1942, when informed that Australian Lt. Gen. H. Gordon Bennett had escaped from Singapore the previous day, a witness testified today at a public hearing. Bennet requested the hearing to determine whether he had prematurely abandoned his men.

Percival was in command of allied troops in Singapore, and Bennett headed the Australian forces.

Testifying from a bed in the Sydney military hospital, where he is recovering from the effects of more than three years in Japanese prisons, Col. James H. Thyer said Percival telephoned at 5 p. m. on the day after the Japanese had seized Singapore, and asked to speak to Bennett.

When told that it was believed Bennett had escaped, Percival "sounded very irritated and rang off," said Thyer, who was Bennett's senior staff officer. "I don't remember what he said. He just went off the handle," Thyer added.

DE GASPERI SAYS HE HAS FORMED ITALIAN CABINET

ROME, Dec. 4 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Foreign Minister Alcide de Gasperi said early today he had succeeded in forming a new Italian government to succeed that of Ferruccio Parri, whose coalition cabinet fell Nov. 24.

De Gasperi had been conferring with the heads of Italy's six major political parties for several days to reach a compromise on the allotting of key cabinet posts.

De Gasperi made the announcement after the Liberals [Rightists] accepted new proposals for entering the government. It was understood that Victor Emmanuel Orlando, World War I leader, will be vice premier.

TRUMAN RULED USE OF A-BOMB, SENATORS TOLD

Dr. Bush Says F. D. R. Decided on Incendiaries

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3 (AP)—Dr. Vannevar Bush tonight said the decision to drop new incendiary bombs on Japan was made by President Roosevelt but that the late President did not make the decision on use of the atomic bomb.

Dr. Vannevar Bush before committee

An Associated Press story had quoted Dr. Bush, the scientist who headed the war work of American Scientific laboratories, as saying Mr. Roosevelt had made the decision to use both weapons.

But Dr. Bush said later, in response to a reporter's question, that he had referred only to the new incendiary bombs.

The scientist said the decision to use the atomic bomb against the Japanese was made by President Truman at Potsdam.

Tested After Death

He told the special senate committee studying means to control atomic energy that the decision to use the fearsome new incendiaries against Japan's cities in order to destroy her industry was made personally by the late President.

Dr. Bush said later that the atomic bomb had not been tested prior to Mr. Roosevelt's death.

There was some question whether to use the new incendiaries on Japanese cities because they would kill so many civilians, Dr. Bush told the senate committee:

"The decision to use them was made by President Roosevelt," he declared. "There was a serious problem in my mind and I was glad I did not have to make the decision."

Sees End of World Wars

Bush expressed belief the atomic bomb means the end of world wars.

The scientist who directed the development of this and other weapons as head of the national defense research committee and the office of scientific research and development predicted it would take a long time to set up atomic controls.

But he told the committee that all the nations want a long peace and that this period can be used to develop the control machinery. He added that two nations armed with atomic bombs would not consider going to war against each other because the consequences would be "too terrible."

Sen. Johnson [D., Colo.] observed that Dr. Bush's testimony was encouraging after the "Gloomy Gus witnesses" who had made the committee room a "chamber of horrors."

REPORT RUSSIAN TRAILED BY FBI AS A-BOMB SPY

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—The New York Journal-American said today in a copyrighted story that for two years the federal bureau of investigation has been trailing a Russian secret service agent "who, it is believed, may have obtained atomic bomb secrets."

The New York FBI office said it had no comment on the story, and in Washington the state department, the FBI national headquarters, and the Russian embassy also declined comment.

The paper said FBI agents found a package in the agent's room in Chicago in 1943 that contained highly confidential details of atomic development.

The paper said the agent was living now in a midtown hotel and was surrounded by a squad of FBI men, operating on a 24-hour basis.

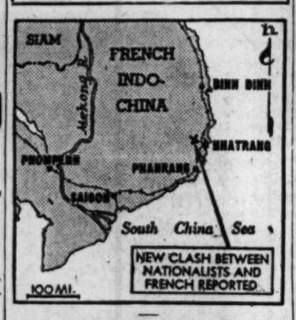
COUNTERFEITING PLOT IS NIPPED BY TWO ARRESTS

Conspiring to flood Chicago with 5,000 counterfeit American Express travelers' checks in denominations of $10 to $100 during the Christmas shopping rush was confessed to state's attorney's investigators yesterday by John G. Brennan, 41, of 1635 Stockton st., Des Plaines, a lithographer, and Martin Murray, 35, of 6158 N. Ozark st., a steamfitter.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert and Sgt. Nicholas Disteldorf arrested Brennan and Murray in front of a printing shop the pair had rented at 3830 N. Halsted st.

Plates, a camera, inks, and paper were found in an automobile used by the two men. Brennan admitted he had been hired by Murray to do the counterfeiting, Capt. Gilbert and Assistant State's Atty. Edward Healy said. The two will be arraigned in Felony court today.

New Outbreak



SAIGON, Indo-China, Dec. 3 (AP)—An official British-French statement today disclosed a new clash between French troops and Annamese nationalists near Nhatrang, coastal town 190 miles northeast of Saigon.

"French troops have broken thru Viet Minh [nationalist] defenses northwest of Nhatrang, inflicting heavy casualties on the extremists," the statement said. "The area occupied has been cleared."

Rubber shipments from Indo-China to the United States are being delayed by disorganization of loading facilities and the refusal of stevedores to work in the face of Annamese threats. The American-flagged Red Rover, which arrived in mid-November to transport 8,000 tons of rubber to Baltimore, Md., remained idle, Washington, D. C., has been asked by American representatives here to send no more ships for Indo-Chinese cargo until harbor conditions are clarified.

HOPE OF GOLDEN ATOM ERA GIVEN KNOCKOUT BLOW

The golden age of atomic energy is many years in the future, Dr. Thorfin Hogness, director of the atomic bomb project's chemistry division at the University of Chicago, told the City Club of Chicago at a meeting in the La Salle hotel yesterday.

The reason why, Dr. Hogness said, is the cost of converting uranium into the element U235 and transforming that into energy is vastly greater than the cost of coal to create an equivalent amount of electric energy.

"Nature already has given us plenty of cheap fuel for hundreds of years to come," Dr. Hogness said, "so from the power standpoint alone, atomic energy will bring no great change. At best, U235, for a long time to come, can become only a high priced premium fuel to be used on submarines, battleships, colossal airplanes, and other specialized devices and in extremely inaccessible locations."

SUPREME COURT GETS YAMASHITA PLEA FOR WRIT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3 (AP)—Japanese Gen. Yamashita today asked the Supreme court to stop his trial before an American military commission in Manila and to bring him to Washington for a hearing before the high tribunal.

Yamashita in a formal petition airmailed from the Philippines asked the Supreme court to issue a writ of habeas corpus requiring Gen. MacArthur to produce him before the tribunal or one of its justices for any action the high court considers proper.

He also asked a "writ of prohibition," against continuation of his trial as a war criminal. He requested that the high court order him returned to the status of prisoner of war "in conformity with provisions of the Geneva convention."

Claims Authority Lacking

Yamashita's petition, contending the military commission lacked authority to try him, said:

"There being no martial law, no military government of occupied territory, and no active hostilities in the Philippines at the time of the appointment of the commission, there was no authority to appoint the commission and it is without jurisdiction."

The court will act on the petition later.

WILL HEAR FATE FRIDAY

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 3—The trial of Gen. Yamashita on war criminal charges drew near an end tonight when Yamashita himself stepped down from the stand as the final defense witness, leaving only closing arguments before the five man military commission retires to consider the verdict.

Maj. Gen. R. B. Reynolds announced that there would be no hearings tomorrow. Both sides will give their summations Wednesday, and the commission will spend Thursday deliberating the verdict, which, according to present plans, will be handed down Friday.

The highlight of today's hearing was the question of whether an error in interpretation or lying on the part of Yamashita was responsible for the discrepancy between his testimony this afternoon and that he gave last Thursday. Yamashita had testified that no American prisoners of war nor civilian internees were tried by Japanese military courts thruout the Philippines while he was there. Today he testified that no such trials were held "by military courts under my jurisdiction."

Interpretation Mixup

This caused Maj. Robert M. Kerr, Portland, Ore., chief prosecutor, to level an accusing finger at Yamashita and point out the contradition. Yamashita, apparently surprised, said: "That was because in the Japanese language I was asked only about courts martial under my jurisdiction."

Kerr said sharply, "That was not what I asked."

Says He Was Helpless

In a final effort to emphasize his contention that he was not responsible for atrocities, Yamashita testified that one of his army groups had the power of life and death over prisoners and he was helpless to intervene.

He said the 35th army group operating east of Manila, where many atrocities were committed, had authority to appoint courts martial and try prisoners of war and internees, and he was without authority to take it away.

INDIANS FIX UP TRUMAN'S LACK OF A SWEATER

DUNCAN, B. C., Dec. 3 (AP)—President Truman borrowed a hand knitted Indian sweater from Gov. Mon C. Wallgren while on a fishing trip when he was in Washington state last year. Now he has one of his own.

The Cowichan Indians heard about the incident and yesterday presented Troy L. Perkins, United States consul, Victoria, B. C., with a heavy handmade sweater for the President's very own. The ceremonies were attended by 1,000, including 100 Indians.

Accompanying the garment was a request asking the President to accept the title of "Thalghtethe Sieye," which freely translated means "chief of peace."

DEFENSE WARNS IT WILL STALL INDIAN TRIALS

British Seeking Way to Save Face

BY ALFRED WAGG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 3—Trials of the officers of the Indian National army, which was organized by the Japanese, have failed to bolster the morale of the faithful in the Indian army, in the opinion of semi-official observers here. These sources point out that a shot in the arm for military morale was the main object of the British government in holding the trials in India.

Sarat Chandra Bose, brother of the late Nationalist leader, Subhas Chandra Bose, says hysteria is mounting thruout India, and predicts new trouble in Bengal unless the trials are abandoned.

Observers believe the trials have served to unite the Moslem and Hindu leaders, while setting apart the communists.

"Stirred as Never Before"

Bose's statement that the communists played against the students in recent Bengal disturbances is being reiterated by all parties in India, with the theme that the communists in India have consistently played with the British government.

Jawaharlal Nehru, All-India Congress party leader, said that this has stirred the Indian people as never before, and "even Indian army units have sent contributions to our fund for the defense of the Indian national army followers." He said the trials will be prolonged indefinitely unless the British relent.

Prepared for Long Trial

Defense lawyers have warned the prosecution that they are prepared to drag out the trials for a year. The defense already has called 135 witnesses for the first of the trials, compared with some 30 prosecution witnesses.

Countering the defense threat, which would prolong the trials thru the spring elections, the government said that the trials would be limited to charges of gross brutality against Indians. Thus politically important names could be omitted, tho allowing face saving by being able to tell loyal Indian army men that their fidelity has been recognized by the conviction of some offenders—even tho few in number.

British officialdom is in a quandary, and the suggestion has been made that the mass trials be ended by some high official, blaming their failure on some one, and that individual cases should be tried. This proposal seems to be supported in high circles, with the idea that some one in authority must resign to save British prestige.

HEAD OF VETS' SURGEONS HITS SOCIAL MEDICINE

new veterans' hospitals. He also urged the 175 delegates to admit into membership the physicians who are members of the veterans' administration after the medical standards of the veterans bureau are raised to meet A. M. A. requirements.

Answer Expected Today

The delegates, representing more than 125,000 American physicians, today are expected to make a formal answer to President Truman's recent proposal to congress for compulsory sickness insurance legislation and a nation-wide system of government supported health agencies.

More than 40 resolutions, many of them voicing the medical profession's opposition to the President's health program, are to be acted on by the delegates. They will be in session thru Thursday.

At yesterday's meeting, resolutions were introduced condemning pending legislation for expansion of federal authority under the emergency maternal and infant care bill and for transfer of the children's bureau from the labor department to the federal security agency.

Cites Tribune Dispatch

Another resolution suggested that representatives of the A. M. A. confer with directors of the National Tuberculosis association to determine whether the medical profession should withdraw its approval of the annual sale of Christmas tuberculosis seals on the alleged grounds that an excessive amount of the proceeds from the sale of such stamps is being used for propaganda purposes.

A dispatch by Ward Walker of THE TRIBUNE'S London bureau which related that United States army doctors are being held in England to care for babies born to English wives of American soldiers, was cited in a resolution introduced by Dr. C. R. Keyport of Grayling, Mich., to speed the return of such medical officers.

Later in the day, Brig. Gen. Fred W. Rankin of Lexington, Ky., former president of the A. M. A. and chief consultant in surgery to the army during the war, was presented the distinguished service medal by Brig. Gen. E. A. Noyes, commanding officer of the 5th service command at Columbus, O.

COWHEY ORATES ON COMPLEXITY OF DIAL PHONES

Members of the city council listened yesterday to a solemn dissertation upon the complexities of the machine age, as exemplified by dial telephones. The address was delivered by Ald. Cowhey [41st] in the form of a proposed ordinance which would make the telephone company remove dial phones from all public booths.

Dial telephones, the alderman said, are just too complicated for a lot of people to understand. They go into a booth, study the dial mechanism gloomily, then often leave in a state of utter bewilderment.

Or, the alderman said, they will insert a nickel in a mood of mingled daring and desperation, fiddle with the dials for awhile, then depart without completing their calls or getting their nickel back, Cowhey asserted. The council referred the proposal to the committee on utilities.

CHIANG TROOPS PUSHING DRIVE IN MANCHURIA

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 3 (AP)—Chinese Nationalist forces advancing in Manchuria were reported within 30 miles of Mukden today and their commander said, "We expect to be in Harbin in a month or so." Press dispatches reporting the new gains said air transportation of Nationalist troops farther into Manchuria would start next week.

An Associated Press dispatch from Peiping said that Nationalist officials, who had fled from Changchun, Manchurian capital, in mid-November for fear that Russian withdrawal would leave them at the mercy of the Chinese Communists, were preparing to return tomorrow.

Among these officials is Chiang Chung-kuo, eldest son of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. He said he would discuss with the Russians the projected air borne Nationalist troop movement.

TWA IN PREVIEW OF PASSENGER ROUTE TO PARIS

Regular Service Starts in Two Weeks

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3 (AP)—A commercial air liner took off here for Paris today in a preview of regular service soon to link the two capitals, while elsewhere in Washington these international aviation developments occurred:

1. Sen. McCarran [D., Nev.] introduced a new bill for a unified organization to represent the United States on world airways.

2. The civil aeronautics board worked on an economic study to determine the operating costs of trans-Atlantic flying in connection with British action against Pan American Airways for establishment of a $275 one-way fare to London without consulting other operators.

23 Guest Passengers

The Paris flight was a Transcontinental & Western Air Lockheed Constellation, carrying as guest passengers 23 government officials, air line executives, and newspaper men.

Named the "Paris Sky Chief," the plane was scheduled to stop at Gander, N. F., and Shannon airport, Ireland, on a flight of 16 hours or less to Paris.

Regular service to Paris and possibly on to Cairo, Egypt, probably will start in two weeks.

The McCarran bill is a revision of one introduced previously in which the Nevada senator proposed an "all-American flag line" with a billion dollars capital and in which all of the United States air carriers could share. The latest version would permit railroads and steamship lines to participate in a company formed under the direction of the civil aeronautics board. No company or individual could own more than 2 per cent of the proposed common stock under the terms of the measure.

Three Get Certificates

The administration already has adopted a policy of regulated competition, however, and has given certificates to three carriers—TWA, Pan-American, and American Overseas Airlines [a division of American Airlines, Inc.]—to fly the North Atlantic.

The fare fight broke into the open last week when the British government cut back Pan American from five weekly schedules between New York and London to two, as provided in the 1937 Anglo-American air agreement. The action was based on Pan American's decision to cut its fare from $375 one way to $275, while the British Overseas Airways corporation [BOAC] charges $568 and American charges $572.

GOES ON TRIAL FOR VIOLATION OF DRUG LAWS

Norval C. Douglas, 49, a cosmetics manufacturer at 4402 Sheridan rd., went on trial yesterday before Judge John P. Barnes in federal District court on charges of violating the food, drug, and cosmetics act by misrepresenting his fat and wrinkle removing products.

Assistant United States Atty. Michael J. Boyle said he would prove that Douglas exaggerated the powers of his Miracle Slenderizing Cream to remove fat and of his Miracle Aid to remove wrinkles and double chins.

The cream, Boyle said, consists of 55 per cent water and portions of epsom salt, stearic acid, and oil of wintergreen, while the wrinkle removing lotion is made of 95 per cent water, and some egg white, sodium sulphite, and perfume. Atty. A. R. Hulbert, representing the defendant, said the products fulfill all claims.

Five Firemen Overcome Fighting Blaze in Loop

Five firemen from engine company 13 were overcome by smoke yesterday while fighting a $200 fire in the basement beneath the Center Liquor mart, 12 W. Lake st. Revived by a rescue squad and taken to St. Anthony's hospital, the men were Acting Lt. Walter Love, 40, of 6851 Ada st., and Firemen Francis J. Marley, 35, of 1617 Devon av.; John Kavanaugh, 40, of 8542 Green st.; Theodore Bilar, 35, of 13423 Buffalo av., and Edmund Enright, 30, of 7356 Vernon av.

EXPERT SEES CRASH-FREE OCEAN FLIGHTS

New Methods Are Aid to Safety

An age of transoceanic flights free from loss of planes because of forced landings on water was predicted yesterday as 500 engineers from air lines and manufacturing companies gathered at the Edgewater Beach hotel for the first post-war air transport meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Frank B. Canney, who has charge of research work for the Boeing Aircraft company, told the engineers that "the probable frequency of ditchings in commercial transocean operations will doubtless be reduced to the vanishing point."

Power Failure Curbed

Power failure was the greatest single noncombat cause for loss of B-29s in overwater flights and is also likely to be the greatest factor in possible loss in commercial operations across the oceans, he said.

Altho the four engine plane has twice as many chances for a power failure as a twin engine aircraft, three engines must fail simultaneously before the four engine plane is forced into the water, he said. This type of plane is being used on the Chicago to London flights recently started by American Overseas Airlines, Inc.

Figures compiled from a study of engine failures in planes on domestic runs, which involved twin engine planes almost entirely, show a probably freqency of ditchings as 1 in 16,576 flights from the United States to London.

Greater cruising speeds, improve engine performance, and the transoceanic operators' policy of adopting an alternate flight plan at the first indication of trouble, will reduce the frequency still further, Canney explained.

Cite Low Rate of Loss

He cited figures of the 21st air force, whose B-29s flattened Japan, in support of the projected low rate of loss. These operations resulted in one ditching for about 750,000 miles of combat flying. Excluding loss caused by damage sustained in combat, the rate would have been one ditching for 1¼ million miles of flight.

Successful overwater flight operations require provisions for flight regularity and for ditching, Canney said. He asserted flight regularity demands a minimum of four main power units, completely protected from the weather, pressurized cabins and supercharged engines to take advantage of strong winds, and high cruising speeds which would result in greater operating economy.

Warns of Complexities

M. F. Vanik, also a Boeing Aircraft company engineer, warned that with the advent of six and eight engine planes it is possible cockpit functions can become so cumbersome they will be a serious potential hazard. He said there is strong hope that future developments will result in multi-engine cockpits that are easier to operate than in twin engine planes.

The transport meeting will continue thru today and tomorrow at the hotel. Kenneth Campbell of the Wright Aeronautical corporation will receive the Manley memorial medal for his contribution to aviation at a banquet tonight.

N. Y. TO HAVE A BIG PARADE, INCLUDING THE 82D AIR BORNE

New York, Dec. 3 [Special]—The 82d air borne division, which has been serving as an occupying force in the Berlin area, will be brought here intact for a parade in full battle equipment early next month, the army announced today. Date of the exhibition will be between Jan. 1 and 15.

The parade is planned to give New York its greatest military show since the first World war, with 75 and 105 mm. howitzers drawn by jeeps, and four battalions of field artillery and several anti-tank division units participating. The 101st and 17th air borne divisions will also be represented in the line of march.

The men of the 82d will carry the knives, small arms, and automatic weapons which they used in European combat, it was said. Maj. Gen. James M. Gavin, 38, is the commander of the division.

EYES IMPAIRED, OKINAWA VET GREETS FAMILY

Charleston, S. C., Dec. 3 (AP)—Sailor Bill Bingham's long time dream came true today—his family was with him again. A navy plane flew his wife and two small daughters here from New Zealand to rejoin the Okinawa veteran suffering from a severe eye infection.

Mrs. Iris Bingham, with Diana and Jennifer, arrived early this afternoon at the army airport, end of the long series of flights from New Zealand, where she married the 24 year old South Carolina navy cook three years ago. Bingham leaped aboard the plane to see Iris and Diana for the first time in 17 months. It was his first look at Jennifer, 10 months old, who was born after Bingham went to sea.

Bingham has been stationed at the naval hospital here for months while doctors treated his eyes. Sight is about gone out of the left eye, but his right eye is almost normal. It was because of fear that he might lose the sight of both of his eyes that the navy rushed his family here for him to see them.

PEGGY JOYCE IS WED TO NO. 5; 'LAST,' SHE SAYS

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Peggy Hopkins Joyce was married today to her fifth husband, Anthony Easton, an engineer.

"You can say this is the last marriage," she told reporters after the ceremony, performed by New York Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora in his chambers.

The bride, who gave her age as 39 and her occupation as actress, and who declared she was "nervous" before the ceremony, wore a 50 carat marquis cut diamond on a right hand finger. Easton gave his age as 38.

"Is the word 'obey' in it [the ceremony]?" the bride asked Pecora.

"Do you want it in?" he queried.

BLAMES ARSON ON 'HOT HORSE' IN FIRE AT BOOKIE

After fighting a fire in a room in a store building at 7932 South Chicago av., Chief Paul Conners of the 14th battalion last night hunted a "hot horse" as the probable cause. He found three telephones, three card tables, and a stack of chairs in the place and was assured by neighbors that the room was a handbook.

A policeman, however, asserted that the place had been closed for a long time. Whereupon the firemen looked for defective wiring as the cause of the $1,000 fire.

Acting Capt. John Walsh, who started a search for the owner of the building, reported that no book had been in operation since he took command of the South Chicago district.

INFLATION AND WAGES

At the end of the war every person capable of reasoning and acquainted with the facts knew that the war had produced conditions which might engulf this country in a disastrous inflation. There were shortages of nearly everything of which we formerly had plenty. Much of our household equipment was worn out. While there were shortages of goods, there were mountains of money. On V-E day there was 70 billion dollars more in the form of currency and bank deposits than there had been at the end of 1941. There was another 70 billions in governmental securities convertible into cash on short notice.

With the supply of goods at the lowest level in memory and the supply of money swollen beyond anything that could have been imagined, inflation would surely come unless great wisdom was shown. What was needed was the prompt expansion of the production of goods, moderation in wage demands, and economy in government.

What has happened has been the reverse of what was needed, and all around us—in the markets, in real estate, and in the stores—we see the consequences of our folly. Instead of seeking to reduce the outgo of the treasury the President has proposed increased expenditures. While the treasury is adding every day to the swollen supply of funds there are nearly universal demands for increased wages. It is clear that these demands will be met in whole or in part, but it should be clear, also, that payments of current income to workers constitute the most inflationary money of all. It is income which the workers expect to spend almost immediately. It circulates more rapidly than any other funds. The New Deal used to insist upon this, and when the declared purpose of the Roosevelt administration was to reflate [another way of saying inflate] prices, every device to swell the payments to labor was used.

Increased disbursements, when made to a few individuals or groups, need not affect prices. The few who benefit get more money while the others do not. They have more purchasing power, while prices generally remain unchanged, and there is no reduction of output nor increased competition for supplies on hand. But general wage increases do not have the same result. The extra amount received from the paymaster is paid out to the storekeeper.

The idea that there can be increased wages without corresponding increases in prices is nonsense. Nearly everybody recognizes that industry cannot function unless permitted to earn a profit. To prohibit advances in prices while labor costs go up is to rule out of the market those firms which previously were barely getting by. Price increases must inevitably follow cost increases, unless we are to deny ourselves large parts of the supply badly needed.

All around wage increases do not get us anywhere. What people really want is not more money but more goods, a higher living standard, and improved working conditions. For this we need more output, and especially more efficient output; that is, more machinery, which means the investment of more capital in businesses. Reduced profit margins, or no profits at all, mean reduced production, a stoppage of progress, a low standard of living. Putting more money in circulation won't help if private enterprise isn't permitted to function.

OUR MARINES IN CHINA

Joseph Hearst of THE TRIBUNE has come upon a reason why American marines are in China. Mr. Hearst landed at the port of Chinwangtao, near the Manchurian border. On a nearby height was a large British flag. Over the port was the Chinese flag. Mr. Hearst didn't see an American flag prominently displayed, but American marines have been holding down the town for more than two months.

The British flag is over the headquarters of the Kailan mining administration, which runs the biggest coal mines in China. The Chinese miners are being fed with American flour, delivered by UNRRA, and paid for largely by American taxpayers. The mining company takes the cost of the flour out of the miners' wages. The mines manager said he "presumed" that eventually the bill for the flour would be offset by coal from the mines, which is shipped to Shanghai and to the British crown colony of Hong Kong. It's a safe bet, however, that none of the offset will ever find its way back into the pockets of the American people.

The mines manager was highly appreciative of the guardian services of the marines, many of whom are high point men eligible for discharge. The marines ride the coal trains to prevent Chinese Communists from interfering with them, and the manager insists that one marine is worth hundreds of Chinese soldiers. He might have added that, unlike Chinese generals, marine officers wouldn't think of shaking down the mining company. He did say that if the marines were pulled out the native miners would vanish and the mines would shut down overnight.

At Chinwangtao, at least, our marines are in China under the British flag, keeping British industries running, when they should be at home helping reconvert American industry and relieving their families of the necessity of struggling along on inadequate government allowances.

SCIENCE STUDENTS AND THE DRAFT

The so-called deferments for scientific and engineering students, just announced by selective service, are about the shabbiest fraud yet perpetrated on the American public by an organization long notorious for double talk and evasion of the facts.

The headline said "Science Students Deferred in Draft." Yeah? What science students?

The so-called deferments, to begin with, apply only to men from 18 to 25 years old, since those 26 and older are not being drafted. Selective service proposes to defer from the draft graduate students, teachers, or university research workers in engineering or the physical sciences. The fourth classification is undergraduate students. It is limited to "any registrant who has satisfactorily completed at least three years of work leading to a bachelor degree in the physical sciences or engineering, provided he has served not less than two years in a project directly connected with the war effort."

The joker in the whole set of specifications, however, lies in the fact that since the draft went into effect five years ago no engineering or science student has been granted a deferment longer than the few months necessary to finish a term. If you are going to be a graduate student, a teacher, or a research worker you must first have graduated in science or engineering. The only men who have done that in the last four or five years were 4Fs in the draft. They are not going to be drafted now, for the same reason that they weren't drafted during the war.

The same goes for undergraduate students. They have to have had three years' training to be eligible for deferment, aside from the strange provision for war work. Anybody who, under normal circumstances, is eligible for these deferments is either a 4-F, and thus doesn't need it, or got his training before the war and, therefore, must almost inevitably be over the 25 year age limit.

The United States, which won this war thru the superiority of its scientists and technicians, and brought it to an end with the climactic achievement of the atomic bomb, has been completely blind to the necessity of maintaining its supply of scientifically trained brains. Britain, Russia, Canada, and Germany all withheld their better scientific students from the army during the war. We were the only great power that failed to do so.

As such leaders of scientific education as Dr. Arthur H. Compton and President James B. Conant of Harvard have said repeatedly, we have lost a whole college generation of science students. If the gap is to be filled the most strenuous measures must be adopted. A scientist isn't made overnight. It takes him seven years, usually, to achieve the minimum requirement of a doctor's degree before he can engage in significant research or useful teaching. Instead of remedying the shortage of scientifically inclined men, the selective service rule will merely prolong it so long as the country continues to put up with the war time draft.

LIKE ASKING TO JOIN OUR UNION

The resolution to empower Mr. Stettinius in effect to declare war on behalf of the United States will come to a final vote in the senate before long. The indications are plain that the measure will be adopted.

It is almost unbelievable that anything so revolutionary, anything so pregnant with harm to the nation, can be treated so casually in congress. We are contracting to place our soldiers at the disposal of the most predatory and belligerent nations in the world with less caution than Skeezix is showing in forming his $400 partnership with Wilmer.

In effect, we are asked to enter into the most intimate political relations with Russia, Britain, and the rest of the allied world, a relationship that assumes the fullest mutual trust and confidence. It is as if they had applied for membership as states in our Union. If that were the fact, it is altogether certain that the most painstaking investigation would be made to discover whether we could live with them in peace and harmony.

It is altogether certain that Britain, which is using its Indian mercenaries and its Jap levies to kill the Indonesians with lend-lease guns and planes, would be blackballed. Likewise Russia, which is tyrannizing over its own people and over every other it can reach with its terror, wouldn't qualify. We don't trust them to that extent. We would recognize instantly that any advantage that might come from having them in the Union would be outweighed a thousand times by the liabilities that we would assume.

And yet something very much like that is being undertaken as if it were of no great consequence to anybody. The time is surely going to come when the obligations which congress is so lightly preparing to assume will be called for payment. The time is surely coming, that is, when we shall have to deliver our contingent of soldiers for some joint operation declared to be in defense of the world's peace. Some of them are going to be killed. We shall find ourselves in a full-scale war and it is idle to argue that under the contract we can limit our commitment. It will then be too late to back out.

The chances are that in the war that lies ahead we shall be fighting on the side of wrong and injustice, for it is such causes that are dearest to the hearts of our partners. We shall send Americans to die to prevent Poles from winning their freedom and to hold the oriental peoples in subjection.

All that and much more like it is implicit when it is not explicit in the contract. Congress is accepting it without even giving serious consideration to the matter. Congress is abdicating the power conferred by the Constitution to declare war. Congress never displayed a greater disregard for the safety and welfare of the American people.

WHEN MANSIONS DIE

Chicago's great family mansion No. 2, the house that McCormick the reaping machine man built, has received its death sentence, like its rival, the Palmer "castle." This impressive relic of the chateau era is familiar to every flatdweller who has taken a walk up Rush st., and its approaching destruction arouses general curiosity. For information, we suggest Thomas E. Tallmadge's "Architecture in Old Chicago" and John Drury's "Old Chicago Houses."

* * *

Tallmadge gives special attention to its architect, thus: "Of the lesser luminaries who shone thru the dying smoke of the fire of 1871, none was more interesting than Adolph Cudell, who hailed from Aix-la-Chapelle [Aachen], and came to Chicago immediately after the fire. Richard E. Schmidt, who began his distinguished career in Cudell's office, describes him as a handsome man with black hair in Apollo-like ringlets and as a draftsman of ability with a meticulous technique. . . . Cudell later became a designer and manufacturer of fine cabinet work and furniture. It was said that many places of entertainment on the north side took pride in the possession of various pieces from the hand of Cudell, obtained in his later years as payment in kind." [We infer from this hint that Cudell's career did not have a happy ending.]

* * *

The McCormick mansion was Cudell's masterpiece, but he is also remembered as the architect of Aldine square, demolished about eight years ago. The charm of this place is a favorite theme in the reminiscences of old south siders, and has been recorded by various novelists, among them Margaret Ayer Barnes.

* * *

Tallmadge, who discovered Aldine square only after its death from blight, remarks of its houses, gardens, fountain, and lagoon:

"They must have possessed a pristine loveliness and charm almost unique in a city where little attention was paid to landscape architecture." . . . They did.

What Price Nostalgia?

My heart is flooded with nostalgia for the good old days. When a little girl wore long underwear in the winter time. Long underwear that bunched at the tops of high buttoned shoes, unless black cotton stockings were rolled very carefully.

I remember the dishpan and teakettle put on to heat when we sat down to breakfast. Wood cookstoves do not produce hot water with the flick of a button. Very well do I remember the collecting of oil lamps, the newspapers spread on the kitchen table to collect stray drops of kerosene, the filling of them. Then the trimming of wicks. Not with scissors—heavens, no! You can't cut a lamp wick. They have to be pinched off. Then the lamps were wiped carefully, with a dry cloth, mind you, and the chimneys came up for renovation. Soapsuds on them, and a clean towel, and crumpled newspapers to polish them nicely. By then mother was ready to do dishes, and the only daughter was elected to wipe them.

And after that a little girl put on a stocking cap, leggings, rubbers, a coat, muffler wound round and round an already rigid neck, mittens, and then a little girl was ready to walk to school. Plowing thru puddles or snowdrifts, but arriving at school on time—always on time!

Ah, me! Those were the days. Thank heaven they are gone forever! Marjorie F. W.

HAPPY CIVILIAN

He has his troubles, as you may suppose,
Three years away have changed a lot of things;
To his surprise, he needs .. lot of clothes;
The old seem shrunk past help of altering.
The little matter of a job comes next;
A place to live, and folks he wants to see;
Life's odds and ends, that keep us all perplexed,
Are multiplied in hundredfold degree.
And yet his smile endures; when work and care
Pile up too high, he takes a pensive glance
Inside his closet door, and hanging there
The uniform he wore (from here to France
And back) recalls the army days; and then
In vast content he shuts the door again!

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if a stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

W. E. R. asks: "Is it permissible for service men to wear their uniforms after they have been discharged and returned to their homes in Chicago? My curiosity is aroused by the sight of uniformed men in picket lines."

No, according to the national defense act. Paragraph 1393, chapter 32, title, 10, United States code, says: "It shall be unlawful for any person not an officer or enlisted man of the United States army, navy, marine corps, or coast guard to wear the duly prescribed uniform of the United States army, navy, marine corps, or coast guard, or any distinctive part of such uniform, or a uniform any part of which is similar to the duly prescribed uniform . . . provided that the foregoing provision shall not be construed so as to prevent officers or enlisted men . . . whose most recent service was terminated by an honorable discharge, muster out, or resignation, from wearing, upon occasions of ceremony, the uniform of the highest grade they have held, nor to prevent any person who has been honorably discharged . . . from wearing his uniform from the place of his discharge to his home within three months after the date of such discharge. . . ." The act provides also that "any person who offends against this provision of this section shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine not exceeding $300, or by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment." This act has been interpreted as prohibiting the wearing of a military uniform after arrival home even tho the three month period has not expired. Illinois law also provides a fine for unauthorized wearing of a military uniform.

HOW INFLAMED GUMS AFFECT THE TEETH

THERE are certain groups who believe that well being depends entirely on our dietary habits. This theory is extreme and we can all think of numerous disorders that have nothing to do with eating. However, our civilized menus—which contain an overabundance of soft dishes—may be responsible for many disturbances of the teeth and gums. Such foods lessen the need for adequate chewing.

These structures may also suffer when resistance is lowered and, in that respect, their unhealthy appearance serves as an index of the general condition. In addition, oral hygiene is important. Unfortunately, many neglect this chore in spite of extensive campaigns instigated by the advertising industry and the dental profession. Little do victims realize that infection in this region may provide a portal of entry for bacteria, which ultimately disrupts the system.

Normally, the gums fit snugly about the "ivories" and the visible edges, both in front and between, are thin and pink in color. That portion which covers the roots, on the other hand, is redder, harder, and firmer in consistency. Even tho many organisms are harbored in this area they cannot be considered harmful so long as bodily reserve is maintained.

Should débris be allowed to remain on the surface or become imbedded in the tiny crevices, fermentation is not unusual and, in these circumstances, germs gain a foothold and thrive. Congestion at first is patchy in distribution but later becomes more widespread. This is known as "gingivitis" and its severity depends upon the type of microbe which has set up its beach head. Invasion by Vincent's organisms gives rise to trench mouth but other species are more common and less troublesome.

In time, thickening takes place especially along the free margins. Should edema ensue, the parts look and feel spongy. Now and then mastication becomes painful and the breath is usually foul. In most instances the whole ordeal could have been prevented by proper brushing. The condition is more likely to occur in crooked teeth because of the difficulty encountered in cleansing.

The gums can also be damaged by chemicals, particularly those containing bismuth or mercury. When used in excess, these metals find their way into the tissues and cause discoloration. The "lead line," a bluish-fringe along the margin, appears after a person becomes saturated with this substance. Dilantin sodium, so popular in the treatment of epilepsy, may also produce similar changes. Scurvy, the aftermath of too little vitamin C, may be a factor.

Eventually, the edematous membrane encroaches upon the enamel, giving the teeth a stunted look. This should not be confused with a family trait in which an excess amount of gum tissue is present, sometimes covering half of the structures which are normally exposed.

Pyorrhea is an entirely different condition for, in this malady, the space between the gums and teeth is affected. These pockets are frequently inflamed and, should the organisms extend deeply, the root may become involved. This is the well known abscessed tooth which is commonly a focus of infection for other ailments.

The cause of pyorrhea has never been established definitely. The incidence among older persons suggests that in some it is related to the aging process. The irritation may result from dental appliances and even fillings, inlays, or crowns. Uppers and lowers which do not meet accurately may become loosened and thus pave the way for bacterial attack. Early recognition is essential and no one is better qualified to ascertain the situation than the dentist.

The Lonely Heart Is Old

A brief item in the news last week told of the death, at the age of 70, of Beatrice Fairfax who had given advice to the lovelorn since 1898. One can't help wondering if any of it benefitted those most directly concerned. The lovelorn are the first to ask for advice—to beg for it, in fact, and to tell all their heart pangs to the nearest ear—and the last to take it. The solution proposed, they say, is just the one for some one else. Their problem is different. No one can understand it.

Twenty-three years before Miss Fairfax embraced the lonely hearts, the first newspaper to attempt to ease the burden ran an editorial called "Young Men and Young Women." The newspaper was the Chicago Tribune; the year 1875. The editorial began: "The despair of modern society is how to live." It took the stand that the two classes of which society is composed, the married and the unmarried, lay all their troubles to money or lack of it.

"Young men are afraid to venture into marriage because it costs too much . . . young women are doomed to . . . pass their lives in the loneliness of virgin solitude, wearing them away in neglect or in the hard drudgery of female occupations. . . . All of this is sad and ought not to be."

THE TRIBUNE did not propose to solve the problem. Instead, it threw its columns open to the married and the unmarried to say what they chose "so that a little friendly talk between them may remove all obstacles which now remove one from another."

Two days later two answers appeared, the next day six, the third day a page full. Bachelors wrote to say why they intended to remain bachelors. Maidens wrote attacking the bachelors for penury and cowardice. Married couples wrote to say that two could live as cheaply as one and gave in neat detail their living expenses for a year. Beatrice, heiress to $3,000,000, wrote to tell how her sister learned to live on her husband's salary of $900 a year.

A divorced man even added his 10 verses' worth [for he wrote in rhyme] to the hullaballoo. As a child, he said, he had been told by his mother, "Marry, my son, marry at an early age, and marry at all hazards." His father, more laconic, said, "Boy, go slow" and paid him 10 cents to memorize:

Alas! my son, you little know
The sorrows that from wedlock flow,
Farewell to every day of ease
When you have got a wife to please.

At this his mother promptly gave him 10 cents to learn and recite:

O, happy is the man and blest,
No wonder that it pride him,
When some dear lass that he likes best
Comes sitting down beside him.

Torn by indecision, he grew up and married. Love was bonny for a while, and then one day he suggested a few changes about the house. His wife cried:

Husband, husband, cease your strife,
Nor longer idly rave, sir;
Tho I am your wedded wife,
Yet I am not your slave, sir.
If 'tis still the lordly word,
Service and obedience,
I'll desert my sovereign lord
And so, good-by allegiance.

"From that day to this," he concluded, "I have not seen her."

The controversy, for this it quickly became, raged all fall and winter until at the end of 1875 THE TRIBUNE calmly ended all printed argument by publishing no more suggestions. It had no room for them. Unfortunately it did not keep a day-to-day tally on the issuance of marriage licenses, so whether the crusade did good must remain an enigma.

THE OPA HELPS THE HOUSING SHORTAGE

Chicago, Nov. 27—I have a small 4 room cottage which when fixed up would make a nice home for a small family, but as the last person who lived in it for nine years, an old man who paid $10 a month, did not keep it clean, it did need some cleaning.

I intended to remodel it and spend about $300 or $400 to put it in first class condition. I drew a sketch in detail and went down to the OPA to see how much more revenue I could get. After a lot of head scratching and other delay they said about $2.50 more a month, which would be $12.50 a month for a 4 room house.

It would take at least 15 years to get my improvement money back. As a result I now have it boarded up and when it is convenient for me I will tear it down and make garages out of the lumber. Some soldier can thank the OPA for not having a home. A. G.

NOW IT'S HENS THEY KILL

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 23—I noticed in the papers the other day that the administration, in order to prevent having a surplus of eggs next spring, is now promoting the idea of killing off the hens. This sort of thing, methinks, I have heard about before. Remember the great slaughter of the little pigs?

This administration surely does the funniest things. In 1944 they handled the situation so well that in 1945 the farmers decided to raise no pigs. Now some lame brained nincompoop in Washington has decided that in order to get short of eggs, that the killing off of the hens is a thing to be desired. A few million people are finding it just about impossible to buy eggs at 70 cents plus a dozen, and would welcome a surplus of eggs so they could get one before passing on to the place for which the hens are heading, and where the little pigs already are.

'Tis said that "a blind pig will get an acorn once in a while." That sort of ancient reasoning [outmoded, I believe they call it] can't apply to the administration. They've never been able to think up a smart idea all by themselves. They've got to get their ideas from Russia or England. They all yell about making history. They will. Their mark in the book will be the fact that they put bacon and eggs in the museum. ROBERT M. GRAY

THEY CAN ALL BE KNIGHTS OF THE BATH

Oshkosh, Wis., Nov. 29—Replying to Mr. A. T. Meyer of Grayslake. He is quite right as to foreign decorations but he probably does not know that a recent New Deal congress gave the consent of this country in bulk to the acceptance of any British decoration by all navy and army officers during the present war. All going to show that the administration has fairly earned the designation of "Churchill's little yellow dog." No man who accepts these cheap decorations can claim to be a loyal American. IRVIN F. STRAUSS

WHY DIDN'T HULL TALK?

Anderson, Ind., Nov. 28—Mr. Hull says that Japan was hell bent for war, and no way of stopping them. Why didn't he tell it before Pearl Harbor was attacked? Then we would have been hell bent to stop them. That is what the four Republicans and six Democrats are trying to find out, not who started it. We know who started it. I. H. LOTTRIDGE.

SHIPS FOR EVERY ONE BUT GIs

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 12—As you well know, the army schedule for demobilization has not been met. The facts prove that the number of men actually returned from this area is but a small portion of that called for by the publicized plans.

Why do officials make American hospital ships available for transportation of hospitalized Japanese nationals, while hundreds of our own nationals lie rotting in hospitals waiting for return? Why have ships been released for the return of nationals of our allies while our own men remain scattered in the far corners of the earth? Why have ships been made available to the Chinese government for transporting Chinese troops, while our own troops with 85 to 120 points "sweat out" their return home? Why do 400 ships capable of carrying troops lie immobilized in stateside ports, while the army officials bewail the "lack of shipping?" Why is it, in San Francisco bay alone 20 troop ships, capable of carrying 50,000 to 100,000 troops, lie idle?

To those of us who find ourselves thousands of miles from home, the intention of the army "brass" to keep as many men in the army for as long as possible has become all too obvious by the miserable record of performance. CAPT. LEONARD STERN, Q. M. C.

NERO II.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Nov. 26—Nero has company at last. A Roman stood on his balcony and fiddled at the burning of Rome. An American cut the telephone wires, locked the doors, and played with his stamps during the destruction of the American fleet. J. A. H.

FINDER NOT ALWAYS KEEPER

Chicago, Nov. 29—In September I found a purse in the butcher shop, containing money, but no identification whatsoever. I picked it up outside the butcher's counter. I turned the purse over to the butcher for possible claim. When I ask about it, he merely says the lady he thinks may have lost it hasn't been in and let's it go at that. Does he have the right to hold the purse indefinitely? J. B.

Sec. 27 of the statute relating to lost goods makes it the duty of finders of goods worth more than $5 to inform the owner, if known, and make restoration without compensation, or if the owner is unknown to take the goods within five days before a justice of the peace and make affidavit of which an entry shall be made on the justice's book and a certified copy on the county clerk's book. Sec. 28 provides that in all cases where such goods shall not exceed $15 it shall be the duty of the finder to advertise on the door of the court house and in three other public places and if no person appears within 12 months the ownership shall vest in the finder, but if the value exceeds $15, the county clerk shall within 20 days from receipt of the justice's certificate, place notice for three successive weeks, on the court house door and in three other public places, and if the goods are not reclaimed within six months the finder shall deliver the money to the county treasurer, other securities to the county clerk, to hold for the owner, or goods to the sheriff, who shall sell at auction and pay the proceeds into the county treasury.

A thing voluntarily laid down or forgotten is not "lost" and should be held for the owner. 19 Cyc. 539. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT

MAYER ATTACK IS CONFESSED BY EX-CONVICT

George Bristol, 27, an ex-convict, confessed to Chief of Police Carl Eckman of Evanston at 1 a. m. today that he beat and robbed Mrs. Ruth Randall Mayer, 34, last January in her home at 2247 Orrington av., Evanston. She is the wife of Carl G. Mayer, vice president of Oscar Mayer & Co., packers.

Bristol was quoted as saying that he entered the Mayer home, posing as a radio repairman, with the intention of robbing her. After he beat and kicked her, Bristol said he took $50 from her.

Bristol was seized in New Orleans, La., by federal bureau of investigation agents on a warrant charging unlawful flight across a state line to avoid prosecution. Before he confessed Bristol, who was brought back from New Orleans yesterday by Chief Eckman, said he left the state to avoid being arrested for the theft of a refrigerator from his uncle, C. E. Bristol, owner of a cartage company at 928 Chicago av., Evanston.

CHILD DOOMED AS HER GROWTH ADDS TO ILLNESS

Janice Marie Hayden, 1709 E. Michigan st., Michigan City, Ind., is looking forward to her second Christmas with happy anticipation, but the holiday will be a sober one for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hayden.

Physicians have told them that Janice probably will not survive her 3d birthday—Feb. 8. They say she is dying from a heart deformity called patent interventricular septum, a condition that is aggravated by normal growth of the child. The attacks, which she suffered soon after birth, are becoming more regular and severe.

Dr. M. L. Bankoff of Michigan City said specialists believe the child could not survive an operation. The Haydens, who have another child, Danny, 1, decided against the risk of an operation because they desire Janice to see her second Christmas tree.

LITTLE AMERICA (POP. 5,000) WILL RISE IN BERLIN

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Dec. 3—An American colony of 5,000 persons is expected to flourish in the Wannsee section of Berlin by next summer. Military government officials estimate that there will be 1,000 wives and a couple of thousand children, besides United States civilians employed in the administration of Germany.

Military government authorities will commandeer all undamaged houses in Wannsee, which was the center of nudist colonies before the war. The residences include many that lodged delegates and personnel for the Potsdam conference.

Try to Get Babelsberg

The Americans tried vainly to obtain rectification of the sector boundary to include Babelsberg, former German Hollywood and location of the UFA studios, but the Russians refused to relinquish the area.

There are boating, bathing, and fishing on the large lake, and it is only 10 minutes by automobile over the motor speedway to the Military Government headquarters.

Servants at $8 a Month

"We expect Wannsee to become a little America," said a military government official. "We will establish schools to educate children of employes, and commissaries where all American food products will be obtainable; also a theater and movies with the latest films.

"German domestic servants will be available at eight dollars monthly wages and tutors for youngsters at trivial cost. We expect to take over the Wannsee yacht club, with regattas weekly, and plenty of tennis courts, provision for badminton and other sports.

"We will reopen several beach clubs and open air restaurants. Our people start moving in there next spring when the weather clears and families begin arriving. We will requisition necessary furniture to make homes comfortable, so that personnel need not ship their belongings over."

NEW ZEALAND AND AUSTRALIA FACE ISOLATION

Not Enough British Ships, Planes in Pacific

BY QUENTIN POPE
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Dec. 3—American withdrawal from the South Pacific is isolating Australia and New Zealand from North America by air and sea. The sole British empire trans-Pacific service that was operated by the royal air force ended with the last flight at Auckland yesterday, when an RY-3 plane arrived from Montreal via Australia. The last American military planes will quit Australia in about a month.

The British are shutting down their service because they refuse to pay dollars for servicing the machines, leaving the antipodeans lacking any direct air link with America. The official reason given here is that the service was established for R. A. F. needs which now have vanished. London rejected Australian appeals to continue the R. A. F. service until nonmilitary air lines are established.

Brisbane, Australia, once a great American air base, now has one weekly plane northward.

U. S. Line Wins Out

This situation has removed any doubts the antipodeans may have held about continuing their agreement with Pan American Airways, which plans a trans-Pacific service to Australia and New Zealand in four months.

The Australians framed ambitious plans for developing their own air services, but inability to obtain planes of wanted types brought them to the point of granting Pan American landing rights on their continent.

This is a notable American victory, as before the war Britain utilized Australia and New Zealand in an effort to extract landing rights on Hawaii as the price of American air lines being permitted to operate to the antipodes.

U. S. Shipping Closes

New Zealanders were thrown back onto empire shipping resources on Saturday when the United States war shipping administration closed down, after providing this country with an average of 17 ships each month while the Pacific war was going on.

Ship owners here believe their position for services to the American east coast may be slightly better early in 1946, after British reëntry into this trade.

Between the antipodes and the Pacific coast the position will remain acute until the United States fully reënters the trade and the British build up their Pacific merchant fleet by new construction.

Between Australia and New Zealand the situation is now worse even than between New Zealand and North America. The British took all regular Australia-New Zealand passenger ships for the war—some were sunk and some are still hauling troops.

Flying boats that span the Tasman sea three times a week are now solidly booked until the end of January.

"Even if he won't study we ought to keep him in school long enough to say he's had a college education."

10 Chicagoans Acquire Own Florida Resort

BY JUDITH CASS

TEN Chicago men who are looking forward to sailing and fishing as they gradually relinquish the reins of their business or professional lives have found a paradise in Florida to which they will withdraw to enjoy their favorite sports. That healthful and sunny spot is at Stuart, 30 miles north of Palm Beach, and the property which they have purchased and on which they plan to build winter homes as soon as feasible has been named Snug Harbor.

Since all 10 men are yachtsmen, they plan to erect a yacht club of their own, to be called the Snug Harbor Yacht club, and only members of the club will be permitted to own property surrounding it. Five of these fortunate fishing and yachting enthusiasts are former commodores of the Chicago Yacht club, Wells A. Lippincott, Christen J. Peterson, Karl Nibecker, Dr. Hollis E. Potter, and Dr. Arthur R. Metz, and a sixth, Philo H. Danly, is the present commodore.

The others of the original group to form the membership of Snug Harbor are Henry B. Babson, Andrew D. Berkey, Dr. Selim W. McArthur, and John P. Blair. Several of them already have plans for their homes.

Mrs. Berkey has left for Fort Lauderdale to pick up the Berkeys' cruiser, Behave Yourself, and to put the boat in condition to make the trip to Stuart. Mr. Berkey will join his wife shortly. Mr. Lippincott and one or two others are in the south now looking over the property, and others will go south during the Christmas holidays.

Now in Miami, Fla., is Philip D. Armour, who departed recently to try his luck at sail fishing.

Norman MacLeish has bought a house on an island off St. Augustine, Fla., where he will spend the winter painting.

"For Men Only"

Bundles for America has reported a complete sell-out for its final benefit, "For Men Only," a repetition of last year's successful fashion show which will be held tomorrow in the 28 Shop of Marshall Field & Co. Among those who have made reservations for the gay cocktail party and show are Mellen C. Martin, Preston Boyden, John Sherman, R. L. Harriman, Robert McKenna, Helmer Melum, and several army and navy officials. Don McNeill will announce the showing of Christmas gift hostess gowns, furs, accessories, and jewels.

Thomas E. McElroy, Harold Lewis, Mr. McKenna, Chesser Campbell, and Armand F. Bastien are among the men who have planned the party, to which admission will be by invitation only. Proceeds will go to purchase articles for the thousands of Christmas stockings the group will send to patients at Percy Jones hospital center. Bundles for America, which was organized the day after the Pearl Harbor attack four years ago, will disband its activities Dec. 31.

Wedding News

The marriage of Miss Betty Jean Moulding to Ensign Thompson Lewis will take place at 8 o'clock tonight in the Methodist church in Wilmette. A reception will follow in the Michigan Shores club. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Staver Moulding of Wilmette, will have as her attendants four of her classmates from Northwestern university: Miss Janet Clancy, Miss Christopher Allen of Boise, Idaho, and Miss Constance Fuller of Philadelphia, Pa., bridesmaids, and Miss Joan Dana, maid of honor.

Ensign Lewis, son of Mrs. James H. Lewis, will have his brother-in-law, Capt. Wallace Macfarlane of Pasadena, Cal., as his best man. Among the ushers will be the bride's brother, Thomas S. Moulding Jr., who is a naval R. O. T. C. student at the University of Utah. Ensign Lewis will take his bride to Coronado, Cal., where he will be stationed. He just has returned from duty in the Pacific.

In a ceremony last Saturday in the Church of St. Francis de Paula, Miss Mary Ruth Rinderer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Rinderer of Chicago, became the bride of Lt. (j. g.) James F. Mulvaney of the navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart Mulvaney, also of Chicago. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Phyllis Rinderer, as maid of honor, and Charles Mulvaney was best man for his brother. A reception followed in the Columbia Yacht club.

The bride attended Mundelein college. Lt. Mulvaney, who studied at Loyola university, has returned from 22 months of duty at sea.

Miss Jamee Claire Hoskins (left) and Miss Nancy Madlener, who will assist at a gay Victory Derby dinner-dance for the benefit of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society Saturday night in the Drake hotel. Reservations are pouring into the benefit office in the Drake, and a large crowd is expected to enjoy the unusual features of the evening, including the auctioning of a race horse.

Children's Aid Benefit to Net Over $100,000

BY HARRIETT PRIBBLE

Good news flew fast at two tea time gatherings yesterday afternoon—a tea in Mrs. Jacob Baur's Astor st. townhouse for the young women who will assist with the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society's Victory Derby dinner-dance Saturday night in the Drake hotel and a cocktail party in the Casino club to announce the function of the newly formed Great Lakes Hospital Music league.

From Mrs. George F. Barrett, treasurer of Saturday night's gala party, the yound aids learned that the Victory Derby is expected to net more than any other benefit ever given in Chicago. To date more than $100,000 has been raised—$75,000 from the society's share of a charity race week at Sportsman's Park and $26,022 from the sale of advertising for the benefit's program. This sum does not include the ticket sale or the anticipated income from the auction of more than $10,000 worth of gifts donated for the party, including a race horse, a French poodle, an oil burner [installed], half a carload of wire fencing, a deep-freeze unit complete with a 25 pound turkey and 25 pound beef roast, and a stunning hand-wrought silver and amethyst jewel set designed for Greer Garson to wear in "Mrs. Parkington."

Mrs. Baur, the benefit chairman, who came to tea in a cunning gold kid "race horse" hat also to be auctioned, was aglow with her own share of personal good news. A telephone call from New York had revealed that her son-in-law, Bartle Bull, formerly a captain in the Coldstream Guards, had landed three days earlier in this country from England. Mrs. Baur will leave Dec. 21 to fly east to join the Bulls and their two children for Christmas.

Mrs. Henry Bartholomay III., who is assisting her mother, Mrs. Charles True Adams, in supervising the debutante committee, expects her husband, Lt. Bartholomay of the army air forces, in time for the party. He just has arrived in New York after serving in India and China. The party also will be a welcome home for Sgt. William C. Fleming, son of one of the benefit co-chairmen, Mrs. Thomas J. Fleming. He arrived Sunday from Japan after three years in the Pacific and now is out of service. In fact the only sad note of the afternoon was provided by a telephone call from Mrs. Robert B. Goes, who had her purse containing $60 stolen in the loop and so failed to arrive for the meeting.

Simultaneously in the Casino Mrs. James G. McMillan told a small group there that the Illinois Opera guild's music room in the United States Naval hospital at Great Lakes has been given up by that organization and will be carried on in the future under the auspices of the Great Lakes Hospital Music league, just formed for the purpose of providing good music for convalescent navy men. The inspiration for the striking buff colored room, with its English flowered chintzes, blond modern furniture, grand piano, and two phonographs, came in the middle of one night to Mrs. McMillan, who will continue as chairman of the new league.

Mrs. John Howard Chambers, wife of the medical officer in command of the hospital, will serve as honorary chairman, and many of the guild's members who have been volunteer hostesses in the music room will continue their interest with the new organization. Monthly programs will be arranged by Mrs. Albert H. Ullrich and Mrs. Frederic Tellander, and, altho the Illinois Opera Juniors will not be actively identified with the league, they will give their annual Christmas party Dec. 20 in the music room.

Thru the Looking Glass

For many years we've had a pet cologne recommendation for the tired business woman, something to use after a really rugged day to make her feel instantly that all was right with the world and that she was an orchid instead of a drudge.

This is one of those fragrances that has everything — beauty, a romantic quality without being too darned slithery, plus an exhilarating note. It's in absolutely perfect taste, a special for the lady who likes being a lady and whose menfolk like her to be just that, too.

We'd suggest then, for the working girl on your list, a marvelous Christmas present that consists of three items in this fragrance. It's a beautifully packaged trio, quite gifty looking, all done up in a special package and some sweet satin bows. The three items are bath oil —this is positively yummy and a miracle worker for the weary woman — bath powder and the lovely cologne. The price of the complete package is extremely low for top quality products. It will set you back only $5.25 for the whole set.

This set comes, actually, in three fragrances. Our pet probably is the most feminine of the three; another is a tangy scent that's perfect with tweed clothes and sports things. The third is a gay, youthful sort of fragrance that is perhaps a shade more exciting for the sub-deb than it is for the mature woman. But all of their kind are excellent and you can make your choice with your mind's eye on the recipient's individual tastes.

Solid Advice: Make the Most of Personality

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Have you ever tried to see yourself exactly as you are? Of course, you don't have to think twice to say that you are a boy or a girl, in second or fourth year high school, with brown hair or blue eyes or a red sweater, and are holding a newspaper in front of you. But are you a young character sharp enough to know exactly what you are like—as an "individual," as a "personality"? How you look to the other guys and gals?

On the SOLID side

No one can predict your own future as well as you yourself. You could try out the old methods of palm reading, feeling bumps on the head, or looking into the crystal ball, but you're the guy or gal who knows the real story! Personality, meaning "you as you are," depends almost entirely upon you. It can depend on how you feel and how you look.

If you forget to eat breakfast in the morning, or try to slip by with a small glass of orange juice, you're likely to be irritable and scowling even at your dream boy before noon. For how you feel physically can often determine how you are personally. To many people, personal appearance [whether you're wearing an old blue shirt or your best reindeer sweater fresh from the cleaner's] can make a great difference. Therefore, to put yourself at ease, to improve your personality, good grooming rates number one on your "must" parade.

Much of what you are depends on your parents, of course. If you're easygoing, like to put off doing your homework and prefer to listen to Woody Herman recordings — well, maybe your father likes to listen to Woody Herman recordings, too!

And tho a certain amount of what you are does come from your parents, a greater amount depends on what you do with the opportunities offered you. You may have inherited traits, but the development of those traits, the hard work, is completely up to you. In fact, from now on—everything depends on you!

If your personality is what you make it, why not give yourself the once-over lightly to see what makes you tick? Think about yourself. You are what you want to be . . . and every one from 16 to 60 wants to be an interesting personality. Did you sleep soundly last night, did you have a good breakfast this morning, are you well groomed and comfortable, do you feel attractive to look at—that's as far as the external factors go. From now on you're carrying the ball—so get to work!

Welfare Group Told of Problems Created by Modern Industry

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 3 (AP)—Charlotte Whitten of Ottawa, Ont., formerly general director of the Canadian welfare council, told the Illinois Welfare association today that "the terrific, unsolved problems which modern industry is throwing up" remain "challenging but ineffectually met."

She named as four "unsolved problems" the inability to consume or distribute our wealth of production; human idleness, or the effective use of leisure time; the impact of industrialism on family life, and, finally, the problems of urban living.

The association reëlected Raymond M. Hilliard, Chicago, president. Other officers elected were: first, second, and third vice presidents, Ione H. Agnew, Chicago; Samuel A. Goldsmith, Chicago, and Arthur W. Wood, Moline, and secretary-treasurer, Leslie G. Pefferle, Springfield.

Miss Boynton Re-Elected Hairdressers' President

Miss Lillian S. Boynton of De Kalb, De Kalb county, was reëlected yesterday as president of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers association at its 33d annual meeting in the Hotel Sherman. Other officers are Charles F. Buntgens, La Grange, vice president; Bert Bauer, Oak Park, secretary; Frederick Ernst, Chicago, financial secretary; Thomas Frank, Chicago, treasurer, and Edna Mae Bucciere, Oak Park, and Charles Lezama.

Santa Generous, but Others Deserve a 'Thank You,' Too

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Does Santa Claus give your children every gift they receive at Christmas time? I like Santa Claus as much as you do. But I don't think he should get the credit for all the gifts so lovingly given at

"It won't spoil Santa Claus for the children if they know from whom some of their presents come." [TRIBUNE Studio Photo]

Christmas—so lovingly planned, so lovingly bought or made, so lovingly sent or delivered in person.

It won't spoil Santa Claus for the children if they know from whom some of their presents come. This is something I feel strongly about because I think Christmas is so wonderful in its spirit, and because I've seen children get such pure delight and such fun, too, not only out of giving something themselves, but out of receiving a gift which they know comes from some one they love.

As for the giver, well, I like to think of all the wealth of affection that expresses itself in gifts to children at Christmas time. And I believe many a grandmother, aunt, uncle, and friend harbor a little wish that a small grandson or niece might be told who sent the sweet baby doll all cunningly dressed; the longed-for train, or the bowl of shining goldfish.

I don't see why these gifts, or some at least of them, shouldn't carry a tiny card saying: "To my little grandson from his loving Grandmother," or "To Jennifer, with love, from her Uncle Jim." Even the most special of your or their father's gifts to the children might be labeled. It won't spoil Santa Claus for them.

Don't you associate a gift with the person who gave it to you? Children do, too, and some give evidence of it, especially if it's a thing they particularly enjoy. A book with the two names on its flyleaf [a 'to' and a 'from']—a dearly loved doll, a puppy, or a beautiful big derrick. Children often show this feeling I speak of by saying: "Daddy gave me this book, didn't he, Mother?" or "I love my new baby doll, Mother, dear," or, "'Mommie, Uncle Richard gave me my puppy, didn't he?"

Ruth Heizer's Voice Program Is Well Chosen

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

Ruth Heizer, one of the more adventurous of resident singers, devoted her Kimball hall recital last night to a program whose only traffic with the familiar was a set of some of Hugo Wolf's loveliest songs. The evening was additionally noteworthy in bringing about the reëmergence of Gordon Campbell, once one of the most active accompanists on local concert stages and still far and away one of the best.

Miss Heizer's taste in the selection of her unusual program was of first water. And her musicianship and understanding of her material generally was equal to most exigencies. The difficulty that stood in the way of full realization of an ambitious project was that Miss Heizer's vocal resources were not always competent to meet the heavy demands placed upon them.

It was an interesting but not altogether wise essay to open with one of Mozart's formidable concert arias, "Ch'io mi scordi di te," catalogued as "Scena and Aria with pianoforte obbligato." Here, as in some later instances, the main musical interest lay in Mr. Campbell's playing of the extended accompaniment, for Miss Heizer's voice was unable to cope successfully with the merciless florid passages, nor could it properly give vent to the typical Mozartean dramatic vehemence.

The Wolf songs proved far more compatible to Miss Heizer's abilities, especially the somber ones such as "In der Frühe" and "An eine Aeolsharfe," which established impressive moods.

Turning to the contemporary, the singer brought forward three songs by Samuel Barber, two of them interestingly modern, the second, "Sure on This Shining Night," as old fashioned as Mendelssohn. The South American, Santa Cruz, was represented by a lullaby, "Cancion de Cuna," of arresting poignancy, and both Miss Heizer and Mr. Campbell had a field day in Castelnuovo-Tedesco's romping set of "Dos Romances Viejos."

Trapp Family Is Delightful in First of Week's Two Concerts in Orchestra Hall

Usually, when you have particularly enjoyed a concert, the best you can say to less fortunate friends is "I'm sorry you missed it." But the Trapp Family Singers are generous folk, and they let you be more constructive. Next Saturday afternoon they sing a second concert, very like last night's in general character, again in Orchestral hall, to whose Alpine acoustics they have dedicated a song of wordless praise—in other words, a yodel. As they sang it last night you could almost feel the walls expand with gratification, for the Trapps are gentlefolk, and music halls are sensitive to such distinction.

There are, as you know, 12 Trapps—the parents, the seven delightful daughters, and the three sons, including small Johannes, who does not sing, and is accompanied in that select silence by the smiling baron. Just now the seven daughters and the baroness, who makes all the announcements in a manner not at all unlike Lotte Lehmann's, sing under the direction and sometimes with the help of the family priest, Dr. Franz Wasner, who also plays the virginal and imitates a bassoon in the family orchestra. Next Saturday one of the older boys will be back from the American army, in which he and his brother have spent the last three years.

So, you see, this really is a family affair, and just the place to take the family. For the music is fresh and lovely, with a twinkle, too, and it is so clean you almost feel the cool wind in your face, for the Trapps really belong outdoors. Along with their lovely carols and their dulcet sonatas for recorders and virginal, they don gala costume for folk songs and yodels of their native Austrian Tyrol, which they gave up for our Vermont when they could not see eye to eye with the Nazis on the subject of flying the swastika from their villa at Salzburg. Himmler used that villa and fixed it all up, and Lotte Lehmann suggested the Trapps come over and sing for America. Sometimes those things work out surprisingly well for everybody—that is, everybody important.

Notes

Burton Rascoe, who has been a shot in the arm and a jab to the solar plexus of New York drama criticism, is visiting briefly in his home town. . . . Sono Osato is here, too, resting a bit before she begins work on "Undine," which may have its opening in Chicago. . . . Lurlean Smaulding, chosen in local auditions, has taken over the role of Blanche in "Anna Lucasta." . . . Ottilie Kruger, daughter of Otto Kruger, has a role in Guy Kibbee's "A Joy Forever," due at the Blackstone Dec. 11. . . . Carleton Smith writes from New York, "Chicagoans kept New York music critics running up and downstairs at Carnegie hall. John Carpenter's work had its première in the big hall and Janet Fairbank scored a real success in the chamber hall. Povla Frijsh, Eva Gauthier, Lily Djanel, and a hundred other singers were there to hear the new songs and some of them were wonderful. John Carpenter's work is short, not pretentious, it has light humorous touches, provides laughs and is penetrating in its observations on the text." The text, in case you have forgotten, is Shakespeare's seven ages of man.

Mrs. Truman's 2 Teas Open Post-War Social Season in Washington

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3 (AP)—The capital's first post-war social season opened today as Mrs. Harry S. Truman entertained more than 300 notables at two consecutive teas in the White House.

Lights blazed thru the wintry afternoon and the scarlet coated marine band played as ranking army and navy officers, members of congress whose surnames fell in the As, Bs, and Cs, and assorted capital figures filed thru the east room and green and blue rooms to be received by Mrs. Truman in the red room and then swell the groups in the state dining room. Among the guests was Gen. Eisenhower, making his first appearance since a cold sent him to a hospital 10 days ago.

For the second tea Mrs. Truman was joined by her daughter, Mary Margaret, who said she just had come from an afternoon's shopping expedition.

Congressman Foresees Rise in Price of Sugar

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3 (AP)—Rep. Domengeaux [D., La.], blaming the sugar shortage principally on "unhealthy economics and unholy politics," said tonight he had been told the retail price will go up three fourths of a cent early next year. Office of price administration spokesmen told reporters, however, that they knew of no contemplated increase in the price. Domengeaux said in a radio broadcast the OPA and the office of war mobilization and reconversion are curtailing sugar production. He contended Louisiana sugar factories have been forced to curtail operations because the present price ceiling makes them operate at a loss.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 3—When Judy Garland returns to the screen after the birth of her baby, she'll do another musical opposite Gene Kelly as her first. It'll be Robert Sherwood's Broadway hit, "The Pirate," originally done by Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. Picture will be made in technicolor, and Judy's husband, Vincente Minelli, will direct. . . . Fritz Kortner, famous European screen and stage actor whom you may remember from "Chu Chin Chow," has been signed to a long term contract by Twentieth Century. His first will be the role of a fortune teller in "Somewhere in the Night" with John Hodiak. Altho he's been in this country six years, Kortner has spent all of his time writing, having turned out two Broadway plays and a screen story, "The Life of Beethoven," for Warners.

Back Home Again—with Common Touch!

Talked with Van Heflin, who's finishing his first role since the army in "Strange Love." Van, like all our returning veterans, is anxious to start back on the right foot; so he took a loan-out when his home lot had nothing suitable for him. When I asked if the army had given him anything he was bringing back to the screen, he said, "It gave me, at least, a renewed intimacy with people of all types—what they are and what they want. That's not only good, but necessary for any actor." Incidentally, Van was so charmed with England, that he's planning to take his wife and child over for a visit soon as his schedule permits. . . . Hoagy Carmichael's stock as an actor is certainly on the upgrade. He's wanted now for the lead in "Way Down Yonder," the story of a band that plays together thru the hot and hectic '30s and ends up in the army. . . . William Wilder has signed Paul Kelly and Anne Gwynne in his next picture for Republic. It's called "The Glass Alibi." . . . Helen Walker, who was released by Paramount five months ago, also goes to Republic for two pictures. . . . Now the mechanical age is complete. Rita Hayworth's been working so late on "Gilda" she hasn't had time to sing to her babe; so she's recorded a number of lullabies for the nurse to play at the tot's bedtime. Hey, that's not a bad idea! How'd you like to be crooned to sleep by the voices of our stars.

Name Please—and Don't Make It Long

At Warner's they're looking for a new title for "The Beast with Five Fingers," because it doesn't fit the picture. It doesn't fit the marquees either. Never could understand why pictures are publicized under impossible titles during their making, then given another name before they're releasd, thereby nullifying all time, money, and energy put in previous publicity. . . . Despite denials, inside rumors insist that Leo McCarey is planning work for Rainbow Productions in Japan if the necessary permit comes thru. . . . Producer Ben Bogeaus is back in town with plans for four pictures next year, altho only George Raft has been set for "Congresswoman," he intends to roll that one in January. . . . Saturday one Hollywood star met 20 wives and escorted them without mishap to greener pastures—but it was only Roy Rogers' horse Trigger, who went down to the station to meet a flock of mares being sent to Roy's ranch.

On the Record, It's Album of Month

Harry James is fostering a "record album of the month club," scheduled to break big in national advertisment in the next two weeks. Idea came from a GI who, while in a German prison, received a couple records a month thru the Red Cross. . . . Tyrone Power and Annabella have gone to a desert hideaway to get far from the madding crowd. . . . Bill Powell's mother is having a family reunion Christmas to welcome Bill Jr. back home from the war. . . . Leif Erikson gets out of the navy this week. . . . Howard Hughes boarded a TWA plane for New York under the name of Mr. Maxwell. . . . Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz threw a double celebration when he got out of the army on their fifth wedding anniversary. . . . Turhan Bey and Peggy Badey looking lovey-dovey at the Colony House. . . . Mrs. D. W. Griffith has flown to New York to be with her mother who's seriously ill. . . . Orson Welles has had to postpone his trip there to do retakes on "The Stranger." . . . When make-up man Wally Westmore was called "merely a lucky barber," he withered offender with: "Careful, I'll slug you over the head with my bank book."

INSTALMENT XXVI.

Instinctively Avis knew that Agatha Trimble would have worn shoes exactly this contour and size. At some time or other the murdered woman had stood here, shielded from observation, long enough to press her weight a good half inch into the packed earth floor. Nothing in the shed except old cans and rusted scrap iron, and—was that a decrepit old ladder, lengthwise under the eaves, cemented by thick cobweb to the stone wall? Ladder! Of course, something of the sort had been necessary. You could dump a dead body down a hole, but to shift it out of sight meant getting down into the tunnel yourself. She noticed that the central rungs were snapped in two.

She walked over to the middle vent-hole, and saw the ladder the detectives had been using slanting down into the moldering void! She listened, but no stir reached her from below. Operations had evidently concluded, at least for the day. She'd got her chance. Kicking off the galoshes she gripped the ladder and went down.

The big tunnel was like a long square-sided box, fairly clean but with loose stone heaped at intervals along the walls. She had her torch in her coat pocket, and its thin ray kept her from bumping into the debris. Soon she was playing the light over the right-hand wall. She descried an archway solidly bricked up, only a small ragged orifice at the top where mortar had crumbled and a dozen or so bricks fallen to the ground. Obviously here was the entrance to the house tunnel. The hole didn't matter, it might be wide enough for a full-grown person to worm thru, but it was far too high up. As for hoisting a body weighing fully 160 pounds, well, that was impossible, unless on the inner side there were some elevated platform to stand on. By intricate wiggling she managed to grasp the lower edge of the hole, even to haul herself chin high and balance her torch so that she could get a brief glimpse into the passage beyond. The light reflected on a dark and noisome pool at the very base of the bricked barrier.

The tunnel, with its tributary, had the form of a long-based letter Y, the prongs dividing just here, the longer one steering left but after a hundred yards or so trunkated in similar fashion. So the factory end must have been caving in, too.

What was that sound?

Her scalp crept; but the slight rasp was not repeated. She clicked on her torch, and all her thoughts centered on what she had missed—long smudged smears on the yellowish dust!

There would be smears, of course, the body must have been dragged; but why up this end? Distinct from the central formless track ran large male footprints, pair and pair. The detectives' feet. The murderer's would have been rubbed out by the corpse sliding along behind. Now she noticed that in places there were two continuous smears, and that where she stood they had executed a sort of whirligig, as tho the dragged body had been swung round and headed back the other way. It was that! When she had followed the dual, intercrossing trail to the second vent-hole and seen that from this point westward it became unmistakably single, she got the answer. The murderer had entered the tunnel here, using the old cowshed ladder; but instead of proceeding at once to the far end had dragged the body right along to the archway, presumably found the hole in the bricked wall too high to negotiate, and been obliged to make for the pile of stones at the opposite extremity.

"If the hole hadn't been so hard to reach, what then?"

The body of Agatha Trimble would have been dumped thru into the water beyond. There the bones could have remained, securely sealed in between solid masonry and nailed-up basement door.

The second best plan would have worked quite satisfactorily, too, but for the sharp nose of a dog.

Against her will her feet were drawing her onward, over the single smudge, refusing to turn back. Past the dimming daylight of the third vent-hole, into darkness again. There, facing her, was yet another bricked barrier; and buttressing the far corner the last heap of old rubble and loose stone. The Barracks end—marked by a wide crimson stain . . .

Ladder? It was gone.

It had been there three minutes ago. The noise she heard must have been the policeman returned to take the ladder away.

She'd got to get out! The clouded sky was darkening rapidly, soon it would be pitchy night. These stones were small; they'd roll and scatter if she tried erecting them into a pile to stand on.

She didn't even begin, for it was now she heard the slow shuffling footfalls bearing down on her.

"I fully sympathize with your position, doctor." Inspector Headcorn settled his large frame into one of Bracken's fireside chairs. "It's as well you had a friend like Ladbroke to whom you could unburden yourself, and that he happens to cut some ice with the assistant commissioner. We have one murder on our hands, and in your opinion, it may represent only a prelude, and unavoidable step, to another. But am I right in inferring that while at the outset it was the younger Miss Bolles' life you feared might be in danger, recent events tend to suggest it may be the elder sister who is being threatened?"

"That's the very devil of it," Bruce growled. "I must be fair, inspector, and I frankly admit most of these happenings can be read two ways."

"Even"—shrewdly—"the utter collapse of your patient on hearing her companion's body had been discovered? I use the word discovered, you'll note, as distinct from the mere fact of death."

Bruce looked steadily at his visitor, flinched, but replied doggedly, "No, inspector. I see your meaning, but on that point I stand firm. Whatever machinations may have been going on, this I'm prepared to swear: Erica Bolles had no hand in Agatha Trimble's murder."

"No personal hand. But if some ally acted for her? Mind, on one presumption we are tentatively agreed. On the fact of it, deliberate planning was undertaken to turn murder into a voluntary disappearance. You say the victim delivered a letter. Did any of her remarks provide any inkling of its contents?"

"None," Bruce snapped. "I noticed the sort of hysterical elation Agatha Trimble was displaying almost directly after the suicidal attempt I managed to foil, but she was careful what she said to me. Less cautious to the young girl who now holds her former post at Turrets."

To Save Money, Mix Your Cough Relief at Home

So Easy! No Cooking. Quick Relief.

Even if you're not interested in saving good money, you surely want a really effective relief for coughs due to colds. So try mixing it yourself, in your kitchen, and be ready for a surprise.

It's so easy to mix, a child could do it. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Then fill up with your syrup. This makes a pint—about four times as much for your money. It tastes good—children really like it. It lasts a family a long time, and never spoils.

But what you'll like most is the way it takes right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes irritation, and helps clear the air passages. Eases soreness, and let's you sleep. You'll say you've never seen its superior.

There's nothing complicated about cooking venison. Any method you'd use for lean beef will do, but venison is such a special and rare treat that most cooks like to prepare it in a somewhat epicurean manner. With burgundy or another red wine, for example, or smothered with mushrooms. Or braised in sour cream with herbs, such as rosemary and thyme.

Venison may be cooked rare, like beef, and is more tender and flavorful if the pinkness hasn't been cooked out of it. Steaks may be broiled or pan-broiled, roasts oven roasted like a rib roast of beef, or pot-roasted.

It's a good plan to brush a venison steak with butter or oil before broiling, and often a lump of butter is placed on the cooked steak as it goes to the table. When the steak is pan-broiled, it's a nice trick to "rinse" the hot skillet containing the drippings with wine such as burgundy or claret — not usually more than ½ cup—and to pour this wine flavored meat sauce over the steak.

If you happen to have a piece of beef suet on hand, cut it into small pieces and dot a venison steak or roast with it before cooking.

Braised Venison

Wipe a six-pound leg or shoulder roast with a cloth saturated in vinegar. Lard the meat, if possible, with strips of fat salt pork. Larding is done by drawing strips of the fat pork thru the lean meat after making cuts in it. Larding isn't absolutely necessary but adds to the moistness and flavor. Rub meat with flour seasoned with salt and pepper and brown well in a little hot fat, beef suet, or salt pork drippings preferably. Add a glass of currant jelly and ¼ cup water, cover the roasting pan and cook over low heat on top of the range, or in a 325 degree oven for 2½ hours or longer, until meat is tender. Thicken drippings with a flour and water paste, and extend with more water to make gravy.

Variations of Braised Venison

2. Use a cup of sour cream in place of the jelly, and sprinkle the meat with mixed dried herbs or with thyme, rosemary, or savory alone. Herbs are good with the wine version, too.

3. Slice fresh mushrooms over the venison before roasting and use water or sour cream in place of the jelly. If water is used, add it to the meat, a small amount at a time, at intervals of 15 minutes or so.

4. Slice onions over the meat. Good with any variation.

Roast Venison

Wipe the roast and lard with strips of salt pork, or brush over with salt pork or bacon drippings, or with butter. Roast like beef, on a rack in a 325 degree over, using no cover on the pan and no liquid in it. Roast rare, medium, or well done, as you prefer, seasoning with salt and pepper before, during, or at the end of the cooking period. It may be well to baste with a little more fat once or twice during roasting. Well done venison requires approximately 25 to 30 minutes to the pound.

Mushrooms may be sauteed in butter and added to the gravy you make from the roast drippings. Or wine may be blended with the drippings and the combination served unthickened "as is," for gravy.

The bidding:

1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of hearts.

On days when finesses are not working, a little subtlety might achieve results that could not be brought about by the use of straight power plays.

The bidding in the hand above was brief and to the point. While West might have been tempted to make a shaded take-out double of the opening bid had he not been vulnerable, under conditions as they were, any action by him would have shown a slight disregard of monetary considerations.

West opened the king of hearts and East followed with the seven. This was a mild type of signal. There was no other suit that he wished his partner to lead and yet he was not sufficiently well fixed in hearts to ask violently for its continuance. The seven was his next to the lowest and indicates some measure of doubt in East's mind. If he were quite sure that he wished hearts continued he would signal with the nine.

It was plain to the declarer that the success of the contract hinged upon the location of the king of diamonds. If the finesse was "on" there was nothing to it. If not there was apparently nothing that could be done about it. For a moment the declarer toyed with the involved idea of some sort of a strip and end play. If the trumps were evenly divided, a club could be ruffed and then if West held the 13th club he could be thrown in with it and forced to lead a diamond. But this was too complicated and depended upon too much good luck.

Declarer hit upon a more direct way. On the third heart lead he discarded the six of diamonds. The psychological effect of such a play is very definite. If declarer appears to show no special interest in holding a certain suit defenders will almost invariably lead that suit. Whether it is right or not to do so we are not here considering, but I think it is a marked tendency of defenders to make haste to cash tricks in a suit that is being discarded. Obviously, West's lead of the diamond was not the best tactics, but that does not deprive South of the gratification of having induced the error.

Designer Uses Skill of Genius in His Jewelry

BY REA SEEGER

It takes a definite flair for color and fine workmanship, plus a certain creative genius, to make romantic pieces of jewelry. But it has been done by Hobé, a celebrated French designer, who started with a hobby almost 25 years ago and has made it "big business." His breath-takingly beautiful collections of his own designs and his personally collected pieces of authentic antiques are now on display in a fascinating new shop on Michigan av.

Here you will find jeweled romance in silver and gold, and glorious antiques. Hobé silver jewelry is unusually tempting because each piece is made by hand, and the designs are unusually beautiful. You'll see the finest bracelets, earrings, clips, and brooches.

Sentimental pieces are heart shaped. Two of these are especially decorative for dresses or suits. One heart is made entirely of interwoven silver bands, the silver used just like heavy satin ribbon, and on top is a graceful bow knot. The other heart has a filagree effect made with tiny forget-me-nots. Roses in silver, are distinctive because each petal and leaf is so realistic you automatically try to catch the floral fragrance. There are no chunky modernized or formalized designs in Hobé's jewelry. He has caught all the natural, graceful outlines to perfection.

Multicolored jewelry is a Hobé specialty. No one has achieved such breath taking combinations with precious or semi-precious stones. Imagine sprays or clips or huge pins combining emeralds, rubies, and sapphires in a single piece and there is even more color in the jewelry made of semi-precious or scientific stones. The test of such exquisitely designed jewelry is in the skilled workmanship. Turn any piece and you can see that the back is almost as decoratively perfect as the beautifully made front. The jeweled pieces inspired by the Victorian period and the era of Empress Eugenie are inimitable and all can be worn with 1945 fashions.

This Jap Spy Movie Is Poorly Plotted and Acted; It's Dull, Too

"SAMURAI"

Produced by Cavalcade, directed by Roy Cannon, featuring Paul Fung, Luke Chan, David Chow, Barbara Woodell, Fred C. Bond, and Larry Moore. Presented at the Studio theater.

By Mae Tinée

This number offers a grinning Jap to end all grinning Japs, and I was certainly glad to see the last of him.

Adopted by American missionaries as a child, he is brought to this country and educated here and abroad. He develops from a secret student of bushido to a full fledged spy, and first thing you know he's drawing plans of American fortifications in modernistic designs that wouldn't fool an idiot. Hirohito loves him, and his toothy friends soon appoint him prospective governor of California. There's a wooden blonde girl in the picture for about five minutes, but all she does is take a nose-dive when tripped by the villain.

It's poorly plotted, atrociously acted, and completely dull, and if you pay your money to see it, you can't say I didn't warn you.

Club Leader Urges U. S. Women Bestir Selves in Politics

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—"French women are a strong political power and are growing stronger all the time. American women will have to bestir themselves if they don't want to be left behind."

This was the assertion of Madesin Phillips, president of the International Federation of Business and Professional women, who just has returned from a five months' trip to England, France, Italy, and Belgium to strengthen and extend the federation's framework.

"There are 33 women in the French constitutent assembly—more than three times the number we have in congress," she said. "During the political campaigns French women were extremely active. . . . From what I could see, they have more influence in the party set-up than American women do."

Shopping Rush for Appliances Is On—At Last

"It's been a long, long time" might have been the theme song of men and women who came with checkbooks or cash to buy the refrigerators and washing machines a chain of stores placed on sale yesterday.

"We've been waiting since 1941," said Mrs. Robert Rapp, 1627 W. 33d st., who arrived with her husband to buy a refrigerator. The Rapps said they'd been losing food because of lack of good refrigeration. They have three children, boys 3 and 11, and a little girl 2 years old. Their purchase they described as a Christmas present to themselves and they looked longingly at a washing machine which they said was next on their list.

Another customer, Mrs. Jack Crawford, 8438 Green st., settled on a washing machine to take the place of her present system—"partly by hand and partly at the laundry." The mother of a month old boy and a daughter, 9, she said she'd never owned a washing machine before but had decided it would be the first post-war appliance she'd buy.

Appliance shopping was a family affair. Mrs. Crawford's father, Axel Skoog, 8719 Sangamon st., had inspected the washer she bought earlier in the day and given his approval.

Men were numerous among the customers buying refrigerators as Christmas presents for their wives. And while wives evinced a lively interest in the post-war models, they reverted to the traditional in shopping practice. Many looked at the washers and refrigerators, then simply announced: "I'll be back—after I've asked my husband."

Church Confronted with World Crisis, Presbyterians Told

The church is confronted with a world crisis, but too few of its members realize it, the Rev. John A. Lampe, St. Louis, Mo., told the Chicago Presbyterian union last night at its fall banquet in the Central Y. M. C. A. auditorium. About 300 guests attended, honoring Dr. Lampe as moderator of the 157th general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States. Edmund W. Buck, vice president of the union, presided.

Speaking on "Christian Action in Such a Time," Dr. Lampe said the whole world looks to the United States for leadership, and for a leadership founded on a Christian democracy. "But people as a whole lack perspective in contemporary affairs, and but few comprehend the serious import of current events," he asserted.

As a result of this world crisis, two serious reflections are induced, Dr. Lampe continued—first, that America cannot separate itself from the sufferings of the world, and secondly, that America must take the lead in promoting a Christian democracy which consists of a self-disciplined liberty assuring unity and peace.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Walter Ward, the pleasant Clevelander who stands out as one of the ablest bowlers and professors of tenpins in the sport, yesterday took over the three-quarter leadership in the fifth annual All-Star bowling tournament, which this morning goes into the fourth and last day of its preliminary phase under the sponsorship of Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. and the Bowling Proprietor's association of America.

Ward, whose personal copyright is the cigar which he is forever chewing, will enter today's fourth six-game session with an 18 game total of 3,702. This was compounded off yesterday morning's 1,259, ingredients in which were 168, 238, 193, 191, 235, and 234.

Gibson Pursues Him

Ward's closest pursuer was Pvt. Therman Gibson, the hard driving Detroiter who had paced the field thru the first 12 games. The soldier winner of the valuable Petersen classic last spring and leader for the preliminary rounds in the All-Star tourney of 1944, was doing right nicely in defense of his lead until he came to his final game just before 1 o'clock this morning. After firing games of 199, 173, 221, 237, and 204, he collapsed on the last chore, coming up with a paltry 145. This gave him an 1,179 for an 18 game aggregate of 3,680.

Meanwhile Steve Czerwinski of Buffalo, who has been quietly working his way thru the first three days of the marathon, was posting a 3,642, one pin better than the 3,641 shot by Connie Schwoegler of Madison, the former champion, who is currently bowling the best of his career.

Benkovic Is Fourth

Frank Benkovic, fellow employe of Ward, who has joined Walter in making war time tours of service camps, took over fourth position, going into today's final preliminary round with a 3,625. Sgt. Ed Easter of Waukegan, the 60 year old soldier who has been one of the most consistent sharpshooters in the All-Star since its inception, gave the audience a rousing thrill by a fine job on the same squad as Pvt. Gibson, blazing out four consecutive games of more than 200. He pressed Gibson so closely that it appeared he might overtake the Detroiter, but slipped to a 195 and a 173 for a total of 3,622 and possession of fifth place.

Today's concluding preliminary exam will pare the field to 43 men, who will work in the 12-game semi-finals tomorrow. Those 43 will consist of the high scorers for the first four days. The top eleven men for the entire 36 game, total pin route will then proceed into the first day of head-and-head competition on Thursday. For four days, winding up Sunday evening, those eleven will argue it out with the five seeded finalists.

Wilman Paces Bomar

In the special match for $1,000 being conducted by the seeded quintet, Joe Wilman of Berwyn, Ill., the ex-soldier who was runner-up for the championship last year, was in front with a 3,656. Pursuing him was Buddy Bomar, the transplanted Texan who ran off with last year's title and who regained his bowling health last evening with a good 1,224 for a 3,545. Joe Sinke, fourth place winner last year, took charge of the third spot in the special match, off of a 3,489. Ned Day, former champion from West Allis, Wis., is in fourth place with a 3,418, while Paul Krumske, the Chicagoan who took Day's crown away from him in a challenge match two weeks before the 1944 meet opened, brought up the rear with a 3,368.

The scores of the above fivesome do not apply to the total pin contest among the other men.

Following today's final preliminary round, drawing will be made for tomorrow's semi-finals. These will be conducted in two afternoon sessions and two evening bouts,

Minor League Rumor Factory Swings Into Full Production

Columbus, O., Dec. 3—(AP)—Baseball's overworked rumor factory put on a swing shift today churning out reports of all kinds of deals and loud whispers of a move afoot to strip the game's high commissioner of some of his powers over the minors.

Altho the annual conclave of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues—known to the trade as the minors—doesn't open until Wednesday, these are some of the things they were debating:

1—The revised major-minor league agreement, which is to come up for discussion during the meetings may make the national association president, rather than the commissioner, the supreme court for all differences in the minors.

May Erase Power

2—The commissioner's power to toss out any legislation he considers detrimental to baseball—one of the late Judge K. M. Landis' handiest autocratic gadgets—may be erased from baseball law by an amendment.

3. Baseball's post-war reconversion already was in full swing, with 19 new minor leagues already on the lists and qualified since the end of the season. Added to the dozen which operated last season, this gives the National association 31 for the 1946 campaign, and L. H. Addington, the association's promotion director, said another six or eight more are considering the move.

Expand Farm Systems

4. Virtually every major league club is here to expand its farm system. The Cleveland Indians expect to add four or five more clubs during the meetings, according to Gen. Manager Roger Peckinpaugh. Carl Hubbell, the New York Giants' farm chief, is figuring on 13 farms in 1946. The Phillies, who had affiliations with five minor league clubs in 1945, already have added a number, among them Americus [Ga.], in the reopening Georgia-Florida league; Dover [Del.] in the reorganized Eastern Shore league, and Schenectady [N. Y.] in the returning Canadian-American league.

Washington's Senators, which operated with two farm clubs last year, has arranged to build its farm system up to five and possibly more for 1946. Heading the farm system again will be Chattanooga in the newly promoted class AA Southern association.

Steve O'Neill, manager of the world champion Detroit Tigers was in a number of huddles. He explained that "while we're not particularly interested in any players, we're willing to make any deal that could better us."

Four Trip Schedule

The American association decided to operate next year with a four-trip schedule involving clubs in the eastern and western sections.

It also was voted that the western clubs—Kansas City, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Minneapolis—should open the 1946 season against each other, the same for the eastern teams—Louisville, Indianapolis, Toledo, and Columbus.

The Piedmont Baseball league failed to elect a new president or to decide what will happen to the franchise.

Last season the league operated as a six-club circuit with Portsmouth, Norfolk, Lynchburg, Newport News, Roanoke, and Richmond. Charlotte was a member of the league until it suspended because of the war after the 1941 season.

APPROVE AMENDMENT

Columbus, O., Dec. 3 (AP)—The International Baseball league today approved an amendment to baseball laws whereby no legislation could be ruled "detrimental to baseball" by the game's commissioner and set either April 17 or 18 as the opening for its 1946 season. The league approved a campaign of 154 games, the start of which will be decided after the major leagues' set their opening date.

George Weiss, head of the New York Yankee farm system, was re-elected vice president for one year. President Frank Shaughnessy did not come up for reelection since his contract has two more years to run.

CUBS TO OPEN WINTER CAMP FOR WAR VETS

Select Florida Site; 200 May Train

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

Spring training for 1946, as far as the Cubs are concerned, was unveiled as big business yesterday. The National league champions, along with their Catalina Island, Cal., camp scheduled to open about Feb. 20, will establish another training site—this one at Lake Worth, Fla., from Jan. 15 to March 14 with enrollment restricted to war vets of the Cubs and the club's 11 minor league affiliates.

The novel plan in which as many as 200 assorted players may share was announced yesterday by Jack Sheehan, director of the Cubs' farm system, who also will boss the activities by which it is figured the lads returning from service with Uncle Sam will be put back on their baseball feet. Sheehan will be assisted by Larry Gilbert, manager of the Nashville club, and Bill Kelly, who heads one of the Cubs' farms.

Helping Youngsters Main Purpose

The above doesn't mean that the Cubs who have service records will be able to take their pick between Florida and California. The former spot will be for those who, having played practically no ball while in service, will be in need of extra time to recondtion themselves. Most of the Cubs who have returned thus far were able to keep themselves in trim so it will be California for them.

However, there are a few Cubs who were so busy chasing Japs that their baseball was neglected, so if any in this category should show up they'd be sent to Florida for advance work. It also is possible that some of the vets already back on the active list would be permitted to take part of the Florida course, going to the California camp later. But in the main the purpose of the extra camp will be to help the Cub prospects who went from the minors directly to war. Most of these lads experienced actual combat.

Clubs in the farm system are Los Angeles, Nashville, Tulsa, Portsmouth, Va., Hagerstown, Md., Davenport, Ia., Visalia, Cal., Hutchinson, Kan., Statesville, N. C., Elizabethton, Tenn., and Janesville, Wis.

Officials Head for Columbus

The trek toward Columbus, O., where the National Association's annual doings will be held the next few days, picked up yesterday with the departure of Will Harridge, American league president, and the Cubs' Farmer Sheehan.

Among those booked for departure today are Charles Grimm, the Cub manager and Vice President Jim Gallagher, Harry Grabiner, retiring vice president of the White Sox, and Leslie O'Connor, who will take over the job on Dec. 15.

Grimm, who tarried here yesterday after arriving from his Missouri farm, doesn't figure there'll be much trading, if any, at Columbus but he suspects he may succeed in parceling out bits of the excess talent now on the club's roster.

"I Couldn't Say for Sure"

Always smoke screens with a shadowy veil,
"I might be wrong," she'll preface her story,
Then give out with the details, minute and gory.

Or she'll shift it around, to feel more secure,
"Of course I couldn't say this for sure,
But you know and I know, lower or higher,
Wherever there's smoke there is sure to be fire."

Again she will phrase it with ominous word,
But a grain of truth in it must surely be found

O, the damage that's done and the havoc that's wrought
By folks who "aren't sure" of the tale that they've brought,
If we only could learn to get all the facts pat—

Orange Bowl Picks Miami for Holy Cross

Miami, Fla., Dec. 3 (AP)—The University of Miami football team was chosen unanimously today to play against Holy Cross in the Orange bowl game Jan. 1.

A wild celebration began in downtown Miami and on the university campus in near-by Coral Gables as word spread that Miami had won the bid over Louisiana State university.

It will be Miami's first appearance in the Orange bowl since the inaugural in 1935, when the Hurricanes lost to Bucknell, 26 to 0. For Holy Cross, it will be the first bowl game of any kind.

Miami, beaten by Georgia, 27 to 21, and tied by South Carolina, 13 to 13, started the season with mostly inexperienced freshmen, but they came thru a hard schedule with eight victories and 198 points to their opponents' 93.

Holy Cross' record is slightly more impressive than Miami's, with victories over Dartmouth, Yale, Brown, and Boston college, and only a 14 to 6 loss from Temple against its record.

SHAW RESIGNS POST TO COACH IN ALL-AMERICA

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 3 (AP)—L. T. [Buck] Shaw, university of California's head football coach, made it official today that he would sever connections with the college game to make his debut as a professional club coach next year.

Shaw said he would hand in his resignation the first of the year to assume his duties as coach of the San Francisco team of the new All-America conference.

The Dayton, O., junior, who returned from the European battle front to the Indiana squad after its opening victory over Michigan, also was named captain of the 1946 team, while Russell Deal Bicknell, junior tackle, was elected captain of this year's team. He had served as captain in all 10 games.

wall this year. Only Michigan was able to score a touchdown thru it. A full back in Dayton's Fairview High school, Brown came to Indiana in 1941 and won a letter as regular guard on the 1942 team before entering the army.

He served as an infantry private for more than two years and was overseas for 11 months. He was awarded the purple heart with two clusters for three wounds received in action in France and Germany and a campaign ribbon with three battle stars for action on the Rhine, in central Germany, and in France.

OHIO NAMES CLINE

Columbus, O., Dec. 3 [Special]—Ollie Cline, Fredericktown, O., sophomore full back, today was elected by his teammates as the most valuable player on the 1945 Ohio State football squad.

Cline thus was placed in nomination for the silver football award, made annually by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for the most valuable player in the Western conference.

Leading ground gainer in the Western conference, Cline carried the ball more than any other player in the Big Nine. In seven conference games, Cline gained 608 yards in 135 plays, which, with a loss of only 5 yards, left a net yard gain of 603 yards, an average of almost five yards per try.

In addition, Cline scored 36 points in conference competition, six against Iowa, 12 against Northwestern, six against Minnesota, and 12 against Illinois. He was stopped only four times thruout the season, once each for 1 yard by Wisconsin, Northwestern, and Michigan, and he was thrown for a 2 yard loss by Minnesota.

Cline is 19 years old, 5 feet 11½ inches tall, and weighs 195 pounds. He was classified 4-F in the draft last year but was reclassified 1-A this year.

WILSON & CO.'S PROFIT DROPS IN FISCAL YEAR

Exchange of Stock Planned Soon

Substantially reduced net income was reported yesterday by Wilson & Co., first of the "big four" meat packers to disclose results of the 1944-'45 fiscal year operations.

Thomas E. Wilson, chairman, in a preliminary report said net earnings in the fiscal year ended Oct. 27 fell to $5,036,600, or $1.55 a share, from $7,353,791, or $2.71 a share, a year earlier. Net income in the first 35 weeks of the fiscal year was $2,526,000. Wilson said both domestic and foreign operations showed much improvement in the latter part of the year. He said that the end of meat rationing is not expected to affect the current operations of the company materially.

Share Exchange Scheduled

He also disclosed that the preferred stock exchange plan, approved by shareholders Sept. 17 and then postponed by the directors, would be made on or about Dec. 11.

Designed to retire the company's outstanding 274,085 shares of $6 preferred, the plan calls for the issuance of 250,000 shares of new cumulative preferred stock, which were registered with the securities and exchange commission Sept. 10 along with an unspecified number of common shares. Initial offering of the new preferred, expected to carry a dividend rate of 4¼ per cent, will be made to the $6 preferred holders on a share for share basis with an adjustment for accrued dividends.

Because the number of new preferred shares is insufficient to accommodate fully holders of the $6 preferred, they will be offered an opportunity to exchange up to 50,000 shares for common at a probable ratio of 1 preferred share for each 5½ common. Other details are expected to be determined Friday at a meeting of the board.

Hallicrafters Earnings Dip

Hallicrafters company, Chicago maker of electronic equipment, told stockholders net earnings in the fiscal year ended Aug. 31 declined to $571,777, or 85 cents a share, from $691,064, or $1.02 a share, a year ago.

W. J. Halligan, president, said the company's program includes planning for an expanded radio amateur market and for numerous applications of its high precision, high frequency communications equipment on land, sea, and air transportation systems. A heavy demand for frequency modulation receivers and television sets is expected.

Stockholders elected four new directors, increasing the board from three to seven members. The new members are J. De Forest Richards, president of the National Boulevard bank; James C. Cardwell, chairman of the Cardwell Westinghouse company; Leo J. Doyle, president of Doyle, O'Connor & Co., and Henry C. Forster, retired, former president of Radio Speakers, Inc.

PRICES OF HOGS TURN HIGHER ON DROP IN SUPPLY

A big drop in hog receipts in Chicago yesterday sent prices up about 25 cents a hundred pounds. The general market level held 50 cents to $1 below the ceiling prices that prevailed for most hogs the first two days of last week. The top price rose 35 cents at $14.35 and the average gained 25 cents at $14.15.

A decrease in cattle receipts brought steady to 25 cents higher prices. Top steers reached the $18 ceiling. Altho the government Saturday increased the subsidy payment to sheep men 50 cents, packers reduced their bids 35 to 50 cents. Best lambs brought $14.65.

BIGGER YEAR-END DIVIDEND VOTED BY TOBACCO FIRM

Reynolds Tobacco company yesterday increased the year-end dividend on common and B common to 20 cents from 10 cents paid at the end of 1944. This brings total disbursements this year on each class to $1.60, compared with $1.50 a year ago.

Philco corporation directors cut the year-end payment on the common stock to 20 cents from 40 cents a year ago, bringing total payments this year to $1, compared with $1.20 in 1944.

T. W. A. to Sell Debenture Issue to Acquire Planes

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Jack Frye, president of Transcontinental and Western Air, said today the company had concluded plans for sale of 30 million dollars of 3 per cent sinking fund 10 year debentures to the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States. Proceeds would be used principally for the purchase of 36 Lockheed Constellations for transcontinental and international service.

Leo Crowley Elected New Rail Chairman

Leo T. Crowley, who recently resigned his multiple government positions, was elected chairman of the reorganized Milwaukee railroad yesterday at the first meeting of the new board of directors. H. A. Scandrett, president of the predecessor company since 1928 and federal court trustee of the property since 1936, was elected president of the new corporation which retains the old corporate title—Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad company.

Other officers elected were J. T. Gillick, operating vice president; E. B. Finegan, traffic vice president; A. N. Whitlock, vice president and general counsel; J. W. Severs, vice president and controler; R. J. Maroney, vice president and New York fiscal officer; M. L. Bluhm, general solicitor; F. H. Jeffrey, treasurer, and T. W. Burtness, secretary.

Accumulated Many Titles

After nearly 12 years in Washington during which he accumulated a long list of jobs, Crowley resigned from government service Oct. 15. At that time he was chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, foreign economic administrator and member of the war production board and the joint war production committee. He had also served as chairman of the Export-Import bank, Petroleum Reserves corporation, Rubber Development corporation and the United States Commercial company.

Prior to his Washington career Crowley was engaged in banking in Wisconsin. For a time he was president of the Bank of Wisconsin of Madison whose assets were taken over by another institution.

Along with his government jobs Crowley also has held since 1939 the positions of chairman and president of the Standard Gas and Electric company, a utility holding company with headquarters in Chicago. He has had a large income from his utility job in addition to his government pay checks.

Compensation Not Disclosed

A spokesman for the railroad said he was unable to supply any information on Crowley's compensation in his new job.

The new board of directors of the road, announced a week ago, was selected by the five voting trustees who represent various groups of security holders of the predecessor company. Crowley also is chairman of the voting trustees, one of whom is Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company.

Transfer of the railroad property to the trustees was approved last week by District Judge Michael L. Igoe. The road had been under court jurisdiction since 1936. The receivership and court custody was the second in the road's history which goes back to 1863.

Capitalization of the reorganized company, which operates an 11,000 mile rail system, aggregates 533 million dollars.

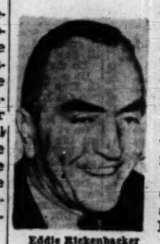
MOTOR COACH, 'L' TRAFFIC CLIMBS ABOVE YEAR AGO

Chicago Motor Coach company carried 6,370,650 passengers in November compared with 5,989,673 a year ago, an increase of 6.36 per cent, it said yesterday. Total passengers carried in the first 11 months were 68,813,380 against 65,035,970 a year ago, an increase of 5.81 per cent.

Paid fares of the Chicago Rapid Transit [elevated] lines in November totaled 17,123,616, compared with 16,530,932 a year ago, an increase of 3.5 per cent. Fares in the 11 months totaled 185,127,238, an increase of 5.3 per cent.

EASTERN AIR RENEWS RICKENBACKER'S JOB FOR 10 MORE YEARS

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—The management contract of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president and general manager of Eastern Air Lines, has been renewed by the board of directors for 10 years, the company announced today.



Eddie Rickenbacker

Rickenbacker became general manager of Eastern Air Lines division of North American Aviation in 1934 and was made president and general manager in 1938 when the present company was organized.

Eastern is engaged in a broad expansion program which includes applications for extension of present domestic lines to the Pacific coast, Canada, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and St. Paul, Minn., and the establishment of foreign lines to Mexico, the Caribbean, and Latin-America.

U. S. SPENDING CUT, PRICE RISE URGED BY EMERY

Business men should press for an immediate limited rise in prices and a drastic reduction in federal expenditures to fight inflation, De Witt Emery, president of the National Small Business Men's association, said yesterday.

At the national convention of silo manufacturers in the Palmer House, Emery explained that higher prices would mean more goods, and reduced government spending less money in circulation.

Emery recalled he had suggested to President Truman in September that all manufacturers, wholesalers, dealers, and retailers be permitted to fix their own prices, provided no increases were more than 15 per cent from October, 1941, and the OPA could require justification of these prices. He said this would not be inflationary, because it would stimulate production and work toward reducing the oversupply of money caused partly by vast government spending. Inflation, he explained, was caused by an undersupply of goods and oversupply of money.

U. S. WILL SEEK ALIEN LABOR TO HELP FARMERS

Shortage of farm labor will continue critical next year, but there will be no shortage of food, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said at a press conference in the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

Surveys at separation centers indicate that many farm youths leaving the army are not going to return to agricultural work, the secretary said.

"We have asked for an appropriation of 14 million dollars to continue bringing foreign labor groups to this country to help with the harvest in areas where the labor shortage is critical," the secretary explained. "Around 70,000 Jamaicans, Bahamans, and Mexicans will be brought into the country, if we can get the money."

Charges Spiegel Violation of Child Labor Regulation

A criminal information charging Spiegel, Inc., with violating the child labor provisions of the fair labor standards act was filed in United States District court yesterday by Assistant United States Atty. Raymond L. McClory. He said the company had more than 100 employes 13, 14, and 15 years old in four warehouses between September, 1944, and May, 1945.

Groups included in the report, other than those mentioned: Building materials and equipment, chemicals and allied products, food and related products, metal and glass containers and household utensils, miscellaneous manufacturing, nonferrous metals, shipbuilding, textiles and textile products, and tires and other rubber products.

2 RYE OPTIONS BREAK 5 CENTS ON OPA RULING

December and May rye futures broke 5 cents a bushel yesterday, the permissible limit for one day's trading, in leading markets as the result of selling induced by an office of price administration ruling Saturday that the ceiling price on both new and old crop rye after June 1 would be $1.42 a bushel, Chicago basis. Closing trades were at the bottom. July rye on the Chicago Board of Trade closed unchanged at the ceiling and September was 2½ cents lower. After the close, tenders of 320,000 bushels of rye were made on December contracts.

The break in rye had a depressing effect on other grains. Wheat closed ⅛ to ¼ lower on the active deliveries, with the December and May options, all deliveries of corn, and December barley unchanged at ceiling prices. Oats finished ¼ higher to ⅛ lower, the former on December. Barley was unchanged to ¼ lower.

STOCK PRICES SWING HIGHER; VOLUME LARGE

Motors, Aviations Heavily Bought

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—A last minute rush of buying in motors, steels, aviations, and assorted industrials, and some selling of rails and pivotals put the stock market ticker tape a minute late today and raised turnover to 2,610,000 shares, the peak level since June 28. Prices closed higher.

Selected air transports led in activity as optimism over future business influenced purchasers and inspired short covering. Stocks of automotive companies and others faced by strikes and wage controversies came to life when President Truman sent his message to congress recommending settlement procedures for labor disputes.

The price of exchange membership rose to the highest level since 1937 when one sold for $90,000, up $1,000 from a transaction reported a few hours earlier. This was the peak since $93,000 on July 20, 1937.

The Associated Press 60 stock average rose 0.3 at 76.2, a top since April 14, 1931. The industrials were up 0.9 at 100.6, highest since March 9, 1937. The rails were unchanged and utilities were down 0.1.

The Associated Press average of 20 rails edged to a new high since 1937 at 102.8 and the 10 low-yield bonds reached a new peak at 116.8. Sales of $6,270,000 compared with $8,040,000 last Friday.

ASKS CANADIAN LOAN TO RESTORE EUROPE'S TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 3—Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley today asked the Canadian house of commons to appropriate another 650 million dollars for loans to European countries, including Russia, to allow them to "purchase supplies in Canada" and to "reëstablish their export trade." One hundred million was appropriated previously.

None of this money, he said, will go to Great Britain, which has set an embargo against many Canadian manufactured products to keep Canadian dollars.

Ilsley explained that no Canadian loans to Britain will be discussed until the British-American loan negotiations in Washington have been completed. "We expect that Canada will a little later provide a large credit to the United Kingdom," he said.

OPA Reported Planning Newsprint Ceiling Hike

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3 [Special]—OPA plans Friday to announce an increase of about $5 a ton in newsprint ceiling prices, it was learned today. Altho the purpose of any price boost would be to restore earnings of United States mills to prewar levels, the increase would apply to Canadian producers. This policy always has been followed in newsprint price adjustments.

EXPANSION AHEAD FOR THE BUILDING INDUSTRY

Prospects for the building industry for the next five years are brighter than in all our history. So say the experts.

Annual estimates of new construction running from twelve billion to fifteen billion dollars in the next few years are made by government and private authorities. These estimates embody the residential, commercial, industrial, public works and public utility classifications. Many different divisions of the building industry may be expected to benefit from this anticipated upsurge of activity.

We have prepared a 40-page survey and analysis of thirty-two important companies operating in these divisions. Their stocks have been selected because, in our opinion, they offer opportunities for capital gain over the longer term. This report is available on request.

Lake Ships Will Go to Chile to Establish Merchant Marine

Two steamships that proudly plowed the Great Lakes for many seasons will plow the drainage canal this week on the first leg of a cruise to Chile to establish a new merchant marine for that country. With two other lakes ships, they will replace four vessels sold by Chile to the United States during the war.

More ships to build up South American shipping, which before the war was largely supplied by European interests, and to promote trade with North America are being built on the Atlantic coast and in Canada. Brazil's nationally owned steamship lines have ordered 14 ships from the Ingalls Shipbuilding corporation and 10 from Canadian Vickers.

Two Caught by Strike

The four lakes ships destined for Chile are the F. W. Sargent, George D. Dixon, A. H. Smith, and Utica, formerly operated by the Great Lakes Transit corporation. The Dixon got thru the river and canal before a strike of tugboat crews halted towing in Chicago port. The Sargent and Utica arrived in Chicago just in time to get caught by the strike.

Both were stripped of their deck rigging so they could pass under the Sag bridge across the canal. The Sargent was left without heat and light and during the four weeks it lay at the river mouth its crew members existed as if they had been marooned, said M. H. Ehlert, Chilean consul.

"At one time they ran short of food and my office staff and I had to rustle up some ration points," Ehlert said.

One to Start Today

With the tug strike ended, the ships are ready for their introduction to salt water. The Sargent was scheduled to start today and the Utica Thursday.

Chile had no merchant ships left when the war ended, Ehlert said. The ships from the lakes have been modernized and adapted to deep sea use.

The Brazilian order was hailed in the current issue of the Nautical Gazette as significant in relationships between the two countries. Referring to the 37 million dollar deal with the Ingalls corporation, the publication said:

"This in itself set a precedent for trade between our country and South America, for it was the first large order ever given a United States shipyard by a South American country."

Brazil plans to operate the ships, along with six identical ones being built in Canada, between South American ports and New York and New Orleans. They will transport coffee and vegetable oils on the run north and return with cargoes of manufactured products.

Besides the six Canadian ships under construction, which are 7,500 tons each, four smaller ships already have been delivered to Brazil by Canadian Vickers.

Carbonic Joins Gen. Tire for Refrigerators

Liquid Carbonic corporation, pioneer Chicago manufacturer of commercial refrigeration equipment, and the General Tire and Rubber company, Akron, O., will join their production and distribution facilities to produce a combination home refrigerator and freezing unit, they announced yesterday.

Management will be vested in Frostor, a division of General Tire, which will provide the distribution and sales facilities. Liquid Carbonic will provide engineering and manufacturing services.

Three Sections in One Unit

The new unit will be built along the general lines of the conventional refrigerator, but will be divided in three parts. The top section, with 7½ cubic feet of space, will correspond to the customary home refrigerator. Below it will be the ice making section. The bottom compartment, with 3½ cubic feet of space, will be the freezer or frozen food section. The top section will be kept constant at 40 degrees, the freezer at zero, and the ice section below zero.

For those with above average freezer needs, Frostor will produce a companion home cabinet with 10 cubic feet of frozen storage space. It will be an upright type with four inner doors.

Factory in Morrison, Ill.

The models will be produced in a 1 million dollar factory now under construction at Morrison, Ill. The date of its completion and its size were not disclosed.

Other details, including prices, production quotas, and dates for dealer showings also were withheld pending further developments.

PLAN TO BREAK UP ALCOA HELD INDUSTRY CURB

Warning of Effect on Jobs Made

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—Chairman Arthur V. Davis of Aluminum Company of America said today the department of justice's aluminum program "is bound to destroy the growth possibilities of the aluminum industry" and sacrifice the chance to expand employment.

Arthur V. Davis

In a letter to Atty. Gen. Clark, Davis said: "It just doesn't make sense to seek military security by breaking up Alcoa in order to substitute for it a number of smaller and less efficient producers.

Assails Line of Thinking

"It is more than curious that there is a school of thought in the United States which would break up its most efficient producer of aluminum under the cloak of national defense, while our statesmen and military leaders are similarly breaking up the great aluminum companies of Germany and Japan in order to keep those nations permanently weak. We have yet to hear of any military authorities urging the breakup of Alcoa."

The letter was a reply to Clark's

TVA'S NEW PLAN: SQUEEZE JUICE INTO CUSTOMERS

War End Brings Surplus of Electricity

BY ARTHUR EVANS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Chattanooga, Tenn., Dec. 3—A post-war surplus of electricity is expected by the Tennessee valley authority for a time, because of the doubling of its kilowatt capacity during the war.

A market for the surplus will be sought thru an effort to get new customers, by attempting to induce old ones to use more appliances and electricity, by encouraging new industries to come in, and by emphasizing the program for resource development in the seven state region which TVA holds is the core of the experiment. Temporary sales to private companies in adjacent states, which have made great industrial advances altho with little TVA service, may also help absorb the surplus, TVA officials say.

Increase Is Tenfold

The war period found the TVA region with 10½ times as much electricity in 1944 as 1933, when TVA started. Thruout the United States, 1944 electric production was 2.7 times as much as in 1933. In the 11 southeast states, where industrial expansion was well on its way years before 1933, three and a half times as many kilowatts are generated now as in that year.

Gross revenues from TVA's power sales in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1945, were about 39 million dollars. For the year ending next June gross sales are estimated by the TVA at 32 millions, and for 1947, 33 millions.

In the valley of the Tennessee, TVA seems to be generally accepted as a matter of fact phase of life. As of Oct. 1, 698 million dollars had been invested in the experiment in a planned economy based upon control of electric energy. TVA pays no interest on the federal funds poured into the valley. It does not pay federal taxes, and critics point out that consumers in the valley get the advantage in low rates while tax payers elsewhere over the country pay the frate.

Find Some Dissenters

In Knoxville and Chattanooga, however, one notices a current of sentiment in some groups that the planned economy experiment in seven states is a paternalism not in keeping with the American system of free enterprise and individual initiative. They assert TVA, apart from its great engineering accomplishments, has done little if anything that private enterprise could not do.

They express fear of what may happen to American freedom if the ideas of a super-government system in control of a monopoly of electric energy were established in the proposed Missouri valley authority bill now before congress, and in other valleys such as the Columbia, the Colorado, and the Arkansas.

TVA has been expanded until it covers some 80,000 square miles. It operates in the Cumberland river basin as well as the Tennessee, and includes the Nashville and Memphis areas. In Tennessee, it controls all areas except one or two spots in the hills, and so the state may be taken as a measure of what has happened in the industry and economy of the 11 southeast states. The valley itself improved somewhat more than all Tennessee and less than some other states under private enterprises.

Figures on the Valley

In the 56,000 square miles of the valley proper, TVA's industrial department shows that in the pre-war years the number of industries grew from 1,348 in 1933 to 2,069 in 1939, or about 53 per cent. In all Tennessee the rise was 47 per cent.

Mississippi's industries grew 76 per cent; Alabama's, 55 per cent, and North Carolina's, with little TVA electricity, 54 per cent.

Per capita income in the 122 valley counties rose from $148 in 1933 to $239 in 1939, a 62 per cent increase. In the United States it rose from $368 to $539, or 46 per cent. In all Tennessee counties the increase was 55 per cent. In the seven TVA states the rise was from $193 to $292, or 51 per cent. The valley itself was notably backward in its economy when TVA was launched. In the six years that have followed the increase in the valley it does not appear to reflect, as much as it perhaps might, the golden tide of government funds.

LOSS ON STANDARD GAS

I have a loss on Standard Gas and Electric company common stock which I should like to charge off as worthless in my tax return for 1945.—L. H.

A curious situation has developed for tax purposes in relation to Standard Gas and Electric common. The bureau of internal revenue informed the company by letter last Sept. 18 that in its opinion the stock became worthless for such purposes in 1944 because the securities and exchange commission on May 29 of that year ruled that "the common stock had no equity and its holders were not entitled to participate under the [reorganization] plan."

Currently, however, the stock has a market over the counter, with quotations recently 2½ bid, 2¾ asked. The company's plan to submit a revised reorganization program, in view of the rise in value of certain of its security holdings since 1944, appears to have revived some speculative interest in the common. The Standard Gas announcement, however, said the new program contemplates a recapitalization "as related to the preferred stocks" and included no definite promise for the common.

If the revenue bureau's ruling stands, the loss can be charged off, under limitations relating to capital losses, in an amended computation of the 1944 tax. If there was overpayment for that year a claim for refund may be filed. An excess of allowable capital losses over the amount deductible in that year can be carried over to each of the succeeding five years.

After the stock is written off as worthless the cost basis in event of subsequent sale becomes zero for tax purposes.

Davis Warns of Effect on Employment

report to congress in September saying Alcoa should be split into several competing companies. Clark contended more competition in the aluminum industry is essential to national security and business.

"Both the purpose and effect of the plan of the department of justice is to break up Alcoa because of its low cost of production and to substitute regional clusters of plants, each with costs and selling prices materially higher than those now in effect," said Davis.

Needed to Expand Employment

"This may meet the department's ideological objective of an Alcoa which cannot manufacture or sell cheaper than its competitors, but it seems to us that it destroys opportunity for either Alcoa or its competitors to create or capture those post-war markets which the aluminum industry must have in order to utilize the existing economical productive capacity and thereby expand employment.

"The true road to competition does not lie in breaking up a highly efficient corporation like Alcoa, but in finding some one willing to do what Alcoa has done; namely, invest money, time, enterprise, and imagination in constructing an equally efficient company."

V. F. W. MEMBERS JOIN GIFT TO YANK PROGRAM

Scores of Groups Send Requests for Names

BY HARRY McCLAIN

Illinois Veterans of Foreign Wars yesterday joined thousands of other Tribune readers in the Friend of the Yanks' program to send Christmas gifts to wounded and sick service men in army and navy hospitals.

Thru Paul Branks, 3212 N. Tripp av., department of Illinois commander; Ben F. Griffy, 6316 Warrick av., supreme national vice commander, Military Order of the Cootie, fun organization of the V. F. W., and Arthur B. Glessner, 1600 Hinman av., Evanston, commander of Cook county council, the overseas veterans agreed to send Christmas gifts to 500 patients.

Groups Request Names

A tremendous mail yesterday also brought scores of requests for names from organized groups—clubs, lodges, schools, churches, and Boy and Girl Scouts.

Names of all patients in 21 hospitals in 10 states will be collected by the Friend of the Yanks before the end of the week. As soon as the cards, on which the wounded and sick will write their names, are returned to Chicago they will be mailed to readers. Virtually every one who has asked for a name or names will have them by next Monday.

When Tribune readers receive their cards bearing the name of the patient to whom they will send a gift they also will receive a second card. On the second card they should write their names and addresses and then inclose the card in their gift package.

Names Still Available

When the hospital patients open their gift packages the day before Christmas they need only add their names and the indorsement "free" to make the cards mailable as service men's mail. There also is space on the cards for messages of acknowlement and gift senders may accept return of their card as evidence of delivery to their soldier, sailor, or marine.

Because the military hospitals will not be able to return the patients' name cards for a few days there still is time for Tribune readers to request a name. Names may be obtained by mailing the coupon in an adjoining column with a stamped, addressed envelope to the Friend of The Yanks, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

VOTE $335,000 FOR WATER AT VETS' HOUSING

The city council yesterday appropriated $335,000 to provide water and sewage for two veteran's housing sites, one near 79th st. and Keeler av. and the other near Foster and Milwaukee avs. The appropriation was made without delay in order to speed the housing projects.

The two sites will provide nearly 1,500 homes for veterans. The council was informed that Chicago will get 1,000 trailers from Oak Ridge, Tenn., at a yearly rental of $1 for each trailer. The city will have to finance the transportation of the trailers to Chicago.

The city officials indicated that the trailers would be used temporarily until plans for the erection of portable homes have been completed. The portable homes will be the kind used at war plants.

$500 FUR COAT STOLEN

JUDGE DEMANDS SPEED IN PICKING NISCHT JURORS

Judge Charles E. Byrne of the Criminal court threatened yesterday to hold night sessions unless state and defense lawyers sped up their selection of the jury to try Joseph Nischt, 31, south side janitor, charged with the furnace murder of Mrs. Rose Michaelis, elderly housewife.

In spite of the court's admonition, examination of veniremen dragged out as before. A new element was added, however, in the apparent disinclination of jurors to be locked up with Christmas approaching. Last week defense and prosecution freely rejected jurors. Yesterday one juror after another disqualified himself or herself by professing opinion of scruples against the death penalty.

Nischt is accused of killing Mrs. Michaelis last Feb. 28 by beating her and burning her alive in the building furnace at 6855 Clyde av., where she lived and where he was janitor.

LAG IN HIRING 200 POLICE BLAMED ON WARD BOSSES

BY ORVILLE DWYER

With more than 8,000 men applying for jobs, appointment of 200 temporary policemen has been held up since Mayor Kelly asked the city council finance committee to hire them Oct. 24 because Democratic ward committeemen are reported battling over the appointments.

The mayor said the 200 men would be given schooling and salaries of $2,598 for the first year. He added they would be given opportunity to take the civil service examination and permanent places on the department as soon as such places opened.

Argument Delays Appointments

City hall attaches said yesterday the mayor's program has been held up ever since he announced it because the 50 Democratic ward committeemen who have the privilege of naming the candidates for the temporary jobs can't agree on the appointees.

Equally apportioned among the ward captains, each would be permitted to name four. It was understood, however, that some of the more powerful committeemen were demanding the right to name more than others, some demanding as many as 10. At the same time the ward bosses were said to be wrangling about whose appointees were to go to what districts—some of the districts being more desirable than others because of better chances for "making extra money."

Denies Captains Arguing

Henry Sonnenschein, clerk of the Superior court and Democratic committeeman of the 22d ward, said there were no arguments among the captains as far as he knew.

"I understand the appointments have been held up because of the large number of men who have applied for the 200 places," Sonnenschein said.

"I recommended every man who asked me to help him get an appointment. I was surprised to learn so many wanted jobs in the police department and I wanted to be fair with them all. I understand the Democratic committeemen recommended 5,000 applicants, which made the total approximately 8,000."

Police Commissioner Allman would not admit that there was any clash among the committeemen about the appointments or that they had anything to do with the matter.

Trial Is Begun

A panel of three men and a woman was accepted by the prosecution and the defense yesterday as selection of a jury was begun before Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court for the trial of Donald J. Cook, 16, former Senn High school student, charged with the murder of Morton Stein, 16.

Cook watched calmly as George R. Bieber, one of his three defense attorneys, and Asst. State's Atty. Richard Austin questioned veniremen. Bieber indicated that Cook will plead self defense. Austin, while not qualifying the jurors to give the death penalty, cautioned them that they must not be influenced by the defendant's good looks in their judgment. Cook, in a police confession, said he killed Stein in the Stevens hotel in a quarrel concerning proposed burglaries.

Accepted as jurors yesterday were: Mrs. Mary J. Wesolek, 31, of 8506 Muskegon av., a salad maker; George L. Rutz, 31, of 6407 S. Claremont av., meat packing employe; Edward A. Keyser, 35, of 7156 Rhodes av., a steel worker, and Irwin Hopp, 36, of 339 W. 70th st., a foundry worker.

CITY BUROCRATS ASK 90 MILLIONS; CUT 25 MILLIONS

City Clerk Schreiber yesterday presented to the city council a red jacketed book containing departmental estimates for the 1946 budget and revisions downward suggested by Robert B. Upham, city controler.

Department heads, according to Schreiber, have requested a total of $90,287,696 for 1946 operating expenses, the highest total in the history of the city. Upham slashed the figure to $65,787,913.

Ald. Bowler [25th], chairman of the council finance committee, said that the committee would begin its annual study of the budget today, hoping to complete its work by Dec. 15.

TELLS THREATS IN WAUKEGAN GAMBLING 'FINES'

In a renewed blast against gambling in Waukegan, Ald. Walter Tannahill [7th] told the city council last night that at a secret meeting of the council police committee last Thursday night he had been told some one "might take a pot shot at me" unless he ceased his protests.

Three weeks ago Ald. Tannahill called on Mayor Frank G. Wallin to demand the resignation of Chief of Police Bart Tyrrell on the ground that Tyrrell, by countenancing a system of monthly "fines" for handbooks and other gambling establishments, was failing to enforce the law.

"I was told at the committee meeting that if I opened my mouth about gambling again I would be accused of dishonesty. Well, some time ago I used some city equipment for repairing my driveway, furnishing the materials myself, and if that is what they mean, let them go ahead."

Ald. Anton Urban [1st], chairman of the council police committee, denied that the committee meeting to which Tannahill referred had been secret. Mayor Wallin then ruled further discussion out of order, because no motion was pending.

WIFE DENIED USE OF YANK'S NAME FOR NEXT CHILD

For the first time in the history of the Chicago courts a married prospective mother yesterday was enjoined from listing her husband as the baby's father in hospital records or on a birth certificate.

She is Mrs. Merle Elizabeth Beck, 27, of 5770 N. E. Circle av., Norwood Park, defendant in a divorce bill filed in Superior court by Lt. Alfred A. Beck, 31, of the army, which charges her with adultery. She has denied the charges. They have two children.

Judge Edwin A. Robson also awarded Beck the custody of the two children, Alfred Jr., 7, and Timothy, 3.

3 North Side Streets Made One Way Routes

The city council yesterday passed an ordinance restricting three north side streets to one way traffic. They are: Germania pl., west bound between Clark and La Salle sts.; Schiller st., east bound between La Salle st. and Lake Shore dr.; Goethe st., west bound between Lake Shore dr. and Clark st. The ordinance will become effective within the next few days.

SERGEANT FOUND DEAD ON RAILROAD

Sgt. W. D. Vickrey, 25, a member of Company E, 334th engineers, was found dead on the Erie railroad right of way at 51st and Wallace sts. last night. He apparently had been struck by a train.

Divorces Sailor

MRS. MILDRED BARNETT

Mrs. Mildred O. Barnett, 25, of 2218 N. Kedvale av., a typist, yesterday won a divorce before Judge Edwin A. Robson in Superior court from her husband, Carl, 19, of Marion, O., a sailor. She testified, under questioning by Harry X. Cole, her attorney, that she married Barnett Sept. 24, 1943, after he proposed to her by mail. When she accepted, she said, he went absent without leave from San Diego to visit her and wouldn't return to his base until she married him. Later he wrote that he wasn't coming back to her, she said. Mrs. Barnett waived alimony, and was granted restoration of her maiden name of Olsen.

ASK COUNCIL GROUP TO STUDY BUILDING CODE

A joint resolution introduced in the city council yesterday by Aldermen Cowhey [41st] and Merryman [45th] requested the mayor to appoint a special council committee to work on modernization of the city's building code. Purpose of the measure, Cowhey said, is to facilitate building operations during the next decade. The measure was referred to the committee on building and zoning.

Cowhey also proposed halting of the use by pleasure craft of the Chicago river on weekdays, where it would be necessary to raise bridges to permit their passage.

The council directed the committee on licenses, headed by Ald. Rostenkowski [32d], to review an ordinance regulating juke boxes. The current ordinance recently was knocked out by the state Supreme court, which held that it combined police and revenue powers.

SWISS RECOGNIZE SYRIA

PARIS, Dec. 3 [Reuters]—Switzerland has recognized the independence of Syria and the Lebanon. Notes to this effect were signed today.

COUNTY OFFICES TOLD: BUDGETS ASK TOO MUCH

Daniel Ryan, chairman of the county board's finance committee, warned yesterday that it will be impossible to grant all increases requested by office department heads if the 1946 county budget is to be kept within the limits of anticipated revenue.

He made his statement after conferring with Frank Venecek, superintendent of the Oak Forest infirmary, who is seeking 25 additional employes for the coming year in a budget which Ryan said was $400,000 higher than last year's.

Another official who asked an increase in 1946 appropriations was Manus McCloskey, warden of County hospital. He requested $3,302,000, an increase of $565,000, exclusive of the nursing service, which cost about two million dollars in the previous budget.

The county finance committee is attempting to keep the budget within the anticipated revenue of 25 million dollars.

'46 CITY BUDGET MAY TOP LAST YEAR'S RECORD

The city council finance committee will begin hearings today on the city's 1946 budget. Estimates prepared by City Controller Robert B. Upham and requests made by the department heads indicate the budget will surpass by several million dollars last year's record appropriation of $64,647,944.

Estimates prepared by the controller call for expenditures of $65,787,913 from the corporate purposes fund and an additional 4½ million dollars from the vehicle tax fund. These estimates are in contrast to requests from department heads totaling approximately 95 million dollars.

The controller's estimates do not call for pay increases except in the skilled trades and in the teamsters' groups which were given increases by the war labor board. The police and fire departments have asked for a 20 per cent raise, or a total appropriation of 37 million dollars. The controller lopped 5 million dollars from their estimated budgets.
